SIX KILLED AS INDIA BOWS AT FEET OF GANDHI

'Holy Man' Says Salt War Must Go On.

[Copyrighted, 1931: By the Associated Press.]

BOMBAY, British India, Jan. 27.—Mahatma Gandhi, toothless, shriveled, wraith of a man, sat cross legged on a cow floor today, serving notice on the British empire that India's campaign of civil disobedience would continue unabated, while outside a frantic crowd mad for a glimpse of him, struggled so furiously that a woman was crushed to death.

Naked but for a homespun loin cloth, he leaned against a hay mattress in the center of a circle of newspaper men, an expression of deep melancholy on his ascetic face, but an almost spiritual light in his eyes.

"We can suspend judgment on Prime Minister MacDonald's statement at the round table conference at London," he said, "but we cannot suspend the activities of the Indian Congress politically."

Will Keep Up Tax War.

Regardless of Mr. MacDonald's proposals and of the approaching peace talks with delegates returning from the round table conference, he said, all activities of the nationalists—the boycott on foreign cloth, the refusal to pay taxes, the picketing of shops—will continue.

In a feeble voice almost lost in the roar of the thousands outside he gave his emphatic endorsement to last week's resolution of the congress party demanding immediate measures for establishment of India's full independence.

His shawlike hands, wasted by repeated fastings, toyed with a spinning wheel or waved a benediction over the long lines of fanatical devotees who entered the room to touch the apostle's bare knee. As they approached him these common men and women of India prostrated themselves before him as though he were a reincarnation of Rama, the Hindu's god of gods.

Woman Crushed to Death.

The police were helpless, so great was the mob which had come to see Gandhi. The woman who was killed was crushed against a wall and trampled. Thirty-one others were serjously injured and the confusion was so great that Gandhi could not address the multitude from the balcony of his home.

These were not the only casualties of the day. At Patna, in Bengal, 10,000 natives celebrating the anniversary of the nationalist declaration of independence charged a detachment of police who had arrested several of their number. The police opened fire and five natives were killed.

Elaborated His Policy.

Speaking excellent English and weighing every word carefully, the little man elaborated the first statement of policy he has made since he was released last night from the prison at Poona where he spent nearly nine months.

"Even if after our conference with the delegates coming home from the round table conference it is found that the prime minister's statement affords sufficient ground for the congress party to suspend its noncooperation movement," he said, "the party cannot abandon the right to picket liquor and drug shops and those selling foreign cloth. Nor can the right of India's starving millions to make their own salt be given up."

It was for making salt in defiance of the British law that Gandhi was sent to prison.

Must Have Free Salt.

"The execution of these three fundamental rights is not intended to register the resistance of the Indian nation to British rule. It is intended to achieve these ends for all time, regardless of the outcome of the forthcoming peace conversations.

"No amount of good will established between Great Britain and India will, in so far as I can see, reconcile the Indian people to the evils of alcohol and foreign cloth, and the refusal of the government to allow the peasants to make their own salt."

Gandhi said he had lost seven pounds during the nine months in prison, but that he feels better now than when he began his sentence last May.

Enjoyed Life in Prison.

"I was a pampered prisoner," he added. "The prison officials were extremely kind to me, but, of course, I was isolated from my associates in the congress party and it was impossible for me to see those near and dear to me. Whatever comforts I enjoyed were really mental torture to me, for I was conscious of the fact that other prisoners were suffering."

Nevertheless, he said, if the ap-

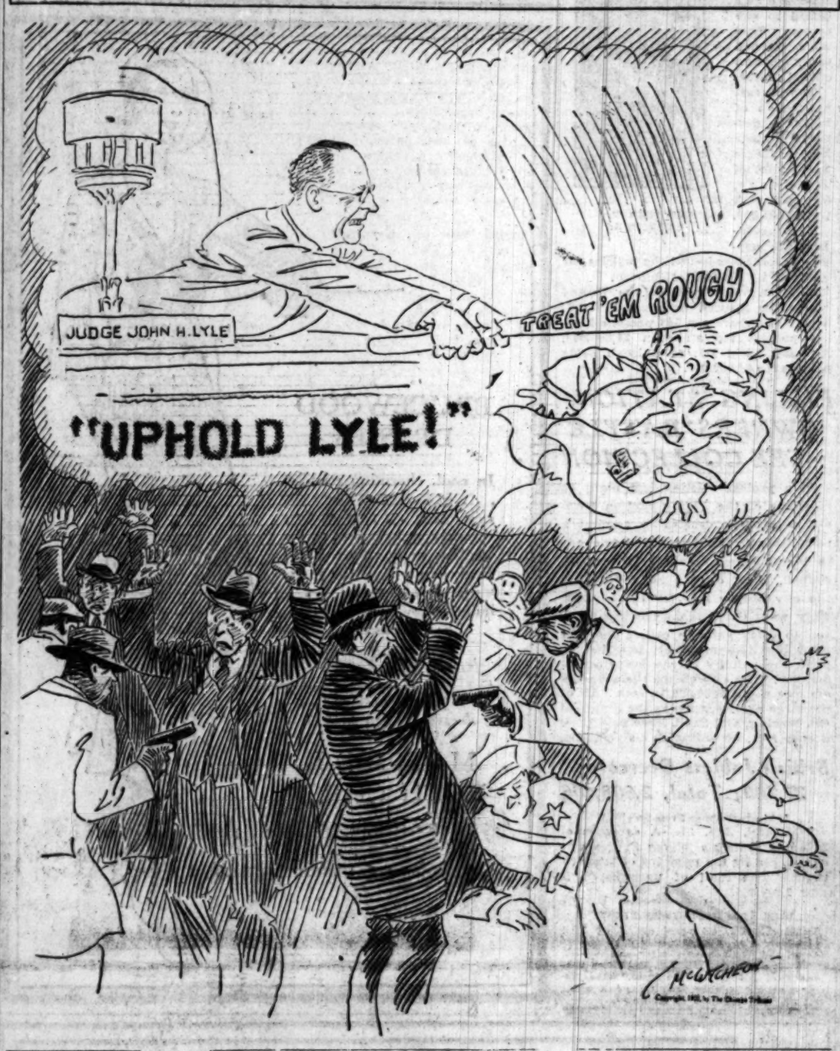
WHAT THE VICTIMS OF A DARING DAYLIGHT HOLDUP THINK ABOUT



Preachers Bar Fee Split with Taxi Cupids

Last night nineteen pastors and five justices of the peace of Waukegan and North Chicago met and adopted resolutions to do something about the coöperative activities of taxi drivers and those "authorized to solemnize marriages" in the matter of eloping couples.

Waukegan in the last year has become the Gretna Green of Chicagoans romantically inclined, attracting practically all of the business that formerly went by moonlight to Crown Point and Valparaiso, Ind. The marriages average 17 a day.

Code of Ethics Adopted.

The resolutions, drawn up at a meeting presided over by the Rev. Ellis Cowling, president of the Ministerial association of Waukegan and North Chicago, read in part:

"Whereas, certain reprehensible practices have arisen in our community tending to lower the solemnization of marriage to the level of a commercial transaction, and to give offense to all concerned in the ceremony . . . wherefore, be it resolved that we do hereby affirm the following code of ethics which shall govern our practice:

"1. It is unethical for any person authorized to solemnize marriage to offer or give any inducement to any taxi driver or other persons to bring couples to him to be married.

"2. All persons desiring to be married have the full and free right to select whom they will to perform the marriage."

Justice Wright Is a Holdout.

The only justice of the peace not to sign the resolutions was Walter D. Wright. Questioned last night, he said:

"Why be a hypocrite? The rest of them have been splitting with the cab drivers. It's business."

Justice Wright then explained that while the state fee is $2, the elopers always hand over $5.

"I give the taxi driver $2.50 as his share," he said. "The rest of them would only kick in with $2. So the drivers brought me the trade. That's why they're sore."

Roxy Will Retire from Management of Theater

New York, Jan. 27.—(AP)—The long rumored resignation of S. L. Rothafel [Roxy] from the management of the Roxy theater became a fact tonight when the board of directors announced they had agreed to terminate his contract, effective March 31. Roxy will serve in an advisory capacity, the announcement said.

U. S. TO MODIFY LIQUOR RULING FOR THE DENTIST

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—The regulation requiring physicians to specify on the stub of liquor permits for permanent record at Washington the nature of the ailment for which whisky or permissive liquor is prescribed, has been dispensed with, according to Dr. James M. Doran, director of the bureau of industrial alcohol, in the treasury department.

Dr. Doran said tonight that the revised regulation was contained in a circular just sent out to permit supervisors in twelve administrative districts throughout the country for their private guidance.

This change is the result of protests by physicians that such reports violates medical ethics.

Dr. Doran also disclosed that other changes will give dentists the same quantity of whisky for office use as now permitted to physicians, namely, twelve pints annually.

Other changes will liberalize the prescription of liquor by physicians.

Circus Clown for 60 Years, Jules Is Dead

New York, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Jules Turnour, who made millions of young and old children laugh in his sixty years of circus clowning, is dead.

Old Jules quit the ring two years ago when it grew too luxurious for him. He was born in a circus wagon in a blistering July afternoon in Spain, and in his eighty years had grown fond of the showman's hardships.

It was when the girders of the new Madison Square Garden took the place of the big top that Turnour saw the life wasn't what it used to be.

Belonged to Old School.

There will be mourning in the high places for Jules Turnour. He had performed for royalty in almost every land. They tell the story that he was a favorite of President Herbert Hoover for a very particular reason.

It takes the present executive back to a little Iowa town on circus day. The long line of wagons rolled into town and pitched their spreading canvas right on Father Hoover's lot. Little Herbert was sick.

Old Jules solved it all. He put on his tall black hat, inflated his trick balloon and rolled his huge rubber ball over to the dooryard. Herbert was lifted to the window and the show was on.

Father a Circus Man.

Jules' father was a circus acrobat, his mother a premiere danseuse of London and Paris fame, who gave up her career to be with her husband on the road.

Jules was apprenticed to a small European circus when he was six. Later he traveled around the world with the Burr Robbins outfit and joined Ringling Brothers in 1889. Eventually P. T. Barnum sent Jules a contract.

His end came Sunday at Valley Stream, N. Y., in the home to which he had retired two years ago.

POLICE SQUADS COMB CITY FOR HOLDUP GANGS

Church Robbed

Forty men and women meeting in the basement of St. Hedwig's Catholic church at 2226 North Hoyne avenue, under auspices of Community No. 1, Polish Union of America, were suddenly thrown into a panic late last night when four armed men burst in upon them.

The robbers quickly herded the men and women into one section of the rooms. Two of them covered the members with guns while their associates searched the men.

From Leo Doman, 2310 South Trumbull avenue, secretary of the union, the gunmen took $18. A few dollars were taken from John Bunda, 1910 South 51st avenue, Cicero, the president. The total loot amounted to approximately $100.

GANGS AT LARGE

Heavily armed police squads searched over the city last night for bandit suspects in an effort to combat holdup men whose activities were climaxed by two bold raids on big stores by gangs of gunmen.

In the first a money guard was slain and his aid wounded while defending $18,000 in receipts of Hillman's Pure Food store, 24 West Washington street, from three gunmen on Saturday night, and in the second, on Monday afternoon, a policeman and a bystander were wounded in a battle with five bandits who raided the Wieboldt store, 3231 Lincoln avenue, and escaped with $19,200 in receipts.

Five Held by Police.

Five men were held for questioning by Chief of Detectives John Norton in connection with the Wieboldt shooting and robbery. Three of these are Paul Pozdel, 45 years old, and his brother, John, of 1917 North Gerard street, and Fred Pozdel, 20 years old, of 1725 North Francisco avenue, their nephew. They are relatives of Joseph Andrafco, 32 years old, 2505 North Long avenue, the bystander who was wounded in the holdup.

The other two held are Joseph Sommers, 20 years old, 1952 West 21st street, and Jack Patrick, 27 years old, 1902 South Sangamon street, who were captured on the west side last night and are held at the detective bureau as suspects in connection with the Wieboldt and Hillman store holdups.

Sergt. William Shea seized Sommers, who, he said, is a minor police character, and Patrick was arrested by Sergt. Edward Tyrrell. Both men, police said, were acting suspiciously.

Police Explain Arrests.

Detectives said the Pozdels were seized because of kinship with Andrafco, and because the latter happened to be shot during the crime. Two other Pozdels, Theodore, 17 years old, and Walter, 18, the former a son of Paul Pozdel and the latter a nephew, also were arrested, but were released last night after satisfying authorities of their innocence.

The police theory for the seizure of the suspects, as expressed by Chief Norton, is based on a failure to understand why Andrafco was in the neighborhood of the robbery, and why he went to the aid of the policemen.

Holdup During Rush Hour.

The holdup was committed during the rush hour at the Wieboldt store, and on the main floor near the School street entrance. Policeman William Binder and Policeman James Wesson, with revolvers in hand, walked alongside George Hanson and Frank Reisel, guards employed by the Citizens' State bank, 3228 Lincoln avenue, to convoy a $19,200 deposit. As they neared the door five gunmen tackled them. Wesson's pistol was knocked to the floor. Andrafco, standing near by, tried to retrieve it. He said he meant to help the policemen. He was shot. Binder also was wounded and shot one of the outlaws.

"What I want to know," commented Norton last night, "is why Andrafco should try to play the hero."

Find Stolen Automobile.

Another development of the day's investigation was the finding of the stolen automobile used by the bandits in the Wieboldt holdup. The machine, stolen early Monday from James Anderson of 1741 Washington street, Wilmette, was recovered at Clark street and Cornelia avenue. The rear seat was stained with blood, verifying Policeman Binder's report that he had wounded one of the bandits.

The car was searched for incriminating finger prints but none was

Democrats in Senate Wave Olive Branch

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—With 31 working days of this session of congress still to run, the regular Democrats in the senate today exhibited a new and surprising complaisance. They made it clear that the only issue on which they will stand pat, and, if need be, force an extra session, is that of adequate relief.

If the $25,000,000 Red Cross appropriation pending before a house committee is finally approved by the administration the regular Democrats will fall in line. This was indicated today by Senator Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.], minority leader.

Today's session in the senate wiped prohibition from the slate of contentious matters and proved that if Muscle Shoals is to be the rallying point of an extra session move the filibusterers will have to be recruited largely from radical Republicans.

House Bill Buried.

It was Senator Robinson again who voiced the stand of the Democratic regulars on these two issues. He supported a motion to sidetrack the Howell bill for a District of Columbia dry law and send it to the legislative morgue, and later, when the attempt was made to add a Muscle Shoals amendment to the war department appropriation bill, he opposed the amendment and advocated no action on Muscle Shoals until the legislation now deadlocked in conference has been agreed on.

The Howell bill, with its drastic home raid clause, which none but the driest were willing to support, was laid aside and displaced on the calendar by the war department bill with its appropriations of 447 million dollars.

The Muscle Shoals amendment to the latter bill was offered by Senator George W. Norris, radical Republican of Nebraska, who sought an appropriation of $10,000,000 to build four government power lines.

Unwise, Says Robinson.

He was supported by Senator Hugo L. Black [Dem., Ala.], but Senator Robinson declared:

"To vote this appropriation before the authorizing legislation has been passed is an unwise policy. I do not think we should act without some assurance that it will be to the benefit of the public."

The Norris amendment was ruled out on a point of order. An amendment offered by Senator Black to require the secretary of war to sell power to municipalities was also ruled out. Senator Black then moved a suspension of the rules, and this motion, for which little chance of success was held out, was pending when the day's session closed.

While prohibition will probably not appear again in any measure during this session, its continuance as a talking point was guaranteed by Senator Millard Tydings [Dem., Md.], a wet, who introduced a resolution calling on the Wickersham commission to submit to the senate all testimony and evidence heard by the commission, provided it was not heard under pledge of secrecy, and the reports of the commission's experts who investigated various phases of prohibition.

"Relief Bloc" Determined.

Feeling among the anti-administration senators on the matter of relief still runs high, and the action of the house leaders in sending the Red Cross appropriation to committee, where it will be delayed while hearings are held, is particularly irritating.

Senator Black denounced this move by the house leaders today in a speech in which he declared:

"This extraordinary procedure is a part of the same profound political philosophy which taxes the general public to relieve distress, cold and hungry mules, but stands like a stone wall against taxing the public to relieve distressed, cold and hungry men, women and children.

"Every day wasted in this vain and futile political gesture of delay more than fifty-five thousand hungry American citizens are added to those who must have help or starve.

SHERWOOD EDDY OF Y. M. C. A. JOINS SOCIALIST PARTY

New York, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Retiring as secretary for Asia of the Y. M. C. A., Dr. Sherwood Eddy announced at a dinner in his honor tonight that he had joined the Socialist party and would henceforth work for "economic justice."

"If we do not Christianize the social order," he said, "there are those who will communize it. It is not enough to evangelize the world. We've got to Christianize it."

Dr. Eddy further pledged himself to struggle for political and economic reform, recognition of soviet Russia, pacifism, birth control, and revitalization of religion.

TOTAL FOR CITY IS 1,434,066 IN MAYOR PRIMARY

BY PARKE BROWN.

All forecasts concerning yesterday's intermediate registration in preparation for the mayoralty primaries of Feb. 24 were smashed last night when figures rolled in. The official estimate of Chief Clerk Rusch was that the day would add only 75,000 names to the poll lists, but the total recorded was 169,832.

With 1,264,234 names on the books since the November election, the total registered vote in Chicago now is 1,434,066. This is taken to mean a much higher public interest in the Republican mayoralty contest than the experts thought there existed. Most of the authorities say this augurs well for the candidacy of Judge Lyle. Registration was particularly heavy in territory supporting him.

Tabulation by Wards.

A tabulation showing in three columns the ward figures on the last revised registration, that of Oct. 11, 1930, yesterday's figure and the combined total subject to the revision next Saturday night follows:

Names to Be Erased.

This grand total will not be on the books for the primaries, as the revision next Saturday night probably will result in the erasure of some 50,000 or 60,000 names. The number stricken because of death, removals and other causes is placed low this year because there has not been a general moving day since the registration of Oct. 11, 1930.

The topnotch honors for having the biggest registered vote in the city were again carried off by the 39th ward on the northwest side, which reached a total of 57,168. Frank Kalteux, a Barrett follower, whose organization last week indorsed Judge Lyle, is the committeeman there. The 41st ward is second in the size of its registration with 52,858, and the 37th, where another Barrett-Lyle man, Eden T. Brekke, is committeeman, is third with 50,602.

South Side Surprise.

More surprising was the fact that the 19th ward in the town of Lake, where Committeeman Charles Nowak early declared for Lyle, was close up to these northwest side wards with a total registration of 52,353. Its registration of 5,478 for the one day, one of the largest in the city, brought it up there. This is near Judge Lyle's home ward, the 17th, where the day recorded 4,102 new names.

As had been expected the heaviest registrations for the one day were in the south side Black Belt, the Second, Third and Fourth wards, each of them adding more than 7,000 names to its roster.

MISS VITTUM FOR LYLE

Miss Harriet Vittum, head resident of Northwestern University settlement, issued a statement yesterday indorsing Judge Lyle for nomination and election as mayor of Chicago.

In addition to being a leader in social service work, Miss Vittum is recognized as a leader of independent political thought and action among women voters. She was a pioneer in the Equal Suffrage association. She has been prominent in the Women's City club for years. In Bull Moose days she was an organizer for the movement. During the war she was identified with the National Council of Defense.

Lyle headquarters was particularly pleased with Miss Vittum's indorsement because of the political independence she has maintained in past campaigns. She has not hesitated to "go Democratic" when she thought that step was called for.

"I have known Judge Lyle throughout his public career," said Miss Vittum, "as a councilman, as a legislator and as a judge. I have always found him honest and conscientious.

"I was particularly interested in his work in the Boys' court, where he evidenced an unusual understanding of the community's responsibility to its youth, and in his courageous stand against the crime gangs in the last few months.

"I believe that if John Lyle is nominated and elected mayor of Chicago he will continue to be an honest, fearless and constructive public official."

Plan Women's Division.

County Chairman Snow, one of the Lyle managers, hailed the Vittum indorsement as particularly auspicious, as part of the plans for the expansion of the La Salle hotel headquarters agreed upon during the day was for the opening of a women's division office.

The expansion increases the size of the headquarters from the four rooms originally engaged by Judge Lyle before organization support started turning to him up to a total of twenty-five rooms intended to house a wide variety of campaign activities. It was noted that one of the new rooms bore a name card for W. R. James, president of the west park board, Cook county leader for Gov. Emmerson. It was reported President James will move in when he returns from a visit to Springfield some day this week.

Wins Further Support.

A further influx of organization strength to Judge Lyle was seen in the joining up of three ward committeemen. The support of two of them had been sought by Mayor Thompson and listed by him as in his camp less than a week ago.

One of those two was D. W. Jellema, who represents the Ninth ward on the county committee. It was reported that his organization indorsed Judge Lyle Tuesday night. A rival organization in the ward headed by Clarence S. Piggott, chairman of the Emmerson state industrial commission, already had indorsed the judge. The two moves leave Thompson almost without representation in the ward.

The other committeemen whom Thompson had expected to land was A. N. Todd of the Twenty-eighth ward. He went into Lyle's headquarters and arranged for his ward supplies. He has been active in the Lundin unit for years.

The third indorsement was voted by the Thirty-fourth ward regular Republican organization which adopted resolutions drafted by Thomas A. Brockmeyer, ward committeemen, and Secretary Thomas J. Stickel at a meeting in Mirror hall.

Albert Hits Thompsonism.

Headquarters for Ald. Arthur F. Albert in the Morrison hotel were quiet during the day and there was little life around the two rooms in the Hotel Sherman opened on Monday as Thompson campaign headquarters.

In his speeches during the day Ald. Albert repeated his cry of Thompsonism against Judge Lyle and his organization leaders.

"All the people in Chicago," he said, "know that these back room political boys—Harding, Barrett, and Brundage—are not in politics for their health alone. They will own and control Lyle. His past public record is conclusive proof of this.

"He is carrying on a sham battle against the so called public enemies, but never with any thought of getting any results. This is substantiated by the fact the political element which is responsible for our city's plight is the very one which is supporting his candidacy. And the boys who are supporting him know what they are doing."

Inquiry among the Lyle managers about the possibility of an answer to this sort of speech brought a hint that the Lyle leaders are preparing proof that Albert was elected as a Thompson candidate for the city council when, in 1921, he ran for the first time, and that he was a part of the Thompson organization until 1927 when his sponsor, Titus Haffa, determined to run against him for the council.

Lyle Tells of Future.

In his speeches Judge Lyle continued to discuss a favorite topic—what he hopes to do for Chicago if he is elected mayor. This time he dwelt upon the vision of a city of 5,000,000 population.

"Let us get down to brass tacks," he said, "and note the sound reasons for my hope of a great advance, not only in size and population, but also in wealth, business activities and the host of social improvements.

"I think you will agree that Chicago has been held up, bludgeoned, strangled, and maltreated shamefully by the terrorists, gunmen, and racketeers that have made life and property unsafe through their preying upon industry, business, and labor.

"These racketeers, according to available figures, have levied and still are levying a tribute of millions of dollars a year upon our city's legitimate enterprises.

"Elimination of these racketeers will enable Chicago business to expand mightily and to employ great numbers of new workers.

BOARD TO START HEARINGS TODAY ON COUNCIL RACE

Over 170 Candidates Face Protests.

Hearing of protests against the nominating petitions of more than 170 candidates for aldermen will be begun today by the board of election commissioners. Officials of the board said it would be a difficult task to complete all the hearings before the election on Feb. 24.

Among the protests to be heard are six filed by Ald. Oscar F. Nelson against his opponents in the 46th ward. Two of these rivals already have withdrawn.

Arthur P. Feigen, an attorney, one of Nelson's rivals, charged yesterday that he had been prevented from filing a protest against Ald. Nelson's petitions because of the inability of the election commission to handle the last minute rush to file objections on Monday.

Protest Refused, He Says.

Feigen said he appeared at the commission's office shortly before 5 p. m., the deadline, with his protest against Nelson, but by the time the clerk got to him the time was one minute past 5 and the clerk declined to accept the protest.

Feigen said he insisted that the protest be time stamped, regardless, and the clerk stamped it at 5:03 p. m., but would not give him a receipt to show that the protest was filed. Feigen declared that Nelson was endeavoring to force all his rivals out of the race, and that Nelson had retained Attorney Cornelius J. Harrington, a Democrat, who had handled special matters for the election board, to represent him in the hearings before the board.

Ald. Nelson said he and most of the other sitting aldermen who have filed protests went together to retain Harrington, and also had retained a handwriting expert to scrutinize the petitions for irregularities.

Nelson said that Feigen's petition, while it contained 293 signatures and only 298 were required, included the names of 129 nonregistered voters, 20 nonresidents, and 110 other signatures which appeared to be faulty.

Feigen said he would seek to compel the election board to accept his protest against Nelson's petitions.

A Bit Bewildered

Thomas Kelly, hobo, entered the Des Plaines street station a bit unsteadily yesterday and informed Desk Sergeant Thomas F. McLaughlin he desired a bed and a meal.

"Where you from?" asked McLaughlin.

"Chicago."

"Chicago?"

"Certainly."

"Where are you now?"

"Cleveland, of course. Came in in a box car last night."

It developed that Kelly had gone to sleep in the car after consuming a bottle of liquor and that he mistook the shunting of it by switch engines during the night for a run to Cleveland.

Not all the actress' letters were threatening, however. Some praised her for pressing charges against her ex-secretary.

CHRYSLER TAKES OUT $12,000,000 LIFE INSURANCE

New York, Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Walter P. Chrysler, automobile manufacturer, has taken out life insurance policies totaling $12,000,000, the largest known amount ever issued to one person. This was learned today from an official source.

WALTER P. CHRYSLER.

The nearest approach of this magnitude are those held by Pierre S. du Pont of Delaware, who is insured for $7,000,000.

Five prominent life insurance companies issued the policies for Chrysler within the last month.

Many wealthy men in the United States are insured well into the millions. But there are 168 persons holding policies for an even $1,000,000. Marshall Field III. of Chicago holds policies for $4,000,000.

FILLING STATION OWNERS BATTLE FEE COLLECTION

At a protest meeting last night 80 members of the Filling Station Owners' association decided to appoint a committee to present their demands to the finance committee of the city council. The owners have not paid the city license fees for three years. They want Corporation Counsel Ettelson to delay suits to collect the fees until the Supreme court has decided upon the validity of the licensing ordinance. The city claims the 600 owners owe about $350,000 in fees. All of the large owners, such as the Standard Oil, Sinclair, and Shell, have paid their license fees, according to city officials.

DIES AFTER MYSTERY BLOW.

William Smith, 36 years old, 1350 East 63d street, who collapsed four days ago at Adams and Wells streets after complaining to Traffic Policeman Patrick Crawford that "somebody hit me on the head," died yesterday at the county hospital of a skull fracture. His assailant is unknown.

HOODLUM SHOT TO DEATH FROM PASSING AUTO

Morris Berkowitz, 30 years old, of 1135 South Paulina street, said by police to be a minor racketeer of the Maxwell street district, was shot to death early this morning as he stood on the sidewalk at Ashland boulevard and Roosevelt road by unknown assassins supposed to have fired from a passing automobile.

Berkowitz had left the Little Cozy cafe, 1559 Roosevelt road, a few minutes before the shooting. No witnesses to the shooting could be found. Barney Klein of 4062 Wilcox street, a private watchman, and Thomas Angellos, a waiter in the restaurant, rushed out into the street to find Berkowitz shot twice through the neck and once through the lower lip.

Max Cohen, a taxi driver, sitting in his automobile at the cab stand a block away, told the police that he heard the shots and almost at the same moment saw a dark sedan turn at a high speed from Roosevelt road northward into Ashland avenue.

ETTELSON'S AID MADE ADVISER TO CITY TREASURER

In the appointment of Edward P. Madigan, an assistant corporation counsel, as his attorney, City Treasurer Singer yesterday abandoned a practice of long standing in the city hall. It had been the custom for the treasurer, who holds an elective office, to appoint as his attorney a lawyer not in the employ of the corporation counsel, divorcing his legal opinions from the city hall administration.

City Controller Peterson, who was treasurer until a few days ago, followed this policy. His attorney was Thomas Marshall, who was not connected otherwise with the city hall. When he took over the duties of the controller Mr. Peterson announced that Mr. Marshall would continue as his attorney.

Mr. Madigan, who is under 30 years of age, is the youngest adviser that any city treasurer has had, according to veterans in the city hall. For two years Madigan has been in Corporation Counsel Ettelson's office as the personal appointee of Ettelson.

SENATE BATTLE ON REMAPPING REACHES FLOOR

Barr Asks Commission of Nine Members.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Reapportionment had its opening battle in the state senate tonight. Senator Richard J. Barr of Joliet, administration floor leader, put in a joint resolution to provide that a commission should be appointed to investigate and study the twenty year old question of remapping the state. Talk in the chamber was that it has the approval of Gov. L. L. Emmerson.

The governor in his assembly message suggested restricted representation for Cook county. The Barr resolution, without speaking of limited representation directly, points to several passages of the governor's message. It speaks of the Emmerson recommendation that the matter of home rule for Chicago should be treated as a twin item with redistricting, and it laid emphasis on the "rights of the 101 counties" downstate, as well as Cook county.

Cook county members construed it as the opening move by administration men to project the idea of limiting Chicago and its environs in the assembly. The battle will continue into the plan to remap the state on the basis of the 1930 census, as required by the constitution.

Proposes Commission of Nine.

The Barr resolution, which lay over a day, calls for a commission of nine, composed of three representatives picked by the speaker, three senators appointed by the president of the senate, and three other citizens to be chosen by the governor. It is to hold public hearings, collect data, and report its findings by April 15. It is to have $10,000 for expenses. The senate is expected to pass on it today before some of the leading members depart for a holiday in Florida.

Afterward Senator Barr and Senator Tom Courtney, minority leader, had a warm controversy over the Courtney resolution, introduced last week, instructing the reference bureau to draw a tentative remap of downstate and Cook county on the basis of the recent census. The Courtney resolution in its preamble remarked that the assemblymen on opening day took oath to uphold the constitution and that shortly afterward the governor indirectly suggested the constitutional mandate be ignored, and it said the senators were desirous of demonstrating they recognize "the weakness of the oath."

Modify Courtney Preamble.

The Courtney resolution was devoid of this preamble on motion of Senator Barr. Then the date for having the map reported in was changed to not later than April 15 instead of March, and the resolution, thus altered, went to a vote.

"I see no harm in having a map," said Senator Barr. "We don't have to adopt it. But the resolution has several whereases. One says we are commanded by the constitution to reapportion. Not all believe that. Some construe it as 'may apportion,' not 'must.' So I move the preamble be struck out."

The Democrats, somewhat nonplussed at the expurgation of the preamble criticising the administration views, when the vote to adopt was taken sat silent on the roll call for the most part.

Reconsider the Vote.

"As only five Cook county senators voted for it, I move it be tabled," remarked Senator Barr.

"Not so fast," cried Senator Courtney. "Why all this objection to having a map? The resolution has been so muddled up that many senators didn't understand the motion and sat silent."

Eight or nine senators, mostly from Cook, changed their votes, and the amended resolution for a map was carried, 35 to 1. The sole negative vote came from Senator C. W. Baker of Rockford.

"You Democrats aren't always right," remarked Senator Barr.

"The Democrats were right in November," said Senator Courtney, "and the Republicans were wrong again only last week, when two of them went to the St. Nick."

Offers Bill in House.

Earlier in the day reapportionment arose in the house. Ralph Church had a resolution for a congressional remapping. A joint committee of ten for a legislative redistricting was called for in a resolution from Elmer J. Schnackenberg. He produced population figures on the nineteen senatorial districts in Cook county, he had just received from the census bureau today. The figures are:

District—	Total.	District—	Total.
1	44,677	15	84,626
2	76,430	17	42,923
3	101,500	19	372,901
4	177,964	21	158,786
5	218,579	23	251,190
6	321,198	25	843,231
7	300,863	27	84,961
9	126,243	29	55,871
11	342,993	31	253,602
13	381,368

The new figures show that the 25th district, on the northwest side, has more inhabitants than seven of the downstate districts. Only thirteen cities in the United States have more population than this single district. It is larger than Washington, or Minneapolis, or New Orleans, or Kansas City.

Cook county has six districts any one of which has more population than the combined population of Peoria, East St. Louis, Springfield, Alton, and Aurora.

LITTLE GIRL SENDS HOOVER HER "WHITE PENNY" FOR HUNGRY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—(AP)—From the White House to the Red Cross today a half dollar passed. Wherever it rolled, a smile for a childhood memory went right along with it.

For it was accompanied by a wee note in uneven, handprinted letters from a little girl living in Webster, N. Y. It read:

"Dear Mr. Hoover: Here is a big, white penny from my bank. Will you buy some bread and butter and milk and candy for the little boys and girls who are hungry? From Rosemary Ernisse."

"MY AUTO NEVER KILLED A CHILD," DUCE DECLARES

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Premier Mussolini, in a cablegram to the Italian embassy today, denied charges of having run over and killed a child while motoring recklessly with an American in Italy, reported to have been made in an address at Philadelphia on Monday by Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler of the marine corps.

"I have never taken an American on a motor car trip around Italy," Premier Mussolini said, "neither have I run over a child, man or woman."

Following a protest by Ambassador De Martino against the general's reported remarks, Secretary Adams asked for an explanation from Gen. Butler, who is at the marine base at Quantico, Va., but no reply had been received today.

Never Toured with American.

"The royal Italian embassy can state categorically that Signor Mussolini never has invited any American to accompany him on any trip around Italy, that the premier never had run over any child, man or woman; that, if any accident of this sort had happened, Signor Mussolini would have done what is the duty of every one—he would have stopped and brought help.

"The Italian ambassador has protested to the department of state against such untrue and slanderous allegations, expressed by a general in active service."

Officials at the Italian embassy described Gen. Butler's reported speech as mischievous and absurd. As for Premier Mussolini's alleged warlike proclivities, they recalled that he had emphatically denied such intentions in public addresses. They pointed out that Italy's economic position was such as to make a warlike adventure an act of folly.

Tells of Butler Speech.

In a statement making public Premier Mussolini's cablegram, Ambassador De Martino said:

"In an address delivered before the Contemporary club of Philadelphia on Jan. 19 Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler stated, as it appears from the Philadelphia papers, that Signor Mussolini had invited a friend of the general's (whose name, however, he did not mention) to accompany him on a tour around Italy in an armored automobile; that during this tour Signor Mussolini ran over a child without stopping when the child was hit, and that when the general's friend screamed when the accident occurred Mussolini uttered these words: 'What is one life in the affairs of a state?'

Calls at State Department.

Ambassador De Martino called at the state department this afternoon to discuss the incident, but learned that no reply had been received from Secretary Adams.

The demand for an explanation was received this morning by Gen. Butler, who declined to discuss the matter in advance of his formal report. Marine and naval officers were reluctant to discuss the case, but it was indicated that, should Gen. Butler admit that he had been correctly reported, any action might be possible from a reprimand to a court martial.

Regulations do not specifically cover such a point or stipulate a penalty, but officers are expected to deport themselves with due courtesy toward foreign governments. Breach of these courtesies could be charged in any action by the navy department.

Declines to Comment.

The state department declined to comment today upon the letter of Dr. Charles Fama, a New York physician of Italian extraction and an anti-Fascist, who had demanded of Secretary Stimson that he "put the brakes" on Ambassador De Martino, "who is using his office to carry on propaganda in the United States and attack American citizens." Dr. Fama contended that Gen. Butler had the right to express his opinion freely.

GETS DIVORCE

KATHLYN WILLIAMS.

Reno, Nev., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Kathlyn Eyton, whose screen name is Kathlyn Williams, was divorced from Charles Eyton in District court today, ending a marriage of fifteen years. Her complaint charged cruelty and incompatibility.

Married in Riverside, Cal., in June, 1916, the actress and her husband have been living in Los Angeles, to which city Miss Williams plans to return to continue her work. She appeared in three pictures last year, "The Road to Paradise," "Wedding Rings," and "Golden Butterfly."

1798 JERSEY LAW VOIDING SUNDAY WARRANT UPHELD

New York, Jan. 27.—[Special.]—New Jersey law found today that it pinches when it's on the other foot, and that if it's illegal to transact business on Sunday, it's also illegal for officers of the law to violate the Sabbath by serving warrants subpoenas or other legal documents.

This phase of blue laws was discovered in the New Jersey state vice and immorality act of 1798, and the Supreme court today upheld it when an appeal was granted to Frank Van Bueren, a merchant, of Wildwood, N. J.

Six Orange miniature golf players also found redress in the old law. They had been convicted in a lower court of having violated a city ordinance on Oct. 10 by operating a golf course without a license.

They appeared and today won.

OLD BRITISH LAW BANNING SUNDAY MOVIES IS UPHELD

7,000,000 People Barred from Entertainment.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 27.—The vacant throne of King James II. was cited as a warning to the London county council by the Court of Appeals today in dismissing with costs the council's appeal against an order forbidding Sunday movies under an antiquated Sunday observance act. This ruler, it was pointed out, was deposed for trying to nullify an act of parliament. That is what the council was considered by the court to be guilty of, although a percentage of the admittance prices to movies, which are banned under the law, is given to charity.

Therefore 7,000,000 people probably will be denied the opportunity of attending movies next Sunday. Producers tonight are holding hurried meetings in an effort to find a way out.

Judges Flay Council.

Three lord justices, Scrutton, Greer, and Slesser, excoriated the efforts of the council to "hoodwink the law."

"A doctrine that because a number of people do not like a law and do not obey it, and that therefore it is obsolescent, is a dangerous proposition to hold in any constitutional country," Justice Scrutton declared. "The London county council granted the theater owners a license under the terms of which the showhouses shall not be open on Sundays, and then framed a series of rules providing for permission to open, saying 'it won't prosecute for the present.' When the London county council comes to see it, it might think the view it is taking verges on the ridiculous."

Other Judges Agree.

The other judges agreed. Justice Slesser declared that the county council acted unlawfully, irregularly, indefensibly and illogically.

(King James II. was deposed in 1688 for trying to nullify what was known as the test act, an act of parliament forbidding Catholics to hold office in England.)

JUDGE REFUSES WRIT TO FOES OF VACCINATION

Superior Judge Lindsay yesterday denied a temporary injunction to restrain Health Commissioner Arnold H. Kegel from vaccinating school children without the consent of their parents. The petition had been filed by Mrs. Helen Joseph, secretary of the Taxpayers and Voters' league, and charged that the vaccine is often impure and causes other diseases instead of preventing smallpox. A hearing on the petition for a permanent injunction will be held later.

POLICE SQUADS COMB CITY FOR HOLDUP GANGS

Seize Kin of Man Shot in Store Robbery.

found. There was a general belief, based on the description of one of the bandits, that they were from the same gang that tried to hold up the Hillman store employés.

Two gunmen held up Miss Mary Syrcky, 1337 West 18th street, cashier of the Thalia motion picture theater at 1225 West 18th street, last night and fled with $35. They drove in front of the theater with a third man, alighted, walked up to the cage and took the money after threatening Miss Syrcky with death.

Joseph Schue, 27 years old, 5701 Bayer avenue, Argo, was held to the grand jury yesterday on a charge of attempted robbery by Magistrate Martin Ozinga of Evergreen Park. Schue was captured on Monday when he tried to rob Clyde V. Hart, agent of the Grand Trunk railroad depot in Evergreen Park. The robbery was frustrated by the daring of Hart's daughter, Alice, 9 years old.

As Schue commanded Hart to hand over a mail pouch, Alice screamed and seized a piece of tin and scratched the holdup man. Schue, diverted from his act for a moment, turned, and Hart grabbed him. Schue's revolver was discharged twice in the struggle. He was overpowered. In court yesterday Schue admitted a robbery intent, but denied he meant to take a mail pouch.

Padden Makes Bonds Heavy.

Bonds of $435,000 were set yesterday for three alleged burglars caught by the police on Monday after a chase in which a dozen shots were exchanged. The bonds were fixed by Judge Frank M. Padden in the Felony court, who is following out the policy of Judge John H. Lyle, former occupant of the bench in that court.

The defendants are Henry F...row, 29 years old, 5302 Indiana avenue; David Bell, 47 years old, 6417 Maryland avenue, and Frank Murphy, 48 years old, 6417 Maryland avenue. The police told Judge Padd... that the men confessed and admitted that they had been involved in other crimes.

SOME OTHER ROBBERIES.

Theft of jewelry and clothing valued at $2,500 from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Janows, 401 Sheridan road, Wilmette, was disclosed today after Chief Henry Brautigam of Wilmette had appealed to Evanston authorities for assistance. The burglary was committed on Sunday.

Burglars entered the apartment of Gail Borden at 215 East Chestnut street early yesterday and escaped with loot valued at $1,415.

Robbers held up Mrs. Mary Hopper in her grocery at 4500 North Racine avenue yesterday, making the second time within a week that she had been robbed. Fifteen minutes after the second crime police seized Morris Golden, 16 years old, of San Francisco. He confessed the holdup.

A lone robber entered the Golden Rule restaurant at 3000 West Madison street yesterday, held up George Morris, the manager, and took $85, a diamond stickpin, a ring, and portable radio.

A Negro gunman entered a Dutch Mill candy shop at 138 North Dearborn street last night while scores of pedestrians were passing and after threatening Miss Elaine Miller, 1604 Cullom avenue, the manager, took $8 from the cash register and fled.

Chicago Is Winning Its War with Crime, Loesch Declares

Frank J. Loesch said last night that Chicago is emerging victorious in its war on crime and its outlook for the future is promising.

The veteran enemy of public enemies who is president of the Chicago crime commission and a member of the Wickersham law enforcement commission, was a speaker on the Household Celebrities program of the National Broadcasting company, talking from station W.G.N. "Other cities have their crime problems, he said, citing the statement of the district attorney of a large city who acknowledged a reign of banditry and major crimes.

Chicago's Badge of Courage.

"Crime in Chicago is not unique," Mr. Loesch said. "It is more notorious because it has been better advertised. It is unpleasant advertising to Chicagoans, but it is also a record of action, a badge of courage, a declaration of determination.

"Chicago is the first city in the world to recognize the serious fact of crime, drag it into the open and declare war. It is giving businesslike attention to a serious problem. It is wasting no time in excuses or apologies. It is concentrating on its own particular job. It is performing a service not only to itself but to its neighbors, because it realizes that crime anywhere means crime everywhere. And it will finish the job.

"In less than a century of progress Chicago has developed from a settlement in a swamp to the second city of the Union; to the fourth city of the world. This rating is based on population alone. In many things—material, spiritual, educational, artistic, industrial—it ranks unquestionably first.

Traces War on Crime.

"Twelve years ago, first of the cities to realize its responsibilities to itself and its neighbors, actuated by an enlightened selfishness, if you please, Chicago began its war on crime with the creation of the crime commission. The commission's members enlisted for life in order to win the war and provide an army of occupation to prevent a renewal of hostilities."

Mr. Loesch recounted the campaign begun against the 28 men branded as public enemies. This campaign will end, he said, only when all the 28 are dead or in prison.

"But we are not stopping here," he asserted. "We are after the associates and supporters of the public enemies—the crooked criminal lawyers, the crooked policemen, the crooked politicians, and all who give aid and comfort. And, while we know there will always be crime, we shall make it increasingly difficult for the criminal and will always be actuated by the thought that any crime in Chicago is too much crime in Chicago.

"Proportionately, Chicago has no more crime than any city of its class. Its notoriety has come because of the spectacular exhibitions of its criminals. Its character and reputation will rest upon the determination of its citizens to rid themselves of the criminal menace. And this they will do."

LAW TO HANDLE PUBLIC ENEMIES IS FILED BY IGOE

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—The Chicago "public enemy" bill, first legislation to be asked in the current war upon gangsters, was introduced in the house today by Representative Michael Igoe [Dem., Chicago], the minority leader.

Drafted by two Chicagoans, Attorney James G. Condon and Judge Harry M. Fisher, the bill is worded to include those habitually engaged in all forms of lawlessness or who aid others so engaged. Convicted "public enemies" would be eligible to imprisonment for from one to ten years in the penitentiary.

Public Enemy Defined.

"Whoever does any act which tends to obstruct, impede, or hinder the due administration of justice.

"Whoever frustrates or thwarts or attempts to frustrate or thwart the lawful service or processes of any court by evading arrest or by aiding or abetting another to evade arrest or by interfering with or hindering the making of an arrest by virtue of such process.

"Whoever pays or contributes any money or thing of value to any officer or other person for the purpose of obstructing, impeding, or hindering the due administration of justice; or for the purpose of evading or preventing arrest of himself or any other person, or for the purpose of preventing the prosecution or any criminal case.

Bail Jumpers Included.

"Whoever having been accused of any criminal offense and having given bail for his appearance fails to appear in accordance with the terms of his bail bond or recognizance without being excused by the court.

"Whoever having been previously convicted of any felony or for carrying a concealed deadly weapon habitually frequents houses of ill fame or gambling places or knowingly derives income from any business or enterprise prohibited by the laws of this state or of the United States.

"Whoever having been previously convicted of a felony or for carrying a concealed deadly weapon or while under indictment charged with the commission of a felony or with carrying a concealed deadly weapon in violation of the law of the state, shall have concealed on or about his person a pistol, revolver, or other firearm, shall be deemed a public enemy and shall upon conviction be imprisoned in the penitentiary for not less than one nor more than ten years."

Provides Summary Arrest.

The bill provides that a public enemy may be arrested on sight by any sheriff, bailiff, constable, or police officer, and any deadly weapons found upon his person at the time of arrest may be introduced in evidence against him.

A memorandum written by the framers of the bill included this paragraph:

"The primary consideration in drafting the proposed legislation has been a simplification of the prosecution of the type of criminal that has grown up in our large cities under modern conditions. The courts, we think, recognize that crime conditions have undergone a radical change in recent years, and it is not unreasonable to expect that the courts will interpret the legislation in the light of modern experience and necessities if the legislature, by their recognition of the same, have afforded the courts a reasonable basis for distinction."

HOUSE UPHOLDS HOOVER IN POWER BOARD BATTLE

Rejects Move to Cut Off 3 Members' Salaries.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—President Hoover today received the backing of the house of representatives in his controversy with the senate over the membership of the federal power commission. The house by a vote of 37 to 102 rejected an amendment proposed by Representative F. H. La Guardia [Rep., N. Y.] to the independent offices appropriation bill to cut off the salaries of the three members of the commission involved in the row.

The action was regarded as notice to the senate that the house will not accept the proposed amendment of a similar character which Senator Burton K. Wheeler [Dem., Mont.] has announced he will offer when the independent offices appropriation bill reaches the senate. The house passed the bill today.

Precipitates Lively Debate.

The La Guardia amendment precipitated a lively debate in which many of the Republican leaders lined up in support of the President.

Under the La Guardia amendment a provision would have been added to the power commission appropriation for the fiscal year 1932 so that no part of it could be issued for paying the salary of any member whose confirmation was being questioned, or against whom ouster proceedings had been started or "authorized." The senate judiciary committee yesterday voted favorably on a resolution authorizing quo warranto proceedings to be started against George Otis Smith, Marcel Garsaud, and Claude L. Draper, the three commissioners in question, in the courts of the District of Columbia.

Representatives George S. Graham [Rep., Pa.], Chairman of the judiciary committee; John Q. Tilson [Rep., Conn.], majority leader, and C. W. Ramseyer [Rep., Ia.] were among those opposing the La Guardia amendment.

"We have nothing to do with the political outburst against the power trust," said Mr. Graham. "We are simply passing on an appropriation bill for us to attempt to interfere in this controversy between the other two branches of congress stand the executive in a matter of executive appointment and confirmation would be going beyond all bounds of reason."

Points to Power Trust.

Representative Tilson said it would be "most unwise" for the house to enter into a "scheme" by which salaries of legally qualified officials were to be held up.

"Would not adoption of this amendment be an outright intimidation of public officials?" asked Representative Oscar De Priest [Rep., Ill.]

"Certainly," replied Mr. Tilson, "and it's none of our affair."

Representative Thomas L. Blanton [Dem., Tex.] refuted the idea that it was not an affair of the house.

"We are representatives of the American people," said Mr. Blanton, "and it is up to us to protect the American people against this giant power trust, with its threads running to every part of the country like the threads of a spider web."

"Does the gentleman from Texas really believe there is such a thing as the power trust?" asked Representative William Morgan [Rep., O.].

LEAVE TO AID DRY LAW REPEAL

PUTS 300 PLAIN CLOTHES POLICE BACK IN UNIFORM

A reduction in the number of men who are assigned to detective duty in civilian clothes to 14 for each police station was ordered yesterday by Acting Police Commissioner Alcock. The order is expected to put an average of eight men at each of the 41 stations, or more than 300 men in all, back in uniforms.

As the detectives usually travel in pairs, the allotment of 14 men at each station will allow for two teams on each of the three shifts, with two men on relief. This condition will be similar, according to old timers on the force, to the days before 1913 when 550 policemen were put in plain clothes.

STUDENTS STRIKE AND RIOT AT SIX SPANISH SCHOOLS

MADRID, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Riots and student strikes in six Spanish universities today caused the closing of one of the schools and resulted in an extra session of the cabinet to deal with the situation.

At Granada 200 medical and law students clashed with members of monarchial organizations, stoned the organizations' headquarters and the police station, and refused to attend classes. The university was closed.

Fist fights between striking students and adherents of the monarchy were reported at the University of Madrid.

SEARCH AND SEIZURE BILL COMES UP TODAY IN ILLINOIS HOUSE

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—The O'Grady bill to repeal the state search and seizure act comes up for advancement in the house of representatives tomorrow morning and it is predicted that it will pass to third reading without a deal of trouble. Second reading is the amending stage, and it is possible that a test roll call may be made. Each side has been limited to one hour argument.

Representative O'Grady announced today that Anton J. Cermak, Chicago Democratic leader and mayoralty candidate; Mrs. George E. Brennan, Mrs. Wirt Morton, James J. Trainer and Ralph M. Shaw, all of Chicago, will present the wet views. The dry speeches will be engineered by George B. Safford, superintendent of the Illinois Anti-Saloon league.

It is reported that the drys may seek to attach a referendum clause to the bill.

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 27.—[Special.]—The members of the board of estimate here unloosed the lower buttons of their vests today, lighted fresh cigars, and fingered their gold watch chains importantly, for it was up to them to settle a landlord and tenant dispute that had been going on for six months. The landlord was John D. Rockefeller Jr., who has a lot of property he wants to give away, and the tenant was George Grey Barnard, the sculptor.

The result was a figurative boot in the seat of art's baggy pants and the acceptance by the city of a 56 acre estate on Washington Heights overlooking the Hudson river, which will be used as a public park.

Called Michael Angelo's Rival.

Mr. Barnard, who has been called as great a genius as Michael Angelo at his best, will have to get out of the ancient barn where he has been working for years on a great peace monument group of giant figures, and the unfinished monument probably will be smashed, for the city is going to make "something beautiful" out of the grounds and its plan does not call for statuary.

Just why the foremost American sculptor cannot remain and complete his masterpiece was not made entirely clear—parks are for play, not work, and Mr. Barnard's immediate departure has something to do with a thirty day removal clause in his lease already five months overdue.

The spirits of Richard Wagner and Michael Angelo were called forth in the name of enduring art by friends of the sculptor who appeared before the board in his behalf. Arthur Barnhart, a lawyer and civic worker, traveled all the way from Chicago to plead for Mr. Barnard.

Wagner "Parsifal" a Defense.

"What," Mr. Barnhart asked the astute borough presidents, "would have happened in Germany if the authorities there had wanted to cut through Wagner's property while he was composing 'Parsifal'?"

The dilemma in which both Mr. Rockefeller and Mr. Barnard found themselves and which was settled with Solomonlike wisdom this afternoon by the borough heads grew out of a tenancy of a barn on the Billings estate converted by the sculptor into a studio and for which he paid $2,400 a year rental. Barnard wanted to erect a great monument of peace, but his tenancy was tentative and Rockefeller wanted the city to make a park of the place.

City Gets Park, Genius the Gate.

Raymond B. Fosdick, speaking for Mr. Rockefeller, said that Mr. Barnard had no legal right to the barn he occupies and that the sculptor knew all along he would have to get out some day. Mr. Fosdick admitted Barnard's genius, but said he lacked "foresight as a hard headed business man."

In accepting the estate as park land the city agrees to close off three short streets over on the upper east side water front of Manhattan and give the Rockefeller institute all the land lying within the beds of these discontinued streets.

58 YEAR OLD NEGRO WINS POSITION IN NEW FRENCH CABINET

PARIS, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Blaise Diagne, 58 year old Negro, today was made undersecretary of state for the colonies in the day old cabinet of Pierre Laval. He is the first Negro to hold a cabinet portfolio in France. Diagne was elected deputy from Senegal in 1914 and has been a member of the lower house of parliament since that time. His oratorical ability soon won him the esteem of his colleagues and the war premier, Clemenceau, recognized his ability by making him commissioner in charge of the mobilization of colonial troops.

He will be remembered in the United States as the deputy who in 1922 defended his fellow Senegalese, the late "Battling" Siki, light heavyweight champion, who defeated Georges Carpentier. Siki had been ruled from the ring by the French Boxing federation. Diagne thought discrimination had been shown against Siki because of his color and took the matter before parliament. He won and Siki was reinstated.

Premier Laval's cabinet sat up late tonight polishing off the declaration of policy with which it will make its first test of strength in the chamber of deputies on Friday. Politicians expressed the belief that it would weather the attacks of Radical Socialists and other left elements. Although the ministry was admitted to differ little from that of Andre Tardieu, which was overthrown in December, observers thought that it leaned a little more to moderate opinion.

FIVE POLICEMEN SUSPENDED; 4 FOR "USELESS" ARREST

Five policemen were suspended yesterday by Acting Police Commissioner Alcock, four of them for raiding alleged handbooks and gambling places in the loop without search warrants in violation of Alcock's order prohibiting "useless" arrests. In another order Alcock warned his captains that they are liable to suspension also if they order their men to raid without warrants.

The suspension of Policemen Walter T. Graeber, Richard J. Sheehy, George W. Martrick and Adolph A. Weber of the Central district followed raids made by them at 35 West Jackson boulevard, 192 North Clark street and 194 North La Salle street. The prisoners taken by the policemen were discharged in court by Judge Francis Borrelli. The fifth policeman, August Woerner of the Hudson avenue station, was relieved of duty pending an investigation of the shooting by him of Joe Montana, 15 years old, 1615 Orchard street, when the boy ran from Woerner.

Two lieutenants, Thomas O'Hara and Harry O'Donnell of the Cragin station, who were the first suspended under the "useless" arrest order, were reinstated yesterday. They were suspended after raiding a soft drink parlor.

Kill 12,000 Rabbits in Day to Feed St. Louis Hungry

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Citizens of a Kansas county killed 12,000 rabbits in a single day. The rabbits will be sent to St. Louis, Mo., to feed the hungry and unemployed.

CONGRESSMAN IS ARRESTED ON JOB SELLING CHARGES

Rowbottom of Indiana Is Out on Bonds.

Evansville, Ind., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Harry E. Rowbottom, Republican, retiring congressman from the First Indiana district, was placed under $10,000 bonds by United States Commissioner Charles E. Harmon after his arrest here this afternoon in the office of his attorney, Phil C. Gould.

Rowbottom is charged with having taken $750 from Walter G. and Aaron Ayers in return for the promise of appointment of Gresham Ayer as a rural mail carrier at Rockport.

Following the arrest of Rowbottom at Gould's office by Deputy United States Marshal F. J. Stickleman the congressman and his attorney accompanied Stickleman to the commissioner's office, where bond was signed by Manson Reichert.

H. E. ROWBOTTOM.

Held to U. S. Grand Jury.

Rowbottom was an outstanding Republican member of the 1920 Indiana house of representatives, which session was the first in which the Ku Klux Klan showed much political influence. Evansville was the starting place in the career of D. C. Stephenson, who became a political dictator of Indiana. Stephenson went to state prison in 1925 under a life sentence for murder. Rowbottom was defeated for reelection last November by John W. Boehne.

Four Postmasters Dismissed.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Arrest of Representative Harry E. Rowbottom [Rep., Ind.] at Evansville, Ind., today on a charge of taking money in return for a promise of an appointment in the postal service indicates that the case has more ramifications than appeared at first.

The postoffice department announced on Jan. 5 the dismissal of four postmasters and suspension of a rural mail carrier, all in the first Indiana district, represented by Mr. Rowbottom in congress. The charge that Mr. Rowbottom received $750 for promising to obtain appointment of Gresham Ayer as rural mail carrier did not figure in that announcement.

Reported Two Weeks Ago.

According to the department's statement of Jan. 5 reports prevalent in Indiana that "certain postmasters and others who were applicants for positions in the postoffice department had been paying and causing to be paid various sums of money to a congressman to obtain the appointments desired" were brought to its attention by Senators James E. Watson and Arthur Robinson [Reps., Ind.].

One federal statute prohibits the payment of money or anything of value for the support or influence of any person in obtaining appointive office. It provides a maximum penalty of a fine of $1,000 and imprisonment for one year. Another statute provides a penalty of a fine of $10,000 and imprisonment for two years for any member of congress who receives any compensation for services rendered to any person in relation to any matter in which the federal government is interested.

Tells of Campaign

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Incidents of the military campaign of Lord Allenby in the Holy Land were recounted last night by Col. Edward Davis, U. S. A., at a dinner of the Military Intelligence association, Inc., at the Hotel Sherman. Col. Davis served as American observer with the Allenby forces.

POLAND CHARGES FOREIGN NATION BACKED SABOTAGE

WARSAW, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Gen. Felician Skladkowski, minister of the interior, told the lower house today that the pacification of eastern Galicia, which recently aroused wide protests from the Ukrainian population, was necessary because of "sabotage inspired and subsidized from abroad."

He said the government had its choice either of declaring martial law or using police force in the area, and that a campaign of terrorism had to be stopped. He said the government would have taken the same radical measures if the alleged sabotage had been committed by the Poles.

PAID AS LAWYER, WORKS AS CANAL PUBLICITY AGENT

Attorney Holleb Says He Never Had a Case.

One of the fifty-five lawyers employed by the sanitary district during the years from 1925 to 1928 told Circuit Judge Taylor yesterday that he was paid $7,933 by the district's legal department as a lecturer and publicity man.

The testimony was given by Attorney A. Paul Holleb, who has been charged, along with 54 others, with having received money from the district without giving service. The charges, made by the Chicago Bar association, are being heard by Judge Taylor, who is sitting as commissioner for the Illinois Supreme court in the disciplinary proceedings started by the association against the 55 lawyers.

Attorney Holleb declared that although he did work for the district from 1924 to 1926 he never during that time tried any cases or prepared any legal documents. He was questioned by Attorney Willard Matheny, representing the bar association.

Speaks Night and Day.

"I joined the legal staff in 1924 at the request of the late Michael Rosenberg, then a trustee of the sanitary district and a personal friend of mine," Holleb said. "I did considerable work. I attended all the board meetings and spoke for the district night and day in high schools and before clubs.

"I also called on people to discuss the possibility of them getting in touch with congressmen to arouse interest in sanitary district problems."

"Did you try any cases?" Attorney Matheny asked.

"No," Holleb replied.

"Did you write any opinions?"

"No."

"Did you earn the money that was paid you?"

"Yes, I did," Holleb said. "I can produce 20 witnesses to prove that I worked diligently."

Another Lawyer Testifies.

Another witness was Attorney Edward P. Luczak, who said that he obtained employment in the district's law office in 1928 through Anton J. Cermak, president of the county board. Luczak said that he helped in revising the sanitary district's laws and tried to straighten out the department's files. He was paid $300 a month.

Questioned further by Attorney Matheny, Luczak was unable to tell specifically what he had done in connection with the revision. He said he reported to the district three or four times a week.

Attorney Eberle Quizzed.

Attorney Robert H. Eberle was called to the stand following the noon recess. He said he worked for the district from June 16, 1928, to Nov. 15, 1928, at a salary of $416 a month.

"I talked to Robert E. Crowe, former state's attorney, about getting the job," Eberle said. "He referred me to Timothy J. Crowe [then president of the district board], who said that I could work part time.

"Mr. Crowe told me that the $416 a month would be a retainer and that later I would be assigned to trying cases on a per diem basis. I never tried any cases, however."

"What did you do?" Matheny asked.

"I did some research work for Attorney Thomas Marshall on the trade wastes matter. I looked through many books and was to make a report to Marshall when he sent for me. He never sent for me and I never made a report."

"How much time did you spend on that?" Eberle was asked.

"I don't remember," was the answer. "I also examined eight leases."

"Do you think the $2,000 you received was fair compensation?"

"No," Eberle said. "It wasn't enough. I should have been paid $10,000 for examining the leases and another $1,000 for the research work."

Eberle said that he reported at the law office of the district once a week until the latter part of September and after that about once every two weeks.

Fifty members of the National Society of Denture Prosthetists are meeting this week in the Stevens hotel. A number of the members were approached yesterday and asked just what denture prosthetists were.

"Perhaps you have heard of the term 'prosthetic,'" replied one member. "'Prosthetists' is derived from 'prosthetic.'"

"To make it quite simple, we are interested only in edentulous mouths," another said.

Dr. I. L. Furnas of Cleveland, secretary of the association, explained in more detail.

"We are an exclusive national association limited to 50 members who are outstanding men in our line," he said. "Our line is—artificial dentures. The common term, which we don't like at all, is—" and he stopped, with an expression of distaste.

"False teeth?"

"Exactly," he replied, "just that. Now," he continued, "it should be understood that dentures mean only what is commonly known as 'sets of teeth.'"

"In other words," explained the president, Dr. James Graham of San Francisco, "these men are devoting a lifetime to finding how to make the most natural dentures, so that persons will not be handicapped in a business or social way by having them fall out while they are eating."

An edentulous mouth, it was explained, is one that has no teeth.

FAILS IN EFFORT TO GET RELEASE FOR YELLOW KID

"The only thing the police have against my clients is an old charge brought last summer by Jacob Kindelberger and which he refused to prosecute, your honor," Attorney Simon Herr stated yesterday in Judge Ross C. Hall's court. "Holding these men this length of time amounts to malicious prosecution."

Attorney Herr's clients are "Yellow Kid" Weil and Fred Buckminster, masters of the art of depriving a sucker of his bankroll, commonly and legally known as operating a confidence game.

Inasmuch as Kindelberger, who is president of the Kalamazoo Vegetable Parchment company and who complained of $15,000 worth of trust in Weil and Buckminster, has not withdrawn the warrant he procured for their arrest, the pair will be arraigned today before Judge Frank M. Paldden. An additional charge against Buckminster, concerning $750, was made by Charles Brigantio, 2110 West 22d street.

$4,046,295 TOTAL IS CONTRIBUTED IN RELIEF CAMPAIGN

Yesterday's collections of $44,864 brought the total being raised in Chicago for Gov. Emmerson's commission on unemployment and relief, to $4,046,295, or $953,705 short of the $5,000,000 minimum necessary to carry Chicago's destitute through the winter.

A special meeting is to be held this afternoon to determine whether or not to continue with the drive in face of the discouraging returns of the past few weeks. Philip R. Clarke, chairman of the collection committee, reported that despite the falling off of collections the need is rapidly increasing.

"Members of the commission engaged in measuring out relief," Mr. Clarke said, "report that families previously helped are coming back again requesting aid, their original allotments having proved too small. In addition new families at the rate of seven hundred a day are appealing for aid."

Sapp and Girl Plead Not Guilty to Larceny Charge

Rockford, Ill., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Helen Shaner, Freeport, Ill., and Everett Sapp, alias Snapp, with whom she "eloped" to Minneapolis last November after trying to cover their trail with a murder hoax, pleaded not guilty when arraigned today on charges of larceny. The couple is charged with stealing several automatic phonographs belonging to the concern which employed Sapp to sell them.

STOP BOBBY'S COUGH

Before it Weakens Him to the Danger Point!

Never take a child's cough lightly. You can't tell where it will end. Many a serious sickness has started with "just a cough." For a cough is not only distressing, but weakening as well. At the first sign of a cough or chest soreness in old or young, always give good, dependable old "Piso's for Coughs."

Piso's does the five things necessary to stop a cough and repair the damage done. It checks the cough spasm, loosens the mucus, opens the air passages, soothes the inflamed tissues, and at the same time, has a tonic value that tends to build up what the cough tears down. Only Piso's supplies these, five vital effects and it contains no opiates and does not upset the stomach. Safe to give, even to babies. All druggists sell Piso's in 35c and 60c sizes. Be sure you ask for "Piso's for Coughs."

AVOID UGLY PIMPLES

Does a pimply face embarrass you? Get a package of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear up after you have taken the tablets a few nights, if you are like thousands of others.

Help cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets do that which calomel does and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

Thousands who take Olive Tablets are never cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition, pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound known by their olive color. Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.

CROWE AND AIDS MUST FACE TRIAL ON CANAL CHARGE

Court Will Set Conspiracy Case for May.

Timothy J. Crowe, president of the sanitary district board during the so-called whoopee period, and seven other former trustees and officials of the board must face trial some time in May on charges of conspiracy to squander public funds. Judge Joseph B. David of the Criminal court, who has spent two weeks in listening to attorneys argue motions to quash the graft conspiracy indictment, made this declaration yesterday at the conclusion of the arguments.

Although indicating that he would quash what the state's attorney's office considers the most vital parts of the indictment, the judge emphatically said that he would allow enough of the counts to remain to assure the defendants being brought to trial.

Formal Decision in April.

The judge said he would render his formal decision on the motions to quash prior to election day in April. He is leaving for his winter vacation, but will return in time for the election, he said, and will immediately render his decision.

The closing session of the hearing was featured by a clash between First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup and the judge. The prosecutor was ordered never to repeat a similar remark in the judge's court. The judge had several times interrupted Northup's argument when the latter said:

"I know what the trouble is here. The guilt of these defendants is so self evident that they have no escape if put to trial."

Warns Against Statement.

"Don't make those statements to this court," said the judge. "You or no other lawyer has any right imputing the fairness of this court. Do not repeat such remarks or this court will take action. These defendants may waive a jury and such remarks are intended only to prejudice the court."

"I don't think there is a bad count in the indictment," said Prosecutor Northup.

"You are obsessed with the idea that if one count is knocked out the whole case explodes," said the judge. "It is up to this court to consider this indictment and I can't help what you think."

To Quash Bridle Path Counts.

The judge said that he is not prepared to hold as a matter of law that if the trustees spent money without authority for public improvements, without benefiting themselves, that is would constitute a conspiracy. He definitely indicated that he would on that basis quash the fifth, sixth, and eighth counts. These deal with the charges that the trustees without authority squandered approximately $3,000,000 on the cinder bridle path, the north shore channel road, and the lighting system for them. Prosecutor Northup said he considers these counts the most important. This would leave six good counts in the indictment.

Before adjourning court the judge told the attorneys that if he is to preside the trial will have to be started some time in May. He also said that he thought the defendants should be made to submit the case to a jury rather than the court on a jury waiver.

DEMOCRATS INDORSE ELIZABETH A. CONKEY FOR JURY BOARD JOB

[Bayhuff-Richter Photo.]

Mrs. Elizabeth A. Conkey, it was announced yesterday following a session of the Democratic county managing committee, has been agreed upon as the party's candidate for jury commissioner to succeed Thomas P. Keane, resigned. The three jury commissioners are elected by the judges of the county.

Mrs. Conkey is the Democratic national committeewoman from Illinois and in recent state campaigns has been in charge of the Democratic activities among women workers.

A. J. Cermak, mayoralty candidate, told the committee that if he is elected he will drive drunken and incompetent policemen off the force and reward the honest and efficient men of the department. He said a high class civil service commission would be appointed for this purpose.

Seward, Alaska, Shaken for 25 Seconds by Quake

SEWARD, Alaska, Jan. 27.—(AP)—The heaviest earthquake to strike this city in twenty years was felt at 4:35 a. m. today. Aside from a few walls cracking, there was no particular damage reported. The temblor lasted about twenty-five seconds and apparently had a north to south movement. Anchorage, about ninety miles north east, also reported the shock.

HERRIN MAYOR, 2 YEARS IN CELL, TO RUN AGAIN

Asks Vindication at the Polls.

Herrin, Ill., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Former Mayor Marshall D. McCormick, who served a two year sentence in prison on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws, has announced his intention of running for mayor again.

McCormick was sentenced with his brother, Elmer McCormick, and John Stamm, then chief of police of Herrin. In an advertisement inserted in Williamson county papers, McCormick says:

"It has been my intention since the day of my sentence to the federal penitentiary to return to Herrin, among the people who know me, and ask for a vote of confidence that I might vindicate my two former administrations and restore my name again to the public and give my family the respect and confidence to which they are entitled.

"There are those who will, no doubt, say that I was a convict; and these and the public in general I would like to remind that Joan of Arc and even Jesus of Nazareth were tried, convicted and executed under court orders, and today Jesus of Nazareth, an ex-convict, is your Redeemer and mine.

"I was the victim of unscrupulous politicians who formed a conspiracy with murderers, bribe takers, bootleggers, and highjackers to remove me from the political arena, and I believe the people readily realize this to be true.

"I have served two years' time and been a good sport; those who framed me have been cussed out and voted out and naturally will do all within their power to beat me for mayor."

TINY STAR GIVES SCIENCE CHANCE TO VERIFY DATA

A tiny speck of metal and rock less than 20 miles in diameter and floating in space millions of miles away from the earth, has been holding the attention of more than 46 of the world's leading observatories for the last three months, it was revealed last night by Prof. Oliver Lee, head of the astronomical department at Northwestern university.

The object is the planetoid Eros, which next Friday will reach a point 16,000,000 miles from the earth. Its normal position is beyond the orbit of Mars, which never comes nearer than 33,000,000 miles.

Through telescopes Eros appears as a disc, which alternates from near incandescence to a dull glow at intervals of 5 hours and 16 minutes. From it the astronomers hope to learn the exact mass of the moon, the exact distance from earth to the sun, and a variety of other information. The 46 observatories which are coöperating in the observations are members of the International Astronomical union.

TENNESSEE BANK INQUIRY HINTS AT CRIMINAL ACTION

Manipulation of Deposits Uncovered.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Five million dollars lost while complacent or betrayed state officials stood by. That was the story of Tennessee's financial plight revealed to the legislative investigating committee today by Advocate General Nat Tipton between generous bites of plug tobacco.

Substitutions by officials of Caldwell & Co. and the Bank of Tennessee, interlocking concerns, since failed, of millions in bad securities for good ones and the acceptance of state deposits when they must have known that the bank was insolvent were two of the high points in his testimony.

"Fraudulent breach of trust" was the term he applied to the conduct of Rogers Caldwell and his associates in their transactions with state money. Criminal proceedings are pending, he intimated, and in the meantime the legislative committee is headed toward impeachment of the responsible state officials from Gov. Henry R. Horton down.

"General" Tipton has been investigating this trail of state money since the failures last November, with the main idea of getting some of it back. As things stand now the state will lose about $1,700,000.

Fail to Heed Portents.

While Caldwell & Co. was struggling desperately last summer with depreciated securities the state funding board, of which the governor is chairman, shoveled $1,401,235 into the Caldwell institutions, this witness declared. This was after July 1.

Q.—Why, when the banking superintendent found it (Bank of Tennessee) failing, did he not take a bond to protect creditors, as the law requires him?

A.—He considered the bank act, I gather, to permit him to permit them to continue, if a deposit of collateral made them solvent. This bank was in the habit of purchasing securities of Caldwell & Co. They made a repurchase agreement. On Sept. 28 the banking department found such a depreciation in these securities that they required $3,800,000, which was pledged by Caldwell & Co. These good securities were put up.

Q. How long did it stay there?

Says Securities Were Juggled.

A. Withdrawals began on Oct. 3. Substitutions were made between the bank and Caldwell & Co. I could not tell which. What was left was of little value. It is called "chips and whetstones" in the mountains and "cats and dogs" on the street. On Oct. 28 there were big withdrawals of these original securities. Sometimes substitutes were given for substitutes. On Monday before the election in November securities to the value of $225,000 were taken out. On that day the state had on deposit there $3,418,000. The pledge of these securities was signed by the vice president of Caldwell & Co. They had no right to withdraw them.

Q.—What is the crime? A.—I would call it fraudulent breach of trust.

Q.—Did they know they were insolvent when they took these deposits from the state? A.—I would unquestionably think so.

Calls Deposits Excessive.

The advocate general declared that under the banking act the Bank of Tennessee was not entitled to have more than $125,000 of state money on deposit. Asked if the funding board had violated the law, he read from the minutes of this board for Jan. 31, 1930, in which they declared in it their duty to designate depositories under the 1929 law. It was his own interpretation that they did not have such power.

BOARD OF REVIEW CLERK MAY FIRE ALL HIS WORKERS

Andrew W. Gatenby, newly appointed chief clerk for the board of review, yesterday threatened to fire every employé in his department unless the county board grants his request for 186 extra workers at a monthly salary increase of $80,099. He informed the commissioners who were deliberating over the 1931 budget that the extra help is needed during February. The board deferred action until Friday.

Meanwhile taxing officials engaged in a dispute over the probable date for mailing out the 1929 realty tax bills. Gatenby said the first of the tax books will be delivered to County Clerk Sweitzer within a few days and the last by Feb. 15. J. L. Jacobs, county efficiency engineer, then said that it will take until Feb. 25 to fix the tax rates and until March 7 to complete the extension. It would then take three weeks to complete the job, he said, suggesting that some bills may be received after the penalty date, April 1.

Frank Pasdeloupe, assistant chief county clerk, said that instead of taking twenty days to compute the rates and extend the taxes a period of seven weeks will be required.

HUSBAND TRADE MEANT AS JOKE, COURT IS TOLD

Final arguments in the Zavesky vs. Zavesky divorce trial were given yesterday before Superior Judge Desort who announced he will make his decision on Feb. 7. The divorce action was started by Mrs. Mary Zavesky, 6162 Kenmore avenue, against Norbert Zavesky, a clerk for the telephone company. Mrs. Zavesky had charged that her neighbor, Mrs. Martha Engstrom, had suggested that they trade husbands. Zavesky, his wife testified, approved of the proposal.

Delmar Engstrom, husband of Mrs. Engstrom, took the witness stand yesterday and declared that the proposed trade was just a joke and that they had gotten the idea from reading a newspaper story. In answer to questions of Attorney Lloyd A. Faxon, representing Mrs. Zavesky, he denied that his wife had been friendly with Zavesky but said that Mrs. Zavesky had often "played up" to him.

BLIGHT ON CITY'S CHILDHOOD LAID TO BAD POLITICS

Association Also Blames Economic Ills.

Submitting her report for 1930 yesterday at the annual meeting of the Juvenile Protective association, Miss Jessie F. Binford, executive director, said that crime in Chicago during that period "more and more undermined certain neighborhoods and civic life, drawing boys and even girls into what has become a real profession."

She referred to the political situation as so affecting the public schools and the Juvenile court as "to reduce and limit their appropriations to a point where it is impossible to make progress or even carry on."

Give Up Activities.

The report sets forth that because of the business depression, the association operated on one-half the budget of the previous year, and was therefore compelled to curtail many of its activities. Hundreds of deserving cases could not be handled and, Miss Binford states, "the economic crisis has made us realize that children bear the burden of poverty and unemployment."

Concerning conditions generally under prohibition the association's investigators find that "the roadhouses are almost altogether controlled by liquor, gambling, vice, and criminal syndicates." Also, that "the making and selling of liquor in homes is greater because of unemployment," and that "neighbors fear to complain of open saloons because of the control of them by the criminal bootlegging interests."

"We see crime in Chicago," the report continues, "having become a profession, made possible by corruption in business as well as in politics, and especially this last year [1930] by the great demand for bootleg liquor."

Praises Police on Beats.

Miss Binford compliments the rank and file of the police department, who have given the association "prompt and efficient response." "They come in for merciless criticism," says the report, "but if you could know as we do of their honest efforts that are thwarted by orders from above and by political and criminal interests you would feel as we do—that only when the department is divorced from politics can we demand, and the policeman give, all the service which the public has a right to expect."

Two Brotherhood Bankers Admit Making False Entry

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Lyman E. Norris, vice president, and Harry Rosenblum, cashier of the defunct Brotherhood of Railway Clerks National bank, today pleaded guilty to two counts of violating national banking laws. The bank failed last summer. They admitted making a false entry of a bond purchase.

"Come Back to the Station!"

You may be driving with your family some Sunday when suddenly a motorcycle policeman appears and orders you over to the side. "Turn around and come back to the station with me," is the command. "What in the world have I been doing now?" you wonder. He tells you quickly enough and you realize you have been guilty of a traffic violation.

At the station a fifty dollar cash bail is demanded. You are able to produce only twenty-five. After much frantic telephoning to friends and relatives, a friend finally is found at home.

One hundred thousand motorists travel in the sixty-two counties of Illinois and northern Indiana, comprising the territory of the Chicago Motor Club, free from the worry of not being able to supply bail in cases of alleged traffic violation. Their membership card is a bail bond.

Present your membership card to any officer in this territory, and if the bail demanded is not in excess of $100, it may be used to secure your release.

In addition to bail bond service, the club provides members with such services as these:

Free mechanical first aid and towing service at any hour of the day or night.

Travel service, which provides you with maps, logs and the most complete and up to the minute advice on road conditions.

Accident prevention work, which seeks to cut accidents, especially among school children, by means of safety posters and by fostering school boy patrols.

Home district service, which attends to special conditions around your home, such as seeing to it that refuse is promptly removed.

Insurance service, which provides the following features: The valued form policy, which in the event of total loss pays the face value of the policy. Accessories are covered without additional charge. Last year the "exchange" returned cash savings to subscribers amounting to $798,030.12. Automobile insurance sales amounted to $3,989,791.62. The policy issued covers you anywhere in the United States or Canada.

FATAL RUM BOAT CHASE IS PLACED INSIDE 12 MILES

Slayer of Skipper Denies Being Drunk.

New York, Jan. 27.—[Special.]—The Canadian rum runner, Josephine K., was 11.7 miles from shore when she was overhauled and captured by coast guardsmen Saturday night after a two mile chase toward the open sea, according to testimony today before the board of inquiry at Stapleton, S. I.

After establishing that the chase in which Capt. William P. Cluett, a Canadian citizen, was killed, began and ended within the twelve mile limit, the board, consisting of Capts. John R. Bryant, William P. Malloy, and Commander Joseph E. Sticks, went into the charges by some of the prisoners that the commander of the coast guard craft was intoxicated.

Denies Being Intoxicated.

Carl Schmidt, the chief boatswain's mate, who commanded the C. G. 145 when it made the capture, denied that he was intoxicated and was corroborated by members of his crew and that the skipper of another patrol boat. Capt. C. M. Gabbett, commander of base 2, expressed the charges were nothing more than "forecastle gossip."

The question of whether the coast guard craft could have overtaken the fugitive schooner without shelling was raised at the inquiry by Gerald Campbell, British consul general, who was present as an observer. Schmidt, whose status changed from that of a witness to that of defendant after he admitted that it was he who fired the fatal shot from the patrol boat's forward gun, declared that the schooner was stepping away from her pursuer at the time.

May Test Out Speed.

Later the Josephine K.'s registry record was read into the record. The papers gave the schooner's speed as 11 knots, as compared with the 12 knots speed of the government patrol boats. To settle the question of which craft was faster, it was announced when the session adjourned until today that the Josephine K. would be taken to sea and tested within a few days.

The registry record showed that the Josephine K. had been chartered to Capt. Cluett. The original entry of the owner's name had been scratched out and a name which could not be deciphered had been scrawled in. This was regarded as important in view of a statement from state department officials that the real owners of the craft were American members of the Dan Hogan-Bill Dwyer smuggling ring, which is believed also to have owned the I'm Alone, another Canadian vessel which was sunk in the Gulf of Mexico by coast guardsmen.

Tells of Chase.

Schmidt testified that the chase began two and one-half miles southeast of Ambrose lightship and ended four and a half miles southeast of the light.

William Edward Schweiger, commander of the coast guard tug Alliance, which was sent to tow in the captured schooner, corroborated Schmidt's testimony regarding the position of the Josephine K. He found her at anchor, he said, 11.7 miles from Long Beach, Long Island, the nearest strip of land.

Ottawa Awaits Report.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 27.—(AP)—The department of external affairs had no further statement to make today on the recent capture of the Canadian motor vessel Josephine K. and the shooting of her captain, William Cluett, by the United States coast guard.

The British consul in New York has been requested to see that some one is at the inquiry to hear evidence on behalf of Canada, but there is no intention, it is understood, of going any farther at present.

HOUSE O. K.'S $10,000 SALARY LAME DUCK PROBABLY WILL GET

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—An effort to prevent a defeated Republican representative from accepting a $10,000 a year job with the Washington bicentennial commission failed today in the house by 105 to 43.

L. C. CRAMTON. [U. & U. Photo.]

Representative Warren, Democrat, North Carolina, had proposed to amend the appropriation of $338,000 for that commission to prohibit the payment of a salary of more than $1,000 to an assistant director. Representative Cramton, Republican, Michigan, defeated for reelection, has been recommended for the position.

Warren asserted the "attempt to create this position is indecent and without propriety."

POLICE TO STILL NIGHT NOISES TO LET PARIS SLEEP

[Copyright: 1931: by the New York Times.]

PARIS, Jan. 27.—Prefect of Police Chiappe and his traffic commission today declared relentless war on noise and voted a decree which should insure Parisians eight hours of comparative quiet each night.

The tooting of automobile horns will be silenced between 10 p. m. and 6 a. m., when drivers are to make use of headlights to give warning at crossings. The new order forbids bells on street cars and whistles on trains or on tugboats on the Seine being sounded within the city during the late night hours.

Orchestras, except in licensed places, must cease their din at 11 o'clock. Phonographs, mechanical pianos, loud speakers, and, in fact, all musical instruments must also be stilled at the same hour, and motorcycles are forbidden to circulate between the hours of 10 p. m. and 6 a. m. Milkmen are ordered to wrap the milk cans in felt to deaden their rattling.

LOS ANGELES FIGHTS TO EVADE PAYMENT OF HICKMAN REWARD

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Tom Gurdane and C. L. Lieuallen, Oregon officers who captured Edward Hickman, executed murderer, in 1927, today testified in their own behalf here in a suit before Federal Judge William James which seeks to compel the municipality of Los Angeles to pay $10,000 Hickman reward money as promised. Attorneys for the city offered two technical defenses, one being that the city was not legally able under its charter to pay a reward and the other that a city council ordinance posting the amount of reward money for Hickman's capture was not signed by the mayor until after Hickman was taken.

It's no wonder that Hills Bros Coffee has such a marvelous, full-bodied flavor . . . the rare blend is roasted evenly . . . continuously a little at a time
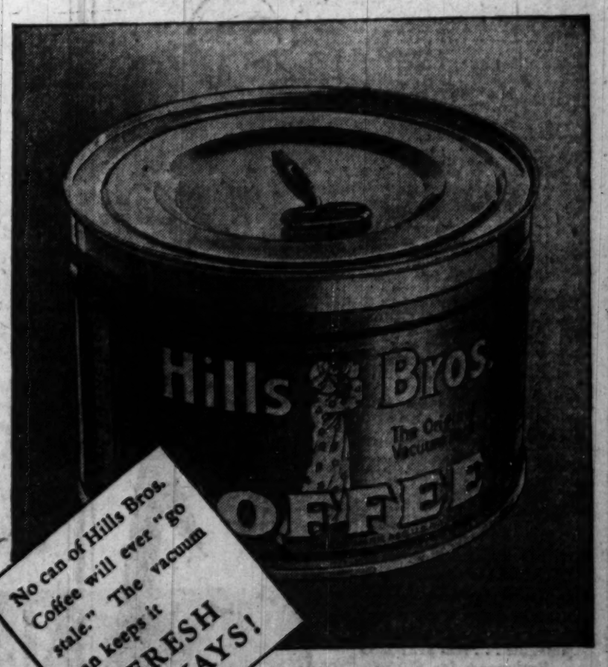
AND IT'S NO WONDER THAT HILLS BROS COFFEE CANNOT BE EQUALED IN FLAVOR. NO OTHER COFFEE HAS THE ADVANTAGE OF CONTROLLED ROASTING . . . HILLS BROS' PATENTED, EXCLUSIVE PROCESS. WHILE IT'S FRESH IN YOUR MIND, ORDER HILLS BROS NOW!
HILLS BROS. COFFEE is roasted a little at a time. Here's what happens. Every berry is roasted evenly—to that exact degree which produces a matchless uniform flavor in every pound. Control such as you exercise in cooking food in small quantities.
It is impossible to achieve such uniformity when coffee is roasted in bulk—the common way. Even with watchful care the roast of each lot will vary. That's why Hills Bros. invented that never-varying process—Controlled Roasting—and patented it.
When you buy Hills Bros. Coffee it is always fresh because it is packed in vacuum. By this process, air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is taken out of the can and kept out. Coffee does not stay fresh in ordinary cans, even if air-tight.
Grocers everywhere sell Hills Bros. Coffee. Ask for it by name and look for the Arab—the trade-mark—on the can.



No can of Hills Bros. Coffee will ever "go stale." The vacuum can keeps it FRESH ALWAYS!

INCREASED SALES AT SHOW STEP UP AUTO PRODUCTION

Trade Revival Here, Heads of Industry Say.

BY HAL FOUST.

They're selling automobiles in encouraging numbers at the national automobile show which is in progress this week at the Coliseum. And executives of the industry who are assembled here are receiving reports from dealers that cars are being sold in large numbers throughout the country.

The public, after 18 months of restraint, is buying again. Telegrams are going out of Chicago back to the manufacturing centers ordering factories to step up production. Men are returning to work after months of idleness. The factories are sending orders to steel mills, cotton mills, glass plants, copper smelters, and the like for more materials.

Trade Gaining, Chrysler Says.

W. P. Chrysler, president of Chrysler corporation, told newspaper men yesterday that the sales prompt him to break a long silence and announce that business has shown a steady improvement since the first of the year.

Alfred P. Sloan, president of General Motors, likewise issued a statement saying that sales were on the upturn.

J. T. Collins, general sales manager of the Olds Motor works, made known that his factory has stepped up production 30 per cent in the last few days as a result of orders from all parts of the country. Sales at the Chicago show so far are 35 per cent greater than for the same days of the 1930 show, he said.

Plant Working Overtime.

E. L. Cord, president of Auburn, said more cars were sold at the show on Saturday, Sunday, and Monday than during the entire show last year. The company's factory at Connersville, Ind., is running overtime and the plant at Auburn, Ind., is being equipped with an assembly line for Auburn cars as well as the Cords usually produced there.

C. W. Nash, president of Nash, reported a 33 per cent increase in sales at the Chicago show as compared with last year and an 88 per cent increase in Milwaukee.

Joseph B. Graham, president of Graham-Paige, told a dealers' meeting that sales were breaking last year's record.

H. W. Peters, vice president of Packard, in an address before the Chicago Engineers' club, said that the Chicago Automobile show has definitely launched a business revival.

Reports 25% Increase.

J. C. Chick, general sales manager of Cadillac, announced that January business is exceeding sales of the same month of 1930 by 25 per cent.

William J. McAneeny, president of Hudson, said that the increase in sales by his company indicates that business is over its dead center and is gaining momentum.

C. W. Churchill, general manager of Buick, reported a 40 per cent gain in sales so far this month as compared with the same days in 1930.

INFLUENZA SHUTS ALL SCHOOLS AND SHOWS IN GREECE

ATHENS, Greece, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Because of the spread of an influenza epidemic through Greece, the government has ordered all the schools in the country closed until further notice, beginning tomorrow. All theaters have been ordered closed for ten days and public meetings have been prohibited. Prime Minister Venizelos and four members of the cabinet are ill.

Thousands Ill in Belgium.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 27.—(AP)—A mild type of influenza is prevailing throughout Belgium. Premier Jaspar, Paul Hymans, foreign minister, and M. Janson, minister of justice, are confined to their rooms with the disease. Several thousand soldiers are suffering from it also.

Auto Show Notes

E. T. Strong, president of Buick, yesterday described the syncro-mesh transmission, with its quiet and easy gear shift, as the greatest automotive improvement since the electric starter and four wheel brakes.

The National Automobile Dealers' association yesterday closed a two day session with a resolution indorsing the action of the manufacturers in agreeing to announce all new models in November and December each year. The association also elected the following officers: Frank J. Edwards, Milwaukee, president; George D. Wray, Shreveport, vice president; Floris Nagelport, Seattle, vice president; and F. W. Vesper, St. Louis, treasurer.

A truck train a mile long, consisting of thirty-six single and double decked carriers, brought 184 Oaklands and Pontiacs over the pavements from Pontiac, Mich., to Chicago where they were reloaded in a train of forty-six freight cars to fill orders in St. Paul and Minneapolis.

Chevrolet will hold a dealer meeting this noon, to be attended by 1,500 distributors, dealers and salesmen. Alfred J. Sloan, president of General Motors, and W. S. Knudsen, president of Chevrolet, will be the main speakers.

VERDICT ON TARDI KILLING.

Pasquale (Patsy) Tardi, hoodlum, who was shot and killed on Jan. 6 as he was walking toward his home at 1035 Polk street, came to his death "at the hands of persons unknown," a coroner's jury decided yesterday.

FORGET THE FAT YEARS AND GO TO WORK, SAYS NASH

Auto Maker, at 67, Finds Youth Impatient.

Charles W. Nash, who rose from a laborer on an Illinois farm to the presidency of the Nash Motors company and a leading figure in the automotive industry, yesterday celebrated his 67th birthday. A group of friends and associates gave a luncheon for him in the Congress hotel. At the luncheon and in a later interview Mr. Nash discussed the virtues of confidence, courage, and determination.

"The trouble with the young people today," said Mr. Nash, "is that they want to start where the old man left off. Opportunities lie in the path of every one. But youth isn't willing to make the sacrifice necessary for success, to cut out the frills and get down to good hard work. They're too impatient."

Success has come too easy for some, said Mr. Nash, and life in the last few years has been too soft. The depression will not end, better times will not come back again, until the people are willing to forget the fat years of 1923 and 1929, he asserted.

"Confidence is what is needed," he said, "confidence, courage and determination. We had been riding on the crest of the wave and then there was a setback and confidence was lost. There isn't a great deal to worry about. As a nation we are as wealthy as we ever have been. Nothing has been taken away from us.

"Yet we are a nation living in fear. The wage earner hears a lot of glum talk about hard times, and quits buying to save up for a rainy day. I venture to say that if every man who works for a wage or salary would be guaranteed that his job and his pay will continue that within a week normal buying would be restored. Better times, however, are not coming back with a bang. It will be a gradual process in which the errors we committed in '28 and '29 are eliminated." The speaker was inclined to blame the bankers for the loss of confidence.

Mr. Nash carries his 67 years lightly. Yesterday, looking back, he figured the greatest asset in his life "my acquaintance and association with the right kind of people."

Becomes Carriage Trimmer.

Mr. Nash was born in De Kalb county, Illinois. He left farming in 1891 to become a trimmer in a carriage factory in Flint, Mich. When the company later became the Durant-Dort Carriage company he rose to the vice presidency of the concern. Later he organized the Buick company and was the first president of the General Motors company. His own company he organized in 1916. His home is in Kenosha, where one of his three factories is located.

"When I entered the industry motoring was regarded as a game for only wealthy people," he said. "The automobile today is one of the greatest necessities of life. The trend of development in automobiles and the secret of much of this industry's success has been that the manufacturers have continued to build a better product and to sell it at lower prices. We've just about reached the low level of prices, but the effort to produce better autos continues."

TRACE FORMER FRAUD RECORD OF 3 FARO SUSPECTS

Cleveland Sends Facts to Chicago Police.

A dispatch from Cleveland last night said the Cleveland police had forwarded to Chief of Detectives Norton the photographs and Bertillon records of three swindlers for whom Chicago police are searching as the trio who fleeced Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blackledge in Springfield and there fleeced her of a faro game of the $50,000 she had received from Edward R. Litsinger.

The three fugitives, Frank Hall, Robert Newburn, and Charles Fernandez, were involved last Nov. 7 in a card game swindle in a Cleveland hotel, the dispatch revealed. According to Detective Sergeant Jacob Stewart of the Cleveland police, they fleeced a business man of that city out of $1,500, but escaped prosecution because the hotel at which they were arrested feared notoriety and the victim refused to admit his loss publicly lest he be ridiculed.

Prosecution in Doubt.

Whether Mr. Litsinger, Deneen Republican leader and member of the board of review, would have opportunity to press criminal charges against Mrs. Blackledge, whom he has accused of complicity in the swindle, appeared more doubtful last night. Mr. Litsinger has demanded action either in Cook or Sangamon county.

State's Attorney Swanson, who on Monday sent Litsinger an opinion that the loss of the $50,000 in Springfield was a plain robbery on the basis of his own story, and that no possible venue existed in Cook county on a conspiracy charge against Mrs. Blackledge, heard yesterday from H. E. Fullenwider, the Sangamon county prosecutor. Mr. Fullenwider telephoned that he wished to discuss the case with Mr. Swanson this week-end.

While Mr. Swanson expressed willingness to do this, he indicated unmistakably that he would not be swerved from his stand that jurisdiction for prosecution lay in Sangamon county, if anywhere. The Springfield prosecutor had previously written Mr. Litsinger that he and his staff expected to be busy for some time on a murder trial to the exclusion of Mr. Litsinger's case.

Trace Browder's Record.

Further information on Roy Browder, alias Burgess, suspected "steer man" of the faro ring, who posed as a friend of Mrs. Blackledge's late husband and lured her to Springfield, became available yesterday. Browder is known to police in Louisville, Ky., and Columbus, O., it is said, as an habitual gambler and cheap confidence man.

None of the principals in the case, Edward Litsinger, his nephew, Fred, nor Mrs. Blackledge, would speak for publication yesterday. Mr. Litsinger announced that if he has comment to make hereafter it will be in formal typewritten statements. Furthermore, he has forbidden his nephew to talk. Mrs. Blackledge, in seclusion at a friend's suburban home, has retained Attorney David B. Stansbury as her legal counselor and spokesman.

MEDELLIN, Colombia, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Twenty-eight persons were injured last night in a riot between political factions campaigning for the congressional election next Sunday.

SEVEN INDICTED AS MEMBERS OF GANG THAT SLEW BUCKLEY

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—A woman and six men were indicted by the grand jury today for the murder of Gerald E. Buckley. The woman and two men are unnamed. Those named are: Ted Pizzino, Joseph Bommarito, Angelo Livecchi, and Pete Licavoli.

On the indictments were indorsed as witnesses the name of 75 persons, many of whom had not previously been named. Pizzino, Bommarito, and Livecchi are under arrest.

Frank Cammarata, reputed gangster, also is under arrest in connection with the Buckley slaying. Livecchi has been held since the night of the slaying.

By obtaining indictments against the suspects the prosecution is enabled to bring them to trial without going through the formality of an examination, which would have necessitated disclosure of its evidence to the defense.

The woman indicted is believed to be the "voice" that lured Buckley to his death.

The police and grand jury investigators are still seeking Angelo Meli, "Black Leo" Celiura and Thomas [Yonny] Licavoli in connection with the Buckley slaying.

Today's indictment was returned on a presentment made by Harry S. Toy, prosecuting attorney. Prosecutor Toy said he will be able to show a definite motive in the slaying as well as prove the identity of the slayers.

Shortly after the grand jury had acted Pizzino was arraigned on a secret indictment accusing him of having killed William Cannon and George Collins, Chicago dope runners, in the doorway of the La Salle hotel here last July 3, three weeks before Buckley was slain.

TO BREAK UP A COLD IN A JIFFY

Feel Like a New Person In Just a Little While

People have found out that newfangled ideas and notions don't break up colds. So millions have turned back to first principles and use what they know breaks one up in a jiffy. Even a "little" cold is too dangerous to trifle with.

The thing to do is to get Hill's Cascara Quinine at any drug store. Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all.

Soon you'll start to feel like a new person. Things will loosen up, your head will clear; aching go—you'll be back on the job with a wallop.

Get Hill's now. It is a scientific formula made to do one thing well: to knock a cold—not to cure a thousand ailments. Get your money back if it doesn't work with twice the speed of anything else you've ever tried.

HILL'S Cascara Quinine Compound

WIFE OF BAKER GETS CREDIT FOR BAKER'S SUCCESS

She Even Eyes Weather to Help Him.

The neighborhood baker may give that feminine touch to cakes and cookies and make the kind of pie your mother used to make, but it's dollars to doughnuts his success is due to his wife.

Robert Goetting, vice president of the South Side Master Bakers' association, admitted as much yesterday and involved most of his associates attending the retail bakers' week at the Hotel Sherman in the category.

"The baker's wife is more important than the baker himself," declared Goetting. "And if a baker is successful it is usually due to his wife. She tells him what his customers want. She dresses up the windows so attractively that the women in the neighborhood simply have to come in.

Guides Production by Weather.

"She watches the weather, too, and gauges the production of bakery goods thereby. She may call her husband's attention to a rainy morning and suggest that he'd better cut down on his baking or he'll be overstocked on whipped cream desserts. Women, his wife will remind him, aren't going to make a special trip to the bakery in bad weather."

At the morning session Murray K. Guthrie of Minneapolis, president of the Allied Trades of the Baking Industry, declared that 65 per cent of the bread consumed in the United States is prepared by the baking industry. The most of the other 35 per cent is the home baked in the rural districts, he said. Only 30 per cent of the cake is made by bakers, he added. Frozen fruits make it possible now to have fresh fruit in pie in midwinter, the speaker explained.

The newest thing in wedding cakes is a chocolate portrait of the bride and bridegroom gracing the top of the white cake. Very special cakes are trimmed by artists who make fetching pillows of forget-me-nots decorated with a bouquet of yellow roses.

Show Nine Foot Loaf.

Among the breads was a nine foot loaf of Polish rye bread weighing sixty pounds. The following recipe was given for a Bohemian twist coffee cake weighing 19 or 20 pounds when baked: Three quarts of whole milk, one and a half cups of sugar, three pounds of butter, yolks of 24 eggs, ten ounces yeast, 24 pounds of flour, vanilla and mace to flavor, three-fourths pound almonds, one and a half pounds of raisins—and a special pan for baking.

The convention is sponsored by the Associated Bakers of America, and the delegates represent 10,000 neighborhood bakers all over the United States.

LEO BROTHERS' LAWYER DEMANDS NEW STATE LIST

Tyrrell Krum, one of the four attorneys for Leo V. Brothers, awaiting trial for the murder of Alfred Lingle, yesterday notified the state's attorney that he will appear this afternoon before Judge John Prystalski to demand that the state supply a more complete and detailed list of witnesses who will testify against Brothers.

The list given him on Monday, said Krum, was not a full and complete list of witnesses to be called by the state. He also declared that the addresses of the witnesses were not given, and that he had been unable to locate them.

Most of the witnesses on the list, the defense lawyer said, were policemen attached to the state's attorney's office.

PAIN after eating

WHAT many call "indigestion" is very often nothing but excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. The best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard antiacid with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this more pleasant way. A small bottle is sufficient to show its merits.

Be sure to get genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for more than 50 years in correcting excess acid. 25c and 50c a bottle; any drugstore. Complete directions for its many uses are enclosed with every bottle.

The Genuine Milk of Magnesia is always a liquid—never a tablet. Look for the Phillips' name on bottle.

For the Syncro-Mesh transmission completely eliminates gear clashing. Shifting is smooth and effortless. And driving in traffic is easier, for the downward shift—from high into second—can be made without reducing car speed. This shift, so difficult with the ordinary transmission, is also a factor of safety when driving through mountainous country, where second gear is frequently employed for its braking effect on the car.

Its Quiet Second Gear Assures Smooth, Swift Acceleration

In addition, a new Quiet Second Gear has been added to Oldsmobile's Syncro-Mesh transmission—assuring smooth, swift acceleration which rivals high gear performance in quietness.

Until you actually drive the new Oldsmobile, and test its Syncro-Mesh transmission for yourself, you can't appreciate how much this modern fine car feature really adds to driving enjoyment. But before you drive the car, make a thorough examination of all its features. The Automobile Show offers you an ideal opportunity to do so . . . and to make comparisons between the new Oldsmobile and other cars of equally moderate price.

proaching peace conferences fail and if he runs afoul of the law again he is ready to go back to jail.

"Indeed," he said, "I hated to leave the peace and solitude of prison for the turmoil and strife of every day life."

Hungers for Peace.

He became solemn and spoke slowly:

"I hunger after peace if it can be achieved with honor. But even if I stood alone I could not be a party to any peace which does not solve the three problems I have mentioned.

"I want the substance of independence, not the shadow. Therefore, I shall judge the round table conference by its fruits.

"I have given the three fundamental points of our program, but even after the government has accepted this program the end of civil disobedience and noncoöperation depends upon the settlement of the remaining eight points of our program.

Wants Land Taxes Cut.

He listed these points: Reduction of the ratio of exchange from 18 to 16 pence to the rupee; reduction of land revenue by at least 50 per cent; reduction of military expenditures by 50 per cent; reduction in salaries of high government employés by half; reduction of the protective tariff on foreign cloth; passage of the coastal reservation bill; abolition of the criminal police and establishment of the right of citizens to use firearms for personal defense.

WILLINGDON HOPEFUL

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 27.—Lord Willingdon, viceroy-designate of India, who has been in close consultation with the government ever since his arrival in England from Canada, is optimistic concerning the future for India. He believes the new dominion policy is certain to be accepted by the Indians and will work satisfactorily.

Lord Willingdon bases his belief on his experience as governor of Madras and Bombay under the present dyarchy system. His success then was outstanding, due to the fact that he worked the system as if it was not a dyarchy at all, but a responsible government. Ministers for reserved subjects, while appointed by the governor, were as far as possible Indians, and, although appointed at the pleasure of the governor, lost their jobs at the same time they lost the confidence of the legislative councils.

Lord Willingdon believes the same system can be worked with reserved subjects in new Indian dominion and foresees no difficulty in reconciling Indian aspirations to complete self-government with a temporary reservation of some subjects falling under the control of the viceroy. Lord Willingdon is a great believer in the sobering effect of responsibility and thinks the best way to defeat the extremists in th All-India congress party is to make them responsible for the government.

Lloyd George Defeats Move to Oust MacDonald Cabinet

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 27.—Prime Minister MacDonald's Labor government is facing tomorrow night's vote in the house of commons on the trades disputes bill with complete confidence of victory following the consummation of a deal with the Liberal party, by which the Laborites will be kept in office indefinitely.

This became clear last night, when David Lloyd George, Liberal chieftain, introduced a resolution in the house setting forth the Liberal party's policy on unemployment, the chief feature of which is a large development loan.

Forestall Tory Attack.

By so doing, the Liberals cut the ground under the feet of the Conservatives, who had planned a resolution censuring the Laborites for failing to deal with unemployment. Mr. Lloyd George's resolution is such that the Laborites can accept and enable them to rule out the Tory motion, which cannot now be introduced.

The question of a loan may cause trouble in the Labor cabinet, as Chancellor of the Exchequer Snowden is opposed to it. He said in the house of commons today that it was not a Labor party policy. But Prime Minister MacDonald and a majority of the cabinet favor it and it is likely to be adopted even if Mr. Snowden resigns.

Radical Move Beaten.

Another menace to the Laborites is Sir Oswald Mosley's movement. This young Socialist aristocrat, whose money comes largely from the Leiter estate of Chicago, was turned down hard today at a Labor party meeting, which refused his demand to call a special conference to deal with unemployment.

Sir Oswald has been jibed at by old Laborites as "a young man in a hurry," and one who produces a new manifesto every six months. His demand today was beaten by a vote of 97 to 13.

The prosecutors pointed Volpe back to Italy it will not be Volpe back to Itaily it will not be necessary to press the vagrancy charge.

SEARING ACID STOMACH ENDS

Mr. C. M. Reade, Merchantville, New Jersey writes, "After 15 years of searing acid stomach I began taking ACIDINE. From the first dose, about three weeks ago, I have enjoyed my old health back again."

Just another of thousands who are astonished at the way this new prescription ACIDINE succeeds when other known remedies fail. The reason is it is different from other medicines. ACIDINE contains Japtase, which, in laboratory tests, digested 800 times its own weight of certain heavy starchy foods. ACIDINE neutralizes burning acid, soothes irritated stomach and intestinal linings, helps end acidosis.

Eat, drink all you want. When sour stomach, gas, pain, heartburn, bad taste, heavy feeling, short breath, dizziness, belching, nervousness, colds, grassy headaches and sleeplessness trouble you, take ACIDINE. Results guaranteed. If not delighted, maker refunds money.

PRINCE OF WALES NEARS BERMUDA; VISIT TO BE SHORT

In Hamilton Today; Cuba Is Next Stop.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Undaunted by a severe crossing, in which the Oropesa was frequently rolled by high waves and westerly gales, the prince of Wales and his brother, Prince George, tonight were nearing the end of their Atlantic voyage to the new world.

Despite the rough seas, the royal brothers, who are on the way to visit South America, have enjoyed the trip and have taken active parts in the social life aboard ship. In addition to making many motion pictures of the high waves, the prince of Wales mingled freely with the other passengers. Apparently the heavy motion of the ship has not inconvenienced him.

Wales Studies Spanish.

Much time was devoted by the prince in perfecting his Spanish. Before his departure from England he studied the language, and on board the Oropesa he has carried on many conversations in the Spanish tongue.

Various South American business men on the ship discussed the affairs of their countries with the prince, and paid tribute to his general knowledge and information about the places he plans to visit. They predicted that British interests in South America will benefit materially from the tour.

After spending several hours in Hamilton, the Oropesa will leave tomorrow afternoon for Havana, the next port of call on the princes' itinerary.

HAVANA, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Only four persons will be permitted to visit the prince of Wales and Prince George when the steamer Oropesa stops here en route to South America. The curtailment of visits will be made at the specific request of the prince of Wales, in a wireless message received here.

The prince is understood to consider the brief stop here insufficient to permit a larger reception. The vessel is due in Havana from Hamilton, Bermuda, Saturday and will remain in port only an hour or two before proceeding to Jamaica.

Those who will call upon the prince aboard ship here are Dr. Rafael Orta, secretary of state; Enrique Soler y Betts, of the department of state; Thomas J. Morris, British minister, and Sir Eric Drummond, secretary-general of the league of nations.

U. S. INDICTS MALLOY ON CHARGE OF THEFT FROM LOOTED BANK

John E. Malloy, former assistant cashier of the Lawrence Avenue National bank, 3222 Lawrence avenue, was charged with embezzlement in an indictment returned by the federal grand jury yesterday before Judge George A. Carpenter.

The true bill alleges that Malloy conspired with "persons unknown" to embezzle $2,600 of the bank's funds. This was the cash lost in the purported holdup on New Year's day which brought about the closing of the bank by the federal examiners.

Previous estimates of the loss had reached $1,200, in addition to the $70,000 in valuables taken from safety deposit boxes. Assistant United States Attorney Owen A. West said that false entries had been made by Malloy before the alleged holdup but that missing ledger sheets made it impossible to estimate the amount embezzled in this manner.

JUDGE TAKES UP COLLECTION FOR MOTHER, CHILD

Mrs. Gloria De Hart, 28 years old, who arranged her own arrest on Monday night in order to obtain shelter and food in a police station for herself and her 2½ year old baby, faced a friendly court yesterday when she was arraigned before Judge Howard W. Hayes charged with defrauding a cab driver of $2.65.

Judge Hayes took up a collection in the courtroom and arranged with the Chicago Women's shelter, 1516 West Adams street, to provide her with lodging. She testified she had been deserted by her husband when the baby was born and was unable to obtain employment as a housekeeper because of the child.

FIND BOY'S DEATH AN ACCIDENT.

A verdict of accidental death was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury which investigated the death of Walter McNamara, 17 years old, 6538 Yale avenue, who shot himself Monday with a small rifle. The boy was the son of Patrick J. McNamara, a police sergeant.

A DINING-ROOM TRAGEDY!

TABLES spread with delicious food . . . most of it soft, highly refined—lacking in the "bulk" and iron your body must have to keep well and strong.

This is the dining-room tragedy that occurs daily in millions of homes. No wonder most people suffer from constipation. No wonder headaches, backaches, and dull days are frequent!

Just add one delicious food to your table—and you will help correct all this suffering. Add Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in some form every day.

ALL-BRAN adds the necessary "bulk" or "roughage"—and iron—that is so often lacking in our diet today. This bulk is needed to prevent constipation—to sweep the system clean of poisonous wastes—to exercise the intestines and keep them healthy.

ALL-BRAN is delicious as a cereal with milk or cream. Sprinkle over other cereals or use in cooking.

Two tablespoonfuls daily are guaranteed to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation. In severe cases with each meal. At your grocer's—in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Doctor S., Mass., says: "A saline water laxative retains water in the intestines. Pluto Water is the ideal saline water laxative."

Doctor J., Md., says: "I prescribe Pluto Water for cases where non-irritating action of a saline mineral water laxative is indicated."

The doctors whose words of endorsement appear on this page are but a few of thousands whose expressions of approval have come to us. The originals of these endorsements and photographs are in our files at French Lick Springs. However, out of respect to long-standing custom in the medical profession—and because medical societies prefer that doctor-members refrain from lending their names to printed advertisements—we have, in fairness to these doctors, omitted their names and made their photographs unrecognizable.

Pluto Water is not a patent medicine — not a harmful drug. It works with nature in bringing sure, safe and quick relief from bowel congestion.

Pluto Water cannot injure the most delicate tissues. It really water-washes the tract—flushes out the intestines in from 30 minutes to two hours after taking. It never gripes or causes discomfort.

When you need a physic, why gamble with uncertain measures? Follow the knowledge and judgment of these competent medical advisors. On this page alone, thirty-seven doctors tell you TAKE PLUTO WATER! And thousands of others every day give the self-same sound advice.

THE LAW IN CHICAGO.

The raid on the Merchandise Mart was followed by one on Hillman's and it immediately by that on Wieboldt's, three criminal attacks in the open upon large stores, attended by murder in one instance and the wounding of guards and bystanders in two. The guard protected the money in the Hillman holdup, but it was apparent in all three cases that the criminals, choosing their time and place, had the advantage of the men relied upon for protection. In most instances in which the potential danger is constant and not for occasional periods this is to be expected. The guards cannot be aware of the attack until it has been delivered, and, however brave they may be, the criminals have the initiative and its advantages.

Such is the situation. These raids in force, executed by conscienceless men, present a new development in crime threatening the city's life stream, commerce. It could not be called unexpected. The city government has shown neither will nor ability to meet conditions disclosed to general knowledge. Gangs of men live here by the boldness of their criminal operations. Until recently there has been no attempt to make it hard for them to do so. They have been encouraged by their immunity. They seemed to have top hand. A well planned holdup executed by a sufficient force promised initial success and the getaway was relied upon to end the crime with profit and without further consequences.

It is evident to all merchants that this and trade cannot go on together. At least the larger stores have taken all the precautions considered practical. They cannot present an appearance of martial law to their customers. Private measures of defense are inadequate and should be unnecessary. This is a community job. The individual cannot protect himself if the society in which he lives will not or cannot do it. Society cannot assume that it is powerless. The city government has failed. That points to the first requirement, city government of a different character.

If there is any luck in the situation for the city it is this: The city primaries for the nomination of candidates for mayor are to be held next month. The continuance of the present city government is involved in the Republican primaries and Judge Lyle is a candidate in them. It has been in his court that present day criminals have learned to take their first really serious view of the law. From this there logically developed the idea that the judge should have his activities extended from the criminal bench to the city hall to continue in the general administration of city affairs the drive begun in his court.

The responses to his campaign thus far indicate that Republicans regard him as the hope of the situation. Business men who know that trade cannot be conducted in such conditions as have been revealed this month know also that the conditions cannot be changed until the city administration has been.

Another mayor can take measures for the protection of the city commerce and do so by organizing an agency of detection. It may be difficult to prevent a boldly planned robbery by prearrangement of a sufficient force in each instance, but it will be possible to prevent them by taking the criminals and punishing them. The ordinary processes of detective work need reinforcement for the greater assurance that criminals will be taken and will be given the limit for their crimes. The law must be brought back to Chicago.

FREE PRESS IN CUBA.

Nothing in the political or social conditions of the Cuban republic that is known to the outside world can justify in the eyes of any free people the measures adopted by President Machado for political control of the press. In a crisis threatening the security of a nation, either from external or internal dangers, press control has been condoned on the principle of necessity. But the situation in Cuba reveals to us no such necessity. The Cuban press is not irresponsible and the newspapers which President Machado has ruthlessly suppressed have been exercising their rights as organs of publicity and opinion. That they have published facts injurious to the prestige of the present administration and indulged in fearless criticism is no excuse for their suppression under any system of popular government. That is their function in a free society and their public duty. That all of their reports may not have been free from inaccuracy or exaggeration or all of their criticism impersonally just is inherent in human conduct and in the operation of any free system of publicity. It does not justify suppression or the establishment of a system of government control.

Such a system could not be free from human error, but would most certainly be used as a means of concealing from the public facts it has a right to know and of depriving it of the instruction in affairs which is profitable if not essential to the public weal.

What is inevitably inferred from President Machado's action is that he views himself not as the servant of a free people, the political head of a republic, but an autocrat unable or unwilling to submit his conduct of public affairs to the knowledge and judgment of its citizens. He seems to have adopted the current fashion of dictatorship.

The interest of the American nation in this situation is not academic. We established the independence of Cuba because we recognized that we could not suffer tyranny and misgovernment in a country inevitably and closely allied or associated with our own. That interest and that responsibility were recognized and asserted by force of arms in 1898. They exist today. There is no disposition in the United States to dominate Cuba or to order the affairs of its free people. But we cannot complacently watch their loss of the liberty for which their patriot armies fought merely because it may be lost to some ruthless power among their own citizenship. A free press is never faultless, but it is essential to free government and to the safety, welfare, and progress of a free people.

MR. STRAWN'S SOLEMN WARNING.

The citizens' committee headed by Mr. Silas Strawn has issued a statement which, in the language of diplomacy, would be called a solemn warning. It is addressed both to the people of Cook county and the state legislature. Mr. Strawn and his committee were able with the utmost difficulty to avert the worst consequences of the financial crisis of the local governments last year. Since then another storm has been brewing and it is now imminent.

Mr. Strawn wishes to "avert public disaster, to keep the schools open, and the police, firemen, and other necessary officials on the job, to restore and maintain the credit of the community and save it the disgrace and humiliation of bankruptcy." He asserts that "the citizens' committee is not chargeable with the responsibility of providing funds to enable the county and city to carry on. While the committee is willing to do what it can to help, the responsibility of providing the necessary funds and of performing their several duties must necessarily be that of the officials whom the people have elected for that purpose."

These contentions are unassailable. As a first step in the reconstruction of Chicago's local governments the committee insists upon a reorganization of the assessment machinery. Instead of thirty-five assessors—a board of five, plus thirty township assessors—there must be one man charged with responsibility for the whole task. In this way thirty-four means of encouraging delay and dishonesty by evasion of responsibility will be removed. The board of review is to be continued, though perhaps in somewhat modified form.

There is substantial agreement on the desirability of these changes, and the legislature should lose no time in putting them into effect. But that will be only a beginning. No machinery ever devised can accomplish as much for responsible and competent government as the people themselves can achieve at the polls. The assessment machinery is cumbersome and unsound, but it worked more or less satisfactorily until recent years. The machinery may have lacked something of perfection, but at least it did not break down. That result is the fruit of Thompsonism; the mayor's acts, together with his example, are largely responsible for the degradation of local government in Cook county today. Incompetence, dishonesty, and delay in assessment have been accompanied by fantastic extravagance, stupidity, and worse in the city hall.

Of itself, improvement in the assessment organization can accomplish nothing unless accompanied by an improvement in government personnel. The crushing of Thompson in the February primary is a necessary accompaniment to any plan of placing the governments of Chicago and Cook county on a level of respectability and competence.

DISARMAMENT OF THE LAWLESS.

The criminal code makes unlawful the concealing of firearms upon the person. The courts have been constrained, therefore, to hold that concealment in an automobile is not a breach of the law. The purpose of the statute, which was to penalize the possession of deadly weapons by lawless individuals, is defeated and requires reassertion in a form which meets present conditions. The existing law was formulated before the coming of the automobile and its use as an important aid of criminals. A bill has been framed to make it unlawful to secrete deadly weapons in automobiles. It is demanded by the police and is obviously needed. The right of reputable citizens, who can show reason why they should have arms for defense, will, of course, be recognized and provided for. But stricter regulations to make possible disarmament of the irresponsible and lawless elements should be adopted without further postponement.

Editorial of the Day

CONGRESS AND THE RED CROSS.

[New York World.]

The senate has passed the interior department supply bill containing as a rider the appropriation of $25,000,000 for the use of the Red Cross in its relief work. The amended bill is now before the house, where an interval of some days may elapse before final action is taken. This interval should be devoted to hearing further from Red Cross officials and others familiar with the work. Perhaps it is not too late to stave off this objectionable proposal.

One thing may be noted now, of present importance and of future significance: While congress debates, the Red Cross is on the job. If we get into the habit of saying at each new emergency, "O, let congress pay," we shall lose the priceless advantage of promptness in attacking the problems of disaster. It is important to efficiency that the Red Cross shall retain its distinctive character as a private agency sustained by private benefaction. An appropriation by congress of government funds would create a precedent hurtful to the organization in its future work.

In the field of relief the Red Cross is operating now with reserve funds. It needs more money: for the present, $10,000,000. President Hoover, ex-President Coolidge, ex-Gov. Smith, and other faithful friends of the organization have pleaded with the people to give generously to the Red Cross, no matter what congress may decide to do. A fine beginning has been made in raising the money. Let it be understood that congress will not press this unwelcome aid and there need be no fear that the American people will fail the Red Cross for the first time in its long and splendid history.

ST. VITUS' DANCE.

Of the several disorders which cause heart diseases to begin in childhood none is more important than chorea, sometimes called St. Vitus' dance. If somehow chorea could be wholly prevented a big bite would be taken in the heart disease problem. This is as one would expect when he knows the close kinship between rheumatism and St. Vitus' dance. They are almost parts of the same thing. Certainly juvenile rheumatism lays the foundation for the nervous symptoms. Perhaps anemia, fatigue, and nervous instability are as upper stones required to change foundations into a house.

The best treatment for chorea is to s that it does not develop. This means watching the throat to ward off sore throat. If, in spite of watching, sore throat develops, it means watching the heart to prevent it from becoming infected. It means care as to wet feet, wet clothing; precautions against chilling. It means protection on rainy days and it means comfortable homes and schools. It means that the parent is to take notice of pallor and to guard against anemia.

It means liver, juicy meats, eggs, and colored vegetables if there is evidence of anemia. It means that the parent and teacher are to guard children against fatigue.

If chorea develops the day can still be saved. Chorea is a curable disease. Properly handled, heart disease should not follow in its wake. Neglected, that unfortunate consequence may be expected. Perhaps the most important element in the cure of chorea is rest. In bad cases there should be a six to eight week period of rest in bed, to be followed by a very carefully guarded convalescence and a slow return to work. During the period of convalescence the child should be entertained without being fatigued. Dr. H. M. Fletcher recommends having such convalescents work jigsaw puzzles. If this advice is followed the child should not be allowed to work long "at a sitting." The heart must be watched carefully.

Physicians regard salicylates as sovereign in rheumatism, but they do not use them much in chorea. They do use arsenic and iron tonics, but good food, sunshine, good air, and rest are better tonics than those that come out of a bottle.

DRINKING FOR ELEVEN YEARS.

M. J. writes; What could I do with a person who has been drinking steadily for the last eleven years? I have tried everything and I don't seem to get results. Would you suggest a warmer climate?

REPLY.

If you have the coöperation of this party, much can be done. But it is a good guess that the person is satisfied with himself and his liquor and if so he will not be cured. If you doped his drink and caused him to lay off for a day or two, he would start up early the next day. If you persuaded him against his will to take a cure, he would hold out somewhat longer. Changing climate will get you nowhere. Changing his companions would promise more. The only cure worth while is changing character and mentality.

MILK AND GALLSTONES.

Mrs. J. M. writes:

1. Is milk good or bad for one with gallstones?

2. What is good for a skin which itches?

REPLY.

1. Probably it is neither good nor especially bad.

2. If you have winter itch, keep the air around you cooler and moister. People who work among flowers in conservatories escape. So do people who live in Florida and thereabouts.

STONE IN A KIDNEY.

G. C. writes: I have a stone in one of my kidneys. Does it hurt the kidney if it is not removed?

REPLY.

It does, but the degree of harm may not be great. Let the symptoms decide. Sometimes "leaving it be" is the lesser evil.

COPYRIGHT YOUR SONG HITS.

Chicago, Jan. 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. I have composed five popular songs. Please tell me if it is against the law to sing and sell my copies at lodge halls and small picture houses. I have a copyright on one song and have 100 copies. 2. Also, may I sell these copies from house to house? 3. Could I take the other four original copies to a notary public and thereby bind my claim to them in case of infringement? G. J. M.

1. No, it is not.

2. Yes, but technically you would need a peddler's license.

3. No; if you wish such protection you should secure a copyright as you have done on the other song.

CLOGGED CATCH BASIN.

Chicago, Jan. 17.—[Friend of the People.]—The southwest catch basin at Kilpatrick and Byron has been clogged all last winter and summer and still is, making this corner impassable in stormy weather. Will you please report, so this condition can be investigated? A. F.

Report is made that inlet to catch basin has been thoroughly cleaned and salted. This action should provide free drainage.

CURIOSITY OR INTEREST!

Deerfield, Ill., Jan. 16.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Please let me know how I can find out whether two people in whom I am interested got a marriage license in Illinois or Indiana. 2. Have written to all the towns where they have been living, but find they did not get married in any of them. A. M.

1. In order to exhaust the possibilities it would be necessary to inquire of the county clerk of each county in each state.

2. They could be married in other counties.

OHMYGOSH!

If a California preacher named Paul Smith can sling paint at canvases, give them fancy titles, sign them Pavel Jerdanowitch, and pass them off on the art critics of Boston, Chicago, and Loz Onglaize as being the best representatives of the new Russian school of modern painting, so can we. Anyhow, we'll try it. Our modernistic painting, "Ohmygosh," represents a Zulu woman listening to an alligator pocketbook eating noodle soup on top of a gooseberry bush. We threw color into the painting with a shovel. Open the door; let the art critics come in.

NIGHT.

Night is a blanket
Warm and wide;
Under its cover
We can hide.

Chains are loosened;
We are free
From the things that Used to be—

Slaves no longer,
Free at last
From the present
And the past—

Free to dream
Fools' dreams until Morning slips
Over the hill.

FERRY ADAMS.

HOOP LA! And a sigh of quiet satisfaction and three rousing cheers. Crime is going to be cleaned out at last, for every single candidate has promised to do the job, and one of 'em's just got to be elected.

GANDHI is out of prison and the British empire immediately went to bed and caught up on its sleep. People like Gandhi are strangely inconsiderate, and while the British empire had very kindly provided Mr. Gandhi with a splendid jail and every luxury, still came the always distressing thought that he might up and die on its hands. And if that had happened—well, talk about your embarrassing moments! My dear, when I heard it I cudda gone through tha floor!"

READING with shouts of happy mirth that eggs had gone to a new low—eleven cents—we rushed straight down to the grocery, laid eleven pennies on the counter, and said, happily, "One dozen eggs, please!" Ray, the Human Groceryman, eyed the eleven pennies coldly. "Forty cents per doz. for eggs," quoth he. What kind of eggs are they talking about in the market reports anyhow? Must be fish eggs.

It Depends on the Point of View.

R. H. L.: Friar Tuck and Mrs. Friar went into ecstasies over the dance at the finish of Lysistrata. They explained to me the significance of every move—this dithyrambic pentachord was a tribute to Bacchus—that swaying measure portrayed the growing wheat—that iambic, staccato movement, a nod to Dionysos, suggested the sparkling wine, etc. Well, Chee Whiss! I have taken many courses in Greek (Restaurants) and I have been on for the Bacchanal every night since the show opened, but I confess, all that hopping around was dysteleological to me. ("Applesauce" to you.) I determined to further my education along these lines. Not knowing any of the dancing ladies, I consulted Bob Gorham, Terpsichore's personal representative, and leading male protagonist. (And Mr. Coolidge gets two bucks for his little words!) "Well," said Bob, loosening up from his stretching exercise, "I'm glad to learn that we are interpreting something. I knew the dance was impressionistic, but I supposed that we were merely trying to impress upon the mangement the fact that we are earning our salaries! No? Oh, well——" So, there y'are! JOHN CONNERY.

TELL YOU one thing: when you stand on the sidewalks and cheer and weep and flutter handkerchiefs the next time the boys march away to fight their country's battles, for heaven's sake don't give them any apples. If they remember that after the war is over they've got to sell those darned things at a nickel per they might lose interest. What price glory? Yes, ma'm, five cents apiece. One apple? Yes, ma'm, but I can't change that twenty dollar bill!

IF THIS BE ALL.

How goodly are the ways we walk, beloved,
Together, and how firm, how true, your hand;
But our glad hours of golden morning pass;
Our sun climbs high and higher, and the sand,
For all our love, runs swiftly in the glass.

If this be all (though I have other faith),
If we can journey in this comradery
But once, yet, at the end, I'll seek my rest,
Content that it was you who came with me,
Content that the short way could be so blest.

ADELAIDE P. LOVE.

LAGNIAPPE.

ECSTATIC REPORTERS at the automobile show give paeans of praise over the new gadgets for this year, especially an instrument board that is equipped with a compass and an altimeter the same as an airplane. We don't want one; an altimeter measures the height you go up in the air. Gosh! If we had an altimeter on old 795 we'd never drive it across another railroad track.

OUR SYMBOL HAS TAKEN ON A NEW MEANING

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 28, 1915.

ROME.—Three developments in the day's news directly affect Italy's attitude and strengthen the belief that its intervention on the side of the allies is not far distant. One was that the Suez canal is menaced by the Turks in their clash with the British; the second was that the Italian government is preparing to enforce the release of the British consul seized in the Italian consulate at Hodeida; and the other, that permanent customs offices and branches of the government bank are soon to be established in Avlona. Probably the advance of the Turkish army under German officers towards the Suez canal furnishes the gravest crisis and the intervention justification that Italy has been waiting for.

PARIS. — The official statement of the war ministry gives details of a desperate two days' battle to the west of Craonne. The battle ended with the French in control of most of the positions. The statement says that the Germans suffered great losses and left on the field 1,000 dead.

VIENNA.—Uzsok Pass, in the Carpathians, which has been in possession of the Russians since Jan. 1, after three days of continuous fighting was stormed and taken by Austrian forces. The pass is one of the most important in the Carpathians, for the possession of which during the war many violent engagements have been fought.

NEW YORK. — Mother Jones, the strike agitator and friend of coal miners, who has been denouncing capitalists and their methods for many years, went to the office of John D. Rockefeller Jr. to tell him about the situation in Colorado, where the Colorado Fuel and Iron company, of which Mr. Rockefeller is a director, has extensive holdings.

CHICAGO.—At Dexter Park pavilion tonight the first six day bicycle race held in Chicago in nearly twenty years will start with fourteen teams representing some of the best riders in the world in the contest. Mayor Harrison is advertised as the starter.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 28, 1901.

COWES, Isle of Wight.—Yesterday, on the forty-second anniversary of his birth, Emperor William of Germany was made a field marshal of the British army by King Edward and presented with the insignia of the Order of the Garter. Warships of England and all the other powers will guard the body of Queen Victoria on the voyage from Cowes to Portsmouth.

CHICAGO. — Arthur R. Barnard, teller of Zion City bank, a private institution, has disappeared. His father, C. J. Barnard, cashier of the bank, reported his disappearance to the police and asked that an immediate search be made for him. He is of the belief that his son has been kidnaped and is held for ransom.

APPLETON, Wis.—Dr. M. J. Rodermund, the Appleton physician who attempted to prove his theory that smallpox is not contagious by smearing himself with virus from a smallpox patient and exposing hundreds of persons in this city and scores in Green Bay to contagion, has made good his threats and escaped from quarantine. He is now supposed to be in Chicago. H. W. Rathbun, who aided Rodermund in his flight, returned to Appleton and was at once arrested and confined in the detention hospital. He will be prosecuted.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 28, 1881.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—Ex-Gov. William Sprague filed suit for divorce from Katherine Chase Sprague. The bill charges desertion, neglect of duty as a wife and mother, extravagant and needless expenditures which have caused him great embarrassment, associating with other men, thereby causing great scandal, and finally adultery at various times and places.

CHICAGO.—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hoyne gave a reception at their commodious residence, 267 Michigan avenue, to members of the Chicago bar, and it was attended by as eminent legal talent as this continent can show. Mr. and Mrs. Hoyne received the guests, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Hoyne Jr., Dr. and Mrs. T. S. Hoyne, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Williams, Mrs. Hattie Edwards of Canajoharie, N. Y.; Miss Genie Hoyne, Miss Gertie Hoyne, and Frank G., J. T., and Phil A. Hoyne.

THE EARLIER LYLE.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—Let me relate an experience of my own before Judge John H. Lyle some two years ago. It was my pleasure to be the prosecuting party in a civil suit for wages. The defendant was a Chicago company of well known repute by whom I had been employed and who had refused to pay moneys coming to me on commission. A jury had listened to the case and was about to receive the case for its verdict when Judge Lyle asked all parties concerned into chambers and these were his words:

"Mr. Defendant, I have known you for many years and as a personal friend I like you very much, but I don't want you to presume upon that friendship to the detriment of fair play. All week long I have been pestered to death by phone calls and visits to me and my bailiff to get me to favor you in this case. But let me tell you something: No one can reach me. I am going to see justice done. These boys have worked for you and having done so you must pay them every penny that is coming to them." Believe me, we were paid.

This was all said in front of at least a dozen people, so you can judge for yourselves whether Judge Lyle will see justice done to our fair city or whether, as some people think, his recent court actions have been nothing but political fireworks. PHILIP BERNSTEIN.

LYLE FOR TOURISTS.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—During the last several years my wife and I have spent much time in auto travel from coast to coast and have visited many different cities. In conversing with brother auto travelers who were headed in the direction of Chicago I was surprised to find so many who were studying out the problem of continuing their journey by going around the city, as they wanted to shun this great metropolis. I did all I could, naturally, to convince them otherwise. Really I believe when it is known throughout the land that John J. Lyle represents Chicago it is bound to react favorably, even if he should fall in some respects. His known courage and bulldog viciousness to gangsters alone is this great city's salvation. H.

POSTOFFICE PENSIONS.

Houghton, Mich., Jan. 23.—Many months ago congress passed a pension bill for postoffice employés and the President signed it. It was duly written in the books and apparently forgotten. My father, after 37 faithful years of service, at the age of 63 retired last September 1. To date he has not received a nickel. It's a good thing the old folks have a couple of children to take care of them pending the arrival of the government's "gratuity." Yes, millions in the treasury stored up that these pensioners and all postoffice workers contribute to—the pension fund, it is called—and when you get pensioned, you don't. Figure it out, it's too deep for me.

J. C. WILLIAMS.

THE LEAGUE COURT.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—The league court is basically unsound. It is utterly futile for a small group of men to attempt an amiable settlement of the problems of many nations. The reason for this is brought out in your editorial of today entitled "The League and Its Court," wherein you say: "The personnel of the court is human and subjected both consciously and unconsciously to the play of national interest."

The judges who comprise this personnel are indeed human and, being human, they are influenced by the political and economic interests of the respective governments which they represent. Instead of helping the world to avoid war they are in reality bringing it nearer every day. It is much easier to come to blows at arms' length than across vast expanses of water and land. I do not mean to imply that governments should settle their difficulties by correspondence. I merely wish to emphasize the fallacy of believing that a judicial body of the character of the league court could effect or maintain international peace. No government would feel obliged to meekly accept the bondage of their decrees, if it considered them partial or otherwise unfair. And what court of law has not at some time or another erred in its judgment? The outcome of such a predicament would be secession, pressure brought to force the disobedient nation into submission, alliances of sympathetic flags on both sides, and war—war on a scale as large as if not larger than that of the world war, because every member of the court and its parent, the league of nations, would take part in order to protect its own interests.

It will be a sorry day for us when we join, if we do. We have not the diplomats that Europe has. We lack the finesse to cope with her political intrigues. On the other hand, we have a wealth of intelligence and practicality, generally known as common sense and good judgment. These have brought us the success and greatness that are ours today. And these will continue to insure our welfare, if we choose wisely, by definitely declining to enter the league and its court.

JAMES J. METCALFE.

A SUPERIOR INSTALLATION.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—If M. L. Maday, who witnessed the installation of Acme chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, could have been present at the Oriental consistory on Jan. 12 and seen the installation of King Oscar chapter, O. E. S., he would have witnessed one of the most impressive installations ever performed. Enough praise cannot be given the installing officers and each officer that took part. The installing officers held the attention of each and every one during the installation ceremonies, and one could have heard a pin drop. The floor work was rendered in the most beautiful manner. UNION MEMBERS PROTEST ON LEVY TO AID JOBLESS

Electricians Give 10% of Wages.

The Chicago electrical workers union is contributing so much for the relief of the unemployed that a majority of the union's members are complaining. Where the average contribution of employed persons is one day's pay per month, or approximately 3 per cent, electrical workers are assessed 10 per cent of their weekly wage.

In addition to the unemployment assessment, the union members pay $21 per quarter for their membership, a special assessment of $15 per quarter to refund to the union the amount lost through the defaulting of members who have been unable to keep up their membership fees, and an occasional minor assessment. The assessments make the quarterly amount given by journeymen electricians $125.76, which each must pay to retain a job paying $74.80 a week. The members complain that they are working six days for five days' pay.

Union Officials' Defense.

In defense of the heavy assessment, officials of the union assert that a weekly payment of $20 is made to a member who is out of work. Each check carries a note, bearing 6 per cent interest, and to be paid in six months. Officials promise that all money contributed by members shall be repaid at some future date, but without interest.

The unemployment assessment was voted on Dec. 15 and has been collected weekly since Dec. 24. Three payments of $20 each have been made to unemployed members who have agreed to signing the note. M. J. Boyle, business manager of the union, which has approximately 6,500 members, said that about 75 per cent are working. Not all of the remaining 25 per cent have requested aid. Members assert that in normal times not more than 85 per cent of the union is steadily employed.

The resolution adopted on Dec. 15 provided for the collection of the 10 per cent fee, and for suspension if the assessment was not paid, but said nothing of repayment of workers contributing. As a result of numerous complaints a promise to repay all donations was made by officials, although the promise was not officially placed in the resolution.

Complaining members emphasize three points: 1. The money to be refunded is to be returned "when the present depression has passed." 2. Although an interest rate of 3 per cent is charged unemployed members receiving aid, the working members receive no interest on the loans. 3. The agreement for the refunding says the money "can be repaid" rather than "will be repaid."

Stops Plumbers' Meeting.

A meeting of the plumbers' union, called for last night in the plumbers' hall at 1340 West Washington street, and held under police protection, was postponed indefinitely when B. L. Cruise, secretary of the organization, turned out all lights, forcing members and police alike to seek their way to exits through darkened aisles. Cruise explained that the meeting, which was called because of members' demands for a new election, was postponed because all books of the organization were in the hands of the state's attorney.

The books in question were seized by the state's attorney to investigate reports of racketeering in connection with an unemployment assessment. The books showed collection of $110,000 but did not show the payment of a dollar to unemployed members.

ROME HONORS 4 CHICAGOANS, 26 OTHER AMERICANS

ROME, Jan. 27.—(AP)—The Sovereign council of the Order of Malta today announced the creation as Knights of Malta of thirty Americans.

Fourteen American knights created at the council's session on Jan. 5 include Clarence H. Mackay and Angus D. McDonald of New York; Lawrence Aloysius Downs of Chicago; Jack Johnson Spalding of Atlanta, Ga.; Theodore F. McManus of Detroit, and Dennis F. Kelly of Chicago.

Americans elected at a council meeting on Jan. 20 include Victor J. Dowling of New York; Thomas F. Woodlock, Washington, D. C.; James E. Gorman, Chicago; Edward Hines, Evanston, Ill., and Edward James Tobin, San Francisco.

THE FOUR CHICAGOANS.

Lawrence A. Downs is president of the Illinois Central railroad and lives at the Drake hotel. He is 59 years old and has been connected with the railroad since 1894, when he began as a rodman in the engineering department.

D. F. Kelly, 63 years old, is president and general manager of The Fair store. He resides at 900 North Michigan avenue.

Edward Hines, 68 years old, lives at 1456 Ridge avenue, Evanston. He rose to his position as the millionaire head of the Edward Hines Lumber company from a start as a $10 a month grocery clerk.

The fourth Chicagoan honored by the Vatican, James Edward Gorman, is president of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad. He is 68 years old.

"Keep the lure of youth"

SAYS RICHARD DIX, Radio Pictures' Star

RICHARD DIX

"The woman who wants to keep her charm must keep her youth!" says Richard Dix . . . star of R. K. O.'s production 'Cimarron.'

"And certainly there seems to be no reason these days to lose this endearing charm! Every day I meet actresses no longer young as birthdays go, but still radiantly attractive.

"Every woman should learn the complexion secret these screen stars know!"

"Regular care with fragrant Lux Toilet Soap is the secret," the famous actresses will tell you. "This lovely white soap keeps skin youthfully aglow."

Guard complexion beauty as 9 out of 10 lovely screen stars do

Because they are so dependent on it, Lux Toilet Soap is found in theaters everywhere—is the official soap in the dressing rooms of all the great film studios.

Your skin will respond to it, too!

3 MORE FAMILIES NO LONGER NEED GOOD FELLOW AID

Funds to Be Shifted to Relief of Others.

Three more families were rehabilitated yesterday by THE TRIBUNE Good Fellows, making a total of 15 families who have been restored to the classification of self-supporting since the Good Fellows began their activities last October. The withdrawal of these families from the roll of nearly 300 will release funds to be used for the maintenance of three needy families who have been waiting month after month for Good Fellow aid.

Mr. B and his family, with six children between the ages of 10 months and 10 years, no longer need be classified as Salvation Army case No. 10. Mr. B. has a job now. But not long ago there wasn't anything to eat in that three room basement flat.

New Family "Adopted."

In place of the B. family the Salvation Army nominated the K. family as case No. 16. Mr. K. has been out of work eight months. Faced with urgent need of food for his wife and eight children, he appealed for aid. Two children were ill. A visitor found a well kept home. Mr. K. is a construction laborer. The grocer had given credit, but this was withdrawn. The Good Fellows will see that this family is cared for during the remaining weeks of winter.

When the family of Mr. D., a Spanish-American war veteran, was selected as Good Fellow family No. 8 by the United Charities the possibility of a pension was doubtful. But the pension is assured now and Mr. D. need no longer worry about what is to become of his wife and five children. Mr. D. was out of work for some time, before being taken to the veterans' hospital, where he is undergoing treatment.

Another family, consisting of the father, mother, and four children, will receive aid in place of the D. family. This family was evicted from its home Dec. 1. The father could not keep up the rent payments because of unemployment. The United Charities moved the family to its present home and assumed the rent. The mother has been in poor health since the birth of the baby, now 3 months old.

Mother Gets a Pension.

A mother's pension just granted assures Mrs. H. of an income to support her four sons. The father deserted his family and the mother made an effort to keep her children together. Recently she underwent three major operations and is now regaining her health. The eldest boy is in high school on a scholarship, taking a commercial course, and he takes care of the children when at home. This was United Charities case No. 14.

In place of the H. family the United Charities recommended the T. family, a widow and five children. Mr. T. died nearly a year ago. The $500 insurance has been spent and the family is destitute. Mrs. T. is four months in arrears in her rent and has not had gas in her home for more than a year. The electricity was shut off a month ago. The Good Fellows will maintain this family temporarily.

GOOD FELLOWS!

HOT SPRINGS NAT'L PARK ARKANSAS

What Ponce de Leon believed, Folks, when he stopped here way back in 1500 or so, is a long known fact. Not that these magic, hot Radio Active waters will transform age to youth, but their natural curative power, derived from the earth's mineral properties, does relieve the arterial troubles of age and safeguards the vigor of youth. (Shall we send you the U. S. Gov't booklet describing the waters and their effects?)

NO SPANISH PRINCE DREAMED OF SUCH BATH HOUSES AS THESE

And little did Ponce de Leon imagine, as he bathed in the primeval wilderness, that today would see a group of palatial bath houses, supplied with the life-giving waters of those same springs, serving a constant host of health and pleasure seekers under the friendly supervision of the U. S. Govt.

Strangers in Chicago Can Find a Cozy Home Quickly

Tribune Want Ads Provide Complete Rental Directory

Families and individuals, coming to Chicago for the first time, often ask themselves, "where will we go when we get there?" They know there must be places for immediate occupancy, homes in keeping with their mode of living — roomy, comfortable and convenient. But where to find the home they want, in a city of more than three million people!

Review One Issue.

In a recent issue of the Tribune there appeared 820 want ads offering rooms, housekeeping rooms, board and lodging, hotel rooms, furnished apartments and furnished houses which were available for immediate occupancy. There were 231 individual rooms, 111 housekeeping rooms, 44 offers for board and lodging, 34 hotel advertisements, and an even 400 furnished apartments and houses.

These offers came from all sections of the city and suburbs. Many of the advertisements offered more than one room or apartment. The total number of dwelling places available amounted to many more than the number of advertisements appearing.

How to Get There.

Planning your trip to Chicago so that you arrive in the morning hours is economical. You'll have a full day to find the places advertised in the Tribune. If you have difficulty with directions, call Superior 0100 and ask for the Public Service office. The Tribune will be glad to direct you to any address given in a Tribune want ad.

Mrs. Gladys H. Bevans Tells Daily How to Guide Children

THE LONG LOOP

BY B. M. BOWER

SYNOPSIS.

Silas Larrabee, head of Whistling Creek ranch, was swindled in an oil well frameup by Owen Gray, neighboring rancher and banker. Everything he owned, except the home ranch, was mortgaged. Dix, an orphan, keeps from his grandmother and his young brother, Mart, the true state of affairs. Gram has her heart set on seeing Chuck a doctor. Chuck has expensive tastes and his indulgent older brother has a hard task paying for his college and social demands.

Pat McGuire tempts Dix with the idea of changing the brand of the cattle from Gray's O T ranch to a coffeepot, symbol of Dix's own.

Tom, an Indian helper, discovers a lost valley with a geyser on the Coffeepot ranch. An entrance leads to it, through what seems to be a blank cliff wall. It is an ideal place for cattle.

INSTALLMENT IX.

VAGUE MISGIVINGS.

"Well, just be darn sure you don't miss any tracks, Mart," Dix admonished in a lifeless tone, and rode off home and to bed.

He looked so hollow eyed and lifeless when Gram came in to call him breakfast that she immediately brewed a vile and steaming drink which she brought to the bedside and forced him to swallow, but even that could not revive him. He awoke at supper time to find two hot flannel wrapped flat irons at his feet and a fine drift of snow forming on the floor just inside the front door. With one sweep of his feet he kicked the flatirons out of bed and his back upon the snow, and went to sleep again, neither knowing nor caring that on the range where he had committed the rangeman's unpardonable sin a blizzard was already at work obliterating all traces of his crime.

The next morning he lifted himself in bed and saw that the wind was a shrieking demon outside and the air so full of driven snow that he could not see 10 feet beyond his window. No use getting up, such weather as that. He lay down again and wondered why he didn't feel like the thief he was. He had expected his conscience to ride him for what he had done, but somehow it didn't. Owen Gray had robbed him, and he had robbed Owen Gray, and that was that. He pushed away from him another bowl of Gram's brew of medicinal herbs and announced that he was going to get up.

Tom and Mart were holed up in the bunk house, deep in an endless game of seven up. They looked up as Dix battled through the door in a whirling mass of snow, but they did not stop their playing nor manifest any of the conventional signs of guilt. Dix slapped the snow off his hat, swept his boots on the stub of a broom kept behind the door, took off his coat and shook it and spread his hands over the red hot stove.

"Well, how'd you make out with the cattle?"

Mart forced the jack of clubs into Tom's spread, used for a new spread his own the card Tom discarded, peered and studied while he fingered the rest of the pack, and finally turned it face up and sat back, crushing the end of his cigaret against the table edge.

"Got many of ours in to the ranch?"

"Everything in sight, clear over to Antelope. Some O T's amongst 'em. That's all right. We'll throw 'em back on the range with the rest of our stuff when the weather lets up. Here! You play that king, darn yuh!" he added to Tom.

"No wantum," Tom grunted, leaning so far forward that his two braids hung over the table while he studied the layout.

"It ain't a case of what yuh want. You put it on that queen and discard, or I'll force it on yuh."

"Minny, she make hell, I lose mo' dollah. Cooncan no good. I quit now."

"Oh, well, if you're that squaw pecked, quit and be damned. You owe me a dollar, don't forget that."

With a broad grin on his face Mart watched Tom's painful extraction of money from a buckskin bag beaded with the Swastika symbol. He laid the coins on the table and fingered the limp bag regretfully.

"Minny she all time hollahs for foneygaff," he explained. "Cost twenty dollah, Magoney Ward. She tell me she gits 'em when O T payum them oil bills." His black eyes swung toward Dix by the stove.

The corners of Tom's mouth downward as he drew a knitted scarf three times around his neck. "Tellum nothing. Minny she too heap much talk."

"That's right." Dix's glance wandered to the square window and the snow drifting across it in gusts. "Gram and Minny needn't know a word about that leaf valley. Soon as this storm lets up we'll go in and doctor the cattle, and then we can plug the hole and forget it till fall."

Tom nodded. "Better dribble them beef steers back on the range a few at a time next winter, Dix. We can throw 'em over south of the railroad and let the N bar outfit 'em up when they gather their beef. That way the O T won't get credit for 'em even. After next fall we got it easy. You oughta be settin' pretty in a couple or three years, Dix, with all the she stock there is in that valley. You'll keep on in there, I reckon?"

"There I will." Dix walked over to the window where he stood staring out at the white shifting wall of the storm. "They're the ace I've slid up sleeve."

Mart shuffled the cards slowly, now and then looking up under his eyebrows at Dix's moody profile. The chill gust of wind and snow when Tom opened the door and slammed it shut behind him did not rouse Dix from his reverie, but Mart shivered and leaned to open the stove draught a little wider. He cast another glance toward the window, licked his thumb, and began laying down cards for solitaire.

"A man's got a right to stack the deck on a bunch of crooks," he observed after a full minute Dix did not answer, then he turned and came back to the stove, feeding more wood to the flames.

"Say I ain't kidding myself a damn' bit, Mart," he said abruptly. "I know what I was doing all right, and I know what Owen Gray'd do if he got his goods on me. I had to have more cattle or go broke. So say nothing about Chuck outa college. I took my choice, is all. I may land in the pen, but I sure as hell won't go till Chuck has got that sheepskin he's after."

"And a damn' costly hide I call it." Mart made dry comment, and built a cigaret.

"Not to a black jack. "But it ain't going to cost that much, Dix. They'll never miss them cattle; never in this world. And you want to quit worryin' about 'em."

"Me? I ain't worryin' a darn bit. Not now when the plunge has been made. I took on the job of making a doctor of Chuck, and come hell or high water I'm going to do it if it takes every hoof on the ranch."

"Not on the O T ranch I reckon you must mean," Mart dryly corrected him.

With a grim intenseness Dix worked in the blacksmith shop that afternoon, doing odd jobs that had been accumulating through the winter but mostly engaged in making a "running iron"—that facile tool of the rustler's trade which honest cowman use but sparingly and always eye with interest when it fell in the possession of a neighbor. Short handled, slightly curved, with a plastic as to any definite design, it lends itself white hot to drawing fresh brands skilled and steady it can faithfully reproduce any brand ever put on a hide. It may be carried rolled in a slicker or tucked into the top of a saddle pocket, to be used whenever an animal to be branded may be caught and tied down on the range.

Dix made two and hid one of them under a pile of scrap iron in the darkest corner of the shop. The other he thrust in the forge to heat, and spent most of the afternoon burning the O T brand again and again on pieces of wood and changing them all to Coffeepots. Mart came in and watched awhile, but Dix never once glanced up or stopped his painstaking work, and Mart went back to the bunkhouse and played solitaire until it was time to do the chores.

Chopped and split into stove length pieces those boards were burned to a crisp before Dix went to bed that night, and on the next night, the blizzard still continuing to harry the land, he carried in another full arm load of branded wood and burned it. They were dry and they heated the room quickly, but Dix did not enjoy it much nor find that fire a cheerful one until the last stick was in the stove he let out a long breath of relief when the weather moderated and the snow was gone there was nothing that could do.

GASOLINE ALLEY—IT'S BEEN TRIED BEFORE

OH-OH!
I PICKED MISS TWEET BECAUSE SHE WAS A GOOD STENOGRAPHER BUT SHE HAPPENED TO BE GOOD LOOKING TOO.
LORA AND HER YOUNG SPROUT, OMER!
YOU WANTED THE RANGERS TO HAVE AN OBJECT, UNCLE WALT. I WOULDN'T TELL YOU WHAT IT IS BUT SOMEBODY SPILLED THE BEANS. WE'RE WOMEN HATERS.
WELL WORK HARD AT IT NOW, BOY, AND GET IT ALL DONE. I CAN SEE A TIME COMING WHEN I'LL BE OUT OF YOUR SYSTEM ANYWAY.

Good Morning!

Again the charming little Punch and Judy theater opens its doors! This time it plays popular prices and is under supervision of the Ascher Brothers. Good luck to it and them!

Its opening movie, "The Woman Who Was Forgotten," has been dedicated to the American school teacher. An excellent idea! I wish the picture might have been a better one.

Belle Bennett is far from being the actress here that she was in "Stella Dallas." She makes her first appearance sitting on the banks of a turbulent stream with her school teacher fiancé, Mr. Richard Atwell. In an amateurish manner that makes you embarrassed for her she spouts flowery lines of adoration for Richard, his work, that's to be their work, little children, life, love, and what have you? Mr. Atwell produces a guitar—I guess it's a guitar—and sings earnestly, at her request, something about giving to the world the best you have and the best will come back to you. He sings it loudly and thoroughly, while Miss Miller gazes at him, rapt and open mouthed.

But, list! A splash! A little boy has fallen into the rushing stream. Mr. Atwell immediately leaps in saves the child and loses his own life. And poor Miss Miller is left to carry on . . .!

This she does as teacher, principal, waitress, laundry worker, and scrubwoman, never losing her love for and interest in her former pupils—for six or seven long reels. She has a tough time, BUT—

She has given to the world the best she has, SO—the best comes back to her. H. E.!

There is an unexpected and original episode toward the end of the film that redeems the piece from being hopelessly mediocre.

As an old lady—and she's that for most of the time—Miss Bennett left me cold. There are moments when she seems a real person, but they're few and far apart. Supporting players do their best. Sound and photography are passable.

Had "The Woman Who Was Forgotten" been directed in terser fashion, with a lot of the mush deleted, it would have been a more entertaining and believable picture.

New Device Pumps Out Germs in Group Cases

New York, Jan. 27.—(AP)—The use of a tiny apparatus which embodies the engineering principles of a sand-sucker dredge has reduced the mortality rate from dread diptheritic croup from 54 per cent to 16.6 per cent at Willard Parker hospital here. The new apparatus, called a laryngoscope, is introduced into the throat and a tiny motor-driven suction pump sucks the infection areas clear.

Red Cross Gets $300,000 on Chicago Quota

Leaving $640,000 Yet to Be Raised.

An effort will be made to raise as much as possible of the $940,000 quota assigned to the Chicago area in the ten million dollar American Red Cross relief drive from large business organizations and citizens of large means. That was announced yesterday following a meeting of influential citizens in the office of Samuel Insull, chairman of the local drive.

The announcement followed the pledging of more than $300,000 by the group Mr. Insull called together last Friday. They were Sewell Avery, Dr. Frank Billings, Chauncey Borland, W. S. Brewster, Mark Cresap, E. A. Cudahy Jr., Joseph M. Cudahy, Brig. Gen. Abel Davis, Rufus C. Dawes, John V. Farwell, Howard W. Fenton, James B. Forgan Jr., E. R. Graham, F. O. Hale, Walter W. Head, Martin J. Insull, William V. Kelley, J. E. Otis, Stuyvesant Peabody, Marvin Pool, D. J. Schuyler, George E. Scott, C. W. Seabury, John C. Shaffer, Solomon A. Smith, Col. A. A. Sprague, W. B. Storey, H. L. Stuart, Clement Studebaker Jr., Edward F. Swift, Melvin A. Traylor, T. J. Thomas, George A. Ranney, Russell Forgan, Col. R. R. McCormick, John T. McCutcheon, George W. Dixon, James R. Leavell, and James T. Nicholson.

Mr. Insull declared that an attempt will be made to wind up the campaign here as soon as possible. Members of the committee are placing the burden of the $940,000 quota on large business organizations, hoping to avoid, they said, interference with the governor's commission.

A wire received yesterday by the Chicago chapter from field representatives in the drought areas in Oklahoma said that 100,000 persons in forty-nine counties are dependent upon the local Red Cross chapters for food.

Chicago Lags in Art Funds, Says Institute's Director

Robert B. Harshe, director of the Art institute, in his annual report to the directors yesterday, made a plea for more unrestricted funds. He explained that most of the funds now at his disposal, which should be used for the purchase of works of art, must go for maintenance of the building.

"The governing members and the public should clearly understand the serious financial condition of the Art Institute," Mr. Harshe's report said. "In paintings, in Chinese sculpture, pottery and bronzes, we are entitled to front rank among American museums.

"But we occupy a building which, through wear and tear of visitors, through settling of floors and cinder and soot deposits on the skylight, we are barely able to keep clean and in repair.

"Within the next five years it will be necessary to replace all metal work and skylights. No funds are available for those repairs.

"Our restricted funds which should be used for the purchase of works of art must be used for repairs and physical upkeep. Eight other art museums possess larger purchase funds, including such smaller cities as Kansas City, Toledo, Cleveland, and Detroit. The curatorial staffs of five other American art museums are larger and more efficiently organized than ours.

"The public always has manifested a feeling of pride and proprietorship in their Art institute, coupled, with the belief that it is a great and a rich institution. This belief is not justified by the facts, for its limited endowment which places it eighth among American museums, prevents it from going into the open market and purchasing those works of art which are essential to the prestige and growth of a great museum."

Visitors to the museum during the year 1930 numbered approximately one million, Mr. Harshe said. Numerous gifts of paintings were received, among their donors being Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Worcester, Paul Schultze, who added two landscapes to the Walter H. Schulze Memorial gallery, the Friends of American Art and the children of the late Anthony Angarola.

During 1930, the James Nelson Raymond traveling fellowship fund, which provides an annual income of $2,000 to be awarded for foreign travel and study, was founded by Mrs. Anna Louise Raymond. Mrs. Raymond also had previously founded a lecture fund for school children.

Cleveland Museum Gets Guelph Art Treasures.

New York, Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Three eleventh century works of art in gold, considered among the most important objects in the famous Guelph treasure of medieval ecclesiastical art, have been bought by the Cleveland Museum of Art, Julius F. Goldschmidt announced today.

The Guelph treasure, consisting of 82 objects of art, was bought from the former duke of Brunswick, son-in-law of the ex-kaiser, by a syndicate of dealers last year.

Some of the objects in the treasure were in the possession of Guelph princes for nearly 800 years. The original treasure which forms the nucleus of the collection was left to Emperor Otto IV. of the Holy Roman empire by Duke Henry of the Guelph line at at his death in 1195. After the death of that emperor the treasure was placed in the Cathedral of St. Blasius in the city of Brunswick. There further donations were made during the course of several centuries.

In the inventory of the treasure made in 1482, all three of the objects just purchased by the Cleveland museum are mentioned.

Rev. Douglas Horton of Brookline Accepts Hyde Park Pulpit

The Rev. Dr. Douglas Horton, pastor of the Leyden Congregational church, Brookline, Mass., has accepted the call of the United Church of Hyde Park, Blackstone avenue and 53d street. This was announced yesterday by W. S. MacLeod, secretary of the pastoral committee of the church. The United church is made up of two south side parishes recently united. They were the Hyde Park Congregational church and the Hyde Park Presbyterian church.

Dr. Horton came to national prominence recently by his translation of works of the German scholar, Karl Barth.

THE STAGE

"THE MAN IN POSSESSION."

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

"The Man in Possession," second in the tandem of plays that the Dramatic league is sponsoring, is as neat a specimen of worldly British comedy as any one could ask for. It is suave, witty, and pleasantly sinful; and it is acted by a cast that would win honors in the keen competition of a brilliant London season. It is the most sophisticated affair that the league has offered to its subscribers up to date—an absolutely finished article in its line.

After first nighting at the Selwyn with this adroit bit of intrigue, epigram and irony, I came to the conclusion that H. M. Harwood, its author, is the rightful heir to the honors of the redoubtable Frederick Lonsdale, who is supposed to hold a franchise on Mayfair stuff for American consumption. The honorable Freddy, fattened in film royalties from "The Last of Mrs. Cheney," etc., has been getting lazy of late, and treating the spoken drama with a certain indifference. It is time he should "give over," as we say when we try to talk in the P. G. Wodehouse idiom, and give Mr. [or Captain] Harwood a place in the sun.

Harwood is the man for me, because whenever Lonsdale wrote a play England seemed to be entirely populated by dukes. Lonsdale's stuffed and eloquent night club aristocrats have begun to weary me, but I find that Harwood's plain and fancy Londoners, in and out of Mayfair, are decidedly human and persuasive.

"The Man in Possession" is a modern variation on a theme that can be traced back to Moliere, if you are in an historical mood. Its central character is the rapscallion valet of the classic comedies, masquerading as a young gentleman from Cambridge university who becomes the black sheep of his family.

He is an attractive fellow with a taste for minor adventures, and after his family casts him off for a harmless bit of larceny he gets a job as a debt collecting bailiff. Then his fun and the plot begin, for he becomes established as "the man in possession" in the home of the vaguely improper lady to whom his utterly proper brother is betrothed.

He assumes the uniform of a footman while she entertains his relatives; he seduces the charmer quite charmingly; he gets rid of a pair of amorous noblemen who are hanging around; he settles her debts, and carries her off to the colonies as his lawful wedded wife. So, you see, the play has a moral ending, and its pair of wasters, male and female, make a match that suits every one when the curtain falls.

Leslie Banks, whom we know from "The Infinite Shoeblack" of last season, and Isabel Jeans, whom we are seeing for the first time, appear as this team of winning adventurers. Mr. Banks is crisp, smooth, and alert; Miss Jeans is piquant, vital, and decorative. They are comedians of distinction, and their associates are skilled in the treatment of various phases of British character, middle and upper class. I am inclined to call this an almost ideal cast.

Bishop Stewart to Take Episcopal Throne Feb. 2

Announcements of the plans for the enthronement of the Rt. Rev. George Craig Stewart as the 6th bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago were announced by the Very Rev. Duncan H. Browne, dean of St. James' cathedral. The rites following ancient usage of the church will be celebrated Tuesday, Feb. 2, in the cathedral.

As officiant, Dean Browne will be assisted in the service by the Rev. William B. Stoskopf, rector of the Church of the Ascension, master of ceremonies. The Very Rev. Frederick C. Grant of the Western Theological seminary, the Rev. Dr. E. J. Randall, the Rev. Dr. George H. Thomas, the Rev. Dr. Stephen E. Keeler, the Rev. W. H. Ziegler, and the Rev. T. De Witt Tanner will have parts in the rites.

The procession will be made up of the clergy of the diocese and visiting rectors.

King George V.'s Cousin Arrives in New York

New York, Jan. 27.—(AP)—A cousin of King George V. of England came to the United States on the Majestic today for a visit. He is the marquess of Haven, a commander in the British navy.

Ex-Kaiser Sees Prussian Rise, but It's Movie

Birthday's Climax Is Film on Great Frederick.

DOORN, Holland, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Former Kaiser Wilhelm passed the seventy-second milestone of his life today with only a small number of relatives present to wish him felicitations.

The day was spent quietly. The program included a morning sermon, a talking picture, the perusal of numerous messages of congratulations and presents.

No representatives of Germany's monarchist organizations visited him, as has been the custom in past years. Their absence was attributed to the economic crisis.

Grip and other illnesses prevented several members of the Hohenzollern family from visiting Wilhelm. Among those who were present were the former Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm, with his second son, Louis Ferdinand, Prince Adalbert, and Prince August Wilhelm, with his son, Alexander.

Those who were kept away this year by illness were his only daughter, Princess Victoria; his only sister, Princess Margaret of Hesse; former Crown Princess Cecile, Prince Oscar, and Princess Adalbert.

The former kaiser himself is enjoying excellent health. He took his daily walk through the village today. He believes his active life is largely responsible for his health.

This morning's sermon was preached by the court preacher of the old empire days, the Rev. Johannes Vogel. Tonight, by arrangement of his wife, Princess Hermine, the talking picture shown was the "Flute Concert of Sans-Souci," in which Frederick the Great of Prussia was the leading character. All attendants at Doorn Manor, from highest to lowest, attended.

At the dinner this evening several of the former kaiser's Dutch friends appeared, and the guests wore full uniform or evening clothes with decorations. Wilhelm wore the uniform of a German field marshal.

Pro-Kaiser Celebration Led by Dr. Hugenberg.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 27.—The biggest celebration of former Emperor Wilhelm's birthday since he fled from Germany and renounced the throne was held in Berlin's sports palace tonight under the auspices of Germany's newspaper king and fiery Nationalist leader, Dr. Alfred Hugenberg.

Ten thousand Germans thronged the sports palace, which was a sea of old monarchist flags. The spectators vowed fealty to the ex-kaiser after Dr. Hugenberg's glowing tribute to him. Dr. Hugenberg entered the ring for the presidential elections of the German republic in 1932.

Dr. Hugenberg urged the German nation to go back to the days when Germans were united and revered "God, king and fatherland." The vast audience cheered wildly as he told them "That's still our slogan. But today we no longer have an inner national unity and we must recreate it."

"We have no army," he continued. "Our people are faring badly. They are not progressing. All we possess is the faithful hope and firm will to rebuild our national edifice. Therefore the words we utter today are no empty slogans, but are appeals for the future of the nation."

Eight Lutheran Groups Unite for Mission Efforts in America

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Further steps toward union of American Lutheran groups were taken yesterday. Representatives of eight met at the Chicago Lutheran Bible school, 2720 Washington boulevard. They organized the Lutheran Home Missions Council of America and adopted a constitution.

The following synods were represented: The United Lutheran church, the Augustana synod, the Norwegian Lutheran church, the American Lutheran church, the Lutheran Free church, the Danish English Lutheran church, the United Danish Lutheran church, and the Finnish Lutheran synod. Practically 2,000,000 churchmen are involved in the mission merger.

It was announced by Dr. John F. Seibert of the United Lutheran church that the represented Lutheran synods spend $2,433,450 for missionary work in America annually. He said work is being conducted in 3,399 fields with a total church extension budget of practically $6,000,000 each year. The new council is planned to be the agency to prevent duplication of work and to increase efficiency.

Leave the Children in Own Home When Paying Social Calls

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Short reading references for the prospective mother will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mothers take notice—or if the shoe fits put it on. Here is a nice, friendly, entirely sensible letter which speaks for itself:

"My Dear Mrs. Bevans: Just finished reading your article on 'Paying Social Calls' and could not resist writing to you, as I don't believe you could have written a truer article. I know of so many women who expect such big things of children, especially women who are not mothers.

"I have two boys, 7 and 3 years of age, and have learned that a much more pleasant time is had by mother, hostess, and children when they can be left at home, due to restlessness of boys and, I think, small apartments. I also feel that girls are more welcome on such calls than little boys.

"I wish more mothers could read your article of today, especially those that think children have to be corrected for some one else's benefit, as many youngsters are.

"Have you noticed how many times children will say things that sound rude or saucy before visitors or when visiting people which the elders think requires a reprimand, which I have noticed if ignored are never repeated and the meaning of which is sometimes not realized at all by the child?

"I find the articles on children true and interesting.

"It amuses me to see a child and mother in a 5 and 10 cent store. Mothers can pick up and examine articles at every counter but if a child asks to see or touch a toy how many times it is warned not to dare touch, which, I think, is most difficult for the child. If just shown to them, many times this seems to satisfy.

"Since writing the above I noticed your article today on 'Mother Complex Bugaboo' and also agree thoroughly with it. I know mine appreciate a hug or expresion of affection, especially the older boy."

I like "especially the older boy." Too often the older boy is left out of little hugs because he is older, though he may need affection more than the younger ones.

Back of the Head Needs Attention as Much as the Front

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Study the shape of your head. Study it with a hand mirror firmly poised in your right hand, then in your left hand. Study it front view and back. Put a lot of study on the BACK. Reverse the usual procedure of letting it go if the front and sides are O. K. Only be convinced you are ready to face the world if the back of the head shows an attractive outline.

After all, you've got a face out front there to distract if the coiffure is not enough to let the eye rest on. The back has no such relief. It has to depend absolutely and entirely on its own merit. And there's a lot more merit back there that might be proclaimed to the advantage of women.

A friend who accompanied me to a concert, not long ago, made the observation that at no gathering of women do you see such heads as you see at a musical gathering. She called attention to one row, two, three in front of us, where the rear view of heads, it must be admitted, offered a most disorderly view. I certainly would not say that it is a common characteristic of music lovers to be careless about their coiffures, for such would be one of those generalizations with a hundred concrete denials. But this particular occasion did offer row upon row of heads that may have had great beauty, a great love of beauty inside, but certainly did not believe in advertising the fact locally.

Now, the back of a woman's head, today, is just as important as the front, if not more so. That's where the chic one works her art and stamps herself as a discriminating beauty personality.

Then, there is another point and the one I have in mind chiefly, today. The actual beauty of a coiffure is established from treating the entire head surface. There must be a fine head outline or a coiffure misses being smart. And be it said to the glory of our hairdressing profession, there are those in it who can sculpture heads out of material that is raw, to put it mildly. I am thinking particularly of one magic hand working with a head that was very flat in the back. By a clever cutting and waving of hah back there, there was evolved an excellent outline. That's what I mean by urging you to "tune up" the back of the head.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Marilyn was told not to make too much noise when she went visiting her aunt that afternoon. She looked downcast for a moment, then brightened up and said: "What's the use of living if you can't make whoopee?"

One day when I was out on the porch reading our little three year old neighbor girl came up the steps and gave me a piece of licorice.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Young Brother Speaks Up.

The night before last a young man, upon whom I wanted to make a good impression, called. Before leaving for the show we joined in the usual family after-dinner talk. During the conversation he mentioned that he couldn't get over how long my hair had grown in the last two months.

My youngest brother, age 11, said in his clever way that the young man would laugh if he could have seen mother helping me pin on a switch.

Ellen Root's friends who attended ... opening of "Rebound" last night ... the Goodman were delighted with ... success in the leading rôle. There ... much interest in the sartorial as ... as the histrionic aspects of her ... performance, with some of her ad- ... saying that the coral and tur- ... pajamas she wore in the second ... made the loveliest costume she's ever worn, and others opining that the two piece evening gown of the last act with the Vionnet blouse and slashed skirt was the most becoming thing they've seen her in.

Among the loyal Goodmanites in the audience were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bissell, Mr. and Mrs. William O. Goodman, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Willett, Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, Edwin D. Krenn, Miss Peggy Hambleton, wearing a navy blue crêpe gown, with an orchid and blue striped shawl collar, Miss Janet Fairbank, Mr. and Mrs. John Finlay, Miss Betty Scriven, the Adlai Stevensons, Miss Narcissa Swift, Miss Louise Brewer, and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Laflin, the latter in a lovely black velvet gown of the Juliet type. Mrs. Cabot Brown was seen sipping coffee in the lounge, wearing a pale green gown and gold metal cloth and velvet wrap.

Group business. . . . Mrs. Vernon Herbst is having a meeting of the Musical Art council and tea at 2 o'clock tthis afternoon at her house (she is to sing, too) and Mrs. Lewis Berger and Mrs. Sidney Rosenthal are to be assisting hostesses. . . . Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank and Mrs. Cecil Barnes (one of Chicago's best known "sister teams") are to be guests at the Cordon's Friday afternoon tea this week, and Helen Hedges is to sing. . . . The girls in Pinocchio are to be guests of honor at the Drama league tea next Monday afternoon and are to appear in costume (it ought to be a good sight to witness Doris Winterbotham manipulating a teacup with all those cricket legs wound about her—or maybe she's going to wear the other costume). . . . The league has now got Gregory Ratoff of "Three Little Girls" directing Pinocchio, and they say that even after the first rehearsal yesterday he's done lots for the play).

EVANSTON BRIDE

MRS. D. J. SLATER.

[Toloff Photo.]

The marriage of Miss Maida Randall, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Edwin Jarvis Randall of Evanston, to Drennan Jay Slater took place last Saturday evening at St. Luke's church in Evanston. After Feb. 15 the bride and groom will reside at 932 Judson avenue, Evanston.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Hoover dined tonight with the secretary of the treasury, Andrew W. Mellon, in his apartment at 1785 Massachusetts avenue. Other guests were Senator and Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick, Col. Arthur Woods, chairman of the President's unemployment committee; Mr. and Mrs. S. Parker Gilbert, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Lefingwell of New York; Mrs. Peter Augustus Jay, George Harrison, Mrs. Hennen Jennings, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Cooke of Philadelphia, Mr. and Mrs. Denfston Lyon of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Meyer Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Mellon of Pittsburgh.

Women and Cats Feature Foujita Show

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

TO meet Foujita off guard on a bus, morning is to suffer a disappointment. There is nothing romantic about his little, brown suited person topped with a typical Japanese head on which the graying hair is worn in a bang and the eyes are hidden behind horn rimmed spectacles, with never a sign of either one or two earrings appearing in the ears. To have the mental impression of a romantic figure, starred in its individuality by the swing of a gleaming gold ring from one lobe, crushed in five minutes actual contact is a blow. Foujita is of such caliber in his physique that it is doubtful whether a head would turn to watch him pass. He is, apparently, just another Japanese.

Apparently just another Japanese, yet when we turn to his work we find that statement in need of elaboration. He is a Japanese, but one particularly gifted, a Japanese out of the ordinary. He possesses a flair for kittens and for women. Both of these subjects are touched upon again and again in the exhibition of his work which opened yesterday afternoon in the Arts club. Though his English is broken when he attempts speech, yet his brush and pencil are fluent. Though he is slow in understanding the spoken word, yet his understanding of the feline and the feminine is quick and true. These are charming expositions that line the gallery. Kittens, cats, children and women, whether they be portraits or drawings after models, the pictures yield an easy delight to the spectator.

Foujita clings to the Japanese tradition in art in spite of the fact that he has done much living in Paris. A distinctly Japanese flavor haunts his color schemes. A distinctly Japanese exactitude pursues his cats. A curious habit of surrounding his figures with a complete nimbus of white detracts from the swift recognition of such paintings as "Skating in Central Park" [where again in the tree branches and general fashion of the composition the hint of Japan lingers] as being instant joy begetters. The "Child Asleep with Doll" is, however, exquisite in its perfect finish. The portrait of Miss Marjorie Oelrichs is stunning.

JOSEF HOFMANN AND SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA TEST MUSICAL THEORY

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Josef Hofmann continued yesterday afternoon on his demonstration of the theorem that the value of certain music of a former generation depends in great part on the way it is played. It was his Tuesday afternoon appearance as piano soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra, and the object of his demonstration was the Rubinstein D minor concerto.

There is no more persuasive or convincing demonstrator on the concert stage today. I have heard the Rubinstein D minor concerto when it was a tremendous bore. As Mr. Hofmann played it, it was a tremendous ...ow.

The point would seem to be that Mr. Hofmann is nearly the only pianist left who cares to study out the type of glowing tone that the piece needs, or to study its technic until he is able to fling himself into it. luscious romanticism with so complete an enthusiasm as he displays. Most pianists stop considerably short of this, and it is why their performances of it bore the hearers. Even with the magic that resides in Mr. Hofmann's ten fingers it has passages that have dated into aridity, but he brought out an astonishing amount of vitality from what was left. Wherefore he again took his own unique rating as the recreator of masterpieces of a former era.

Dr. Stock likewise displayed himself in the field of musical showmanship in the section of the program preceding the concerto. This was in a suite drawn from Igor Stravinsky's ballet, "Petrouchka." The suite does not follow the story of the piece as completely as does the suite from the same composer's "Fire Bird," but it touches most of the musical high spots, and Dr. Stock made them exceedingly high spots. It was a performance of gorgeous colorings and stirring rhythms, the sort of thing where music becomes theater, which was no doubt the avowed intention of both Stravinsky and Stock.

For music in its less theatrical aspects, music that remained pure, golden music, there were two numbers in the first part of the program just as fine as what followed, and by their fineness a great and inspiriting contrast. These were the overture to Beethoven's ballet, "Die Geschoepfe des Prometheus," and Mozart's symphony in G minor. They are grouped together because spiritually they belong together.

More Appeal to Sally for Just Any Job

"I am 21 years old and have been out of work for the last nine months. My dad has been sick for five years. My sister is the only one working in our family of seven."

Thus did a young man on South Justine street appeal to Sally Joy Brown of THE TRIBUNE'S bureau for the unemployed for a job in a letter yesterday.

"I have worked as a steamfitter's apprentice three years and have worked for an undertaker," he wrote, stating his qualifications for a job. "I have also done a little painting, but I would do anything at present."

Another letter in Sally's mail yesterday was from a mother of four pleading for work for her husband and the two sons old enough to work, as she "didn't know how to manage any more without money coming in." The three men have their names registered in all the employment offices and have gone many places asking for work. They can drive cars, trucks, work as helpers on trucks, do factory work, upholstering, dishwashing and shoe shining.

"Those are examples of how urgent a job is for families who place their hope on the job offers received through the Sally Joy Brown department," Sally explained. "It is discouraging at the end of a day to count up the meager number of job offers received. These are falling off, although the need for jobs for men is even greater."

Among the jobs offered and sent to the Illinois Free Employment service, 116 North Dearborn street, yesterday to be distributed to the jobless were the following:

Mrs. H. C. on Melrose street called for an upholsterer.

An apartment hotel on Melrose street needed a switchboard operator and the salary is $80 a month.

The S. C. A. Sales company on the south side wanted a Negro man to wash automobiles. The job is permanent.

A manufacturing company on High street needed five or six girls to do factory work. The salary is thirty cents an hour and bonus.

The S. S. laundry on West 43d street needed a shirt ironer. The salary is $15 a week.

College Grad Groups Girls in 3 Classes; Describes His Ideal

BY DORIS BLAKE.

The type of girl young men like best, as presented by a college graduate in his mid-twenties, speaking for himself and "all the men of his acquaintance," is described as follows:

First, girls are classified into three groups: No. 1. That of the fast and speedy, gin-swiggling, hard-boiled, dirty-story telling, petting female. No. 2. That of the coy, demure, sickly-sweet and don't-you-forget-it-pure young virgin. And No. 3. The Preferred Type.

She, the latter, is not necessarily beautiful, but she is neat, careful, well dressed and carries herself with confidence. She is intelligent and well read and while not a brilliant conversationalist, she keeps up her end. She is neither conceited nor abashed in the presence of men. She talks of those things she feels men are interested in, sports, the theater, books, fascinating people and even of themselves [though the speaker admits to blushing at this].

She may be a little shy, but does not permit it to embarrass herself or others. She is in every respect a "good sport"; neither narrow-minded nor provincial, yet having the good sense and courage to draw the line at the proper point.

She will smoke—but not to produce an "effect." She'll take a "sociable cocktail or highball," but never to excess. The result here is that men of her acquaintance seldom drink too much. She is tactful, capable under trying conditions; not prudishly shocked at vulgarity in others, yet always avoiding it herself.

She is clean-minded, but frank about sex and those aspects of it which appear inevitably to crop up in conversation, these days. She never flaunts her goodness, nor is she closely related to the blatant pseudo-sophisticate who thinks she is a "collegiate girl."

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Maintains Silence.

"Dear Miss Blake: The boy I love hasn't spoken to me for a week. I have tried to find out what I have done to hurt his feeling, but no one seems to know. MELLIE."

I shouldn't discuss it with others, if I were you. Go right to him and get the information direct.

It Would Be Unkind.

"Dear Miss Blake: There's a girl I dislike, but she likes me. Should I ask her for a date? BARON."

I shouldn't Baron. 'Twould give her false hope, and there would be no real enjoyment for you.

WOMAN'S OR MISS' DRESS.

These becoming capulet collars are a smart feature of many afternoon frocks, and this one, tapering as it does toward the center front, gives a lengthened line to the figure. The skirt, with its unusual curved seaming aids in giving a slender line. Black crêpe with lace, wool crêpe, crêpe marocain, and printed silk crêpe are lovely materials to choose from.

The pattern, 2889, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 39 inch material with ⅝ yard of 39 inch contrasting.

Ocean Waves Insist on Chic Flannel Costumes

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Flannel is a headline fabric for spring clothes. It is being used for town and country suits, and for yachting costumes among the select who can get yatching to do. This material comes in the weaves we know by observation of masculine suits, and in the type that is associated with infant swaddlings. In the latter version it is used by Paris dressmakers to make pajamas that are to be worn on southern beaches and aboard ship.

White and pastel colored baby flannel is the warp and woof of chic on the ovean wave. Paris is making it into suits of the type shown in the sketch. Three piece they are, and each piece flannel. Trousers like the gobs wear, only different, in that they have a yoke at the hipline—a yoke that extends down the front and inside of the trouser leg, as shown in the smaller sketch.

The blouse more like a chemise with shoulder straps also of flannel, tucks in under the trouser tops, and is held down by a blue leather belt. The jacket is a three button double breasted one of blue flannel and is the same color as the trousers and blouse. A sailor collar of dark blue flannel is bound with darkest blue braid around the edges which match the hand embroidered anchor on the blouse and the chevrons on the right sleeve. The jacket belt is made of flannel with a steel buckle.

The real tam o' shanter, as shown, is the correct millinery for yachting pajamas. It is considered smarter than the beret and, incidentally, real tams are being shown by Reboux and Talbot for town wear, too.

Food Talk.

All sweets that man has manufactured by processes of refining or cooking the most delicately flavored and the most satisfying to the taste is maple sugar. There was never a better flavor in sirup served on hot cakes or in sauces for ice cream or confections.

For years maple sugar has been a luxury and it is growing more so every year because our sugar groves and sugar bushes are fast becoming victims of the past.

The season begins about the middle of March and continues almost a month. In the olden days the Indians and early settlers cut a gash in the side of the tree. Later on it was found that holes bored with an auger were better than gashes and in recent years maple sugar producers have found a tiny hole bored with a small auger is still better.

Maple sap is composed of water, sugar, lime, potash, iron and certain vegetable acids. It, therefore, is a very nutritious sweet than sugar which contains only calories.

Saccharometers are used in boiling down sap, which boils at 213 degrees Fahrenheit. The boiling temperature, however, varies with the altitude and with the time of the season in which the sap is collected. Sugar sap for sirup is usually boiled to 219 degrees Fahrenheit and at this stage of concentration will not granulate if the sirup is kept tightly closed to prevent evaporation.

Maple sugar should be stored in a cool dry place. Sirup should be kept in air tight packages and kept so until used. If sirup fermenta, which will be known in case of tin packages by the bulging of the head of the can, it is not spoiled. Heat the can to the boiling temperature to arrest fermentation and restore the flavor. Maple sugar that comes in a hard brick is a difficult substance to measure. I have found that putting the sugar through a food chopper to reduce it to a uniform texture makes the measuring much less difficult.

MAPLE FUDGE.

1 cup granulated sugar.
1 cup maple sugar.
1 tablespoon corn sirup.
Few grains salt.
½ cup rich milk.
2 tablespoons butter.

Boil all ingredients to soft boil stage (236 degrees Fahrenheit). Cool by placing the pan in cold water until the hand can be held on the bottom of the pan with comfort (about 135 degrees Fahrenheit). Beat vigorously. When beating is started the cooled candy mixture is quite stiff and has a shiny appearance. With continued beating the candy grows opaque, then a light color and finally it suddenly softens. At this point, turn quickly into a buttered pan. If turned out at the right instant it spreads easily over the pan, stiffens quickly and has a glossy roughened surface. Mark in squares.

Yield: 1¼ pounds.

CHOCOLATE TAPIOCA CREAM.

1 quart milk.
6 tablespoons sugar.
¼ teaspoon salt.
6 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca.
2 teaspoons vanilla.

Melt chocolate over luke warm water and add milk, sugar and salt. Add tapioca and cook in double boiler 15 minutes or until tapioca is clear, stirring frequently. Add vanilla and chill. Serve with whipped cream.

Yield: 6 servings. One serving: Total, 271 calories; protein, 28 calories; fat, 100 calories; carbohydrates, 143 calories.

APPLE SAUCE.

1 cup water.
6 fine flavored apples.
1 teaspoon lemon juice.

Make a sirup of the sugar and water. Boil two or three minutes and drop in the freshly peeled, cored apples that have been cut into eighths. Cover and cook at a medium boiling rate until fruit is tender and has a transparent appearance on the surface of each piece. Add lemon juice and remove from fire. Cool before serving or serve slightly warm.

MITCHELL AND SCHALL CLASH OVER JUDGESHIP

Attorney General, Senator Charge "Politics."

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Attorney General William D. Mitchell today took the almost unprecedented step of openly attacking the professional qualifications of a candidate submitted by a United States senator for a federal judgeship.

His action, directed on this occasion against Ernest A. Michel, a Minnesota attorney recommended by Senator Thomas Schall [Rep., Minn.], served to direct nation-wide attention to the bitter controversy that has revolved around the filling of this Minnesota judicial vacancy.

Basing his attack on the contention that as attorney general he has the right to pass on the professional and ethical fitness of the candidates for places on the federal bench, Mr. Mitchell, himself a citizen of Minnesota, announced his opposition to the Michel appointment in a 1,000 word statement.

Calls It "Political Debt."

In this he asserted Michel was not qualified and inferred that Schall's recommendation was to pay a political debt.

The blind Minnesota senator countered at once with a statement of his own in which he questioned the good taste of Mr. Mitchell's action and termed it an insult to the people of Minnesota. Mr. Schall added that unless Michel was nominated and sent to the senate the judicial post would remain vacant.

W. D. MITCHELL. [(C) Harris & Ewing Photo.]

"President Hoover," Attorney General Mitchell said in conclusion, "has raised a standard of judicial appointment in which political 'usefulness' does not enter. He has refused repeatedly to be bent by such motives. I am sure that the people of Minnesota approve of his attitude. When it comes to judicial office they want men about whose qualifications there is not room for difference of opinion, not men appointed to pay political debts."

Schall Makes Reply.

Senator Schall accepted the issue and replied:

"I am forced to the conclusion that the attorney general displays less than good taste to say the least when he makes reference to the payment of political debts. It is an inferential insult to the people of our state to even intimate that they would consider political expediency rather than sound qualifications and integrity in their choice of a judicial appointee."

The attorney general said numerous protests against Michel's appointment had come from Minnesota.

"Our file of protests against this nomination," he said, "is more impressive than in any other case before the department for many years."

SOUTH CHINESE REBEL LEADERS TO END CIVIL WAR

Plan to Use Armies for Drive on Reds.

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Jan. 27.—The Kwangsi military group, long the bitterest opponents of President Chiang Kai-shek in south China, today capitulated and announced its readiness to establish peace and participate in the rehabilitation of south China. Gen. Huang Shach-siung, leader of the Kwangsi faction, arrived here today on his way to Nanking to confere with Gen. Chiang and other nationalist government leaders.

He declared that other Kwangsi militarists, including Gens. Li-Tsung-jen, Bei Tsung-chi and Chang Fak-wei, were also ready to quit fighting and leave the country, allowing the government to disband their troops and inaugurate reconstruction projects.

Plans Drive on Reds.

It is understood Gen. Chiang intends to use the reorganized Kwangsi army in connection with his drive against communists to the south of the Yangtze river, which is reported not to be progressing satisfactorily. Gen. Chiang today said he is sending 100,000 fresh troops into the Red districts in Hunan and Kwangsi provinces and that he is planning to establish strong garrisons in all important centers.

The Kwangsi faction participated with Gen. Chiang and the Cantonese in the original northern drive from Canton in 1927, but, after reaching the Yangtze, split with Chiang and later joined Gens. Yen-Hsi-shan and Feng Yu-hsiang in the rebellion against the Nanking government last year.

RED HORDES GROW

BY CHARLES DAILEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PEIPING, Jan. 27.—The Nationalist government is becoming increasingly worried over the communist hordes south of the Yangtze river. The situation has become so widespread that Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, president of China, has been compelled to abandon the idea of personally taking the field against them. Consular and other reports indicate that the communists are not only refusing to stay bought but are gathering further elements as they sweep on.

Soviet governments have been organized in many towns in Kiangsi, Hunan, and other provinces. The eighteenth army division is wholly governed by communists, and there are heavy defections in other Nationalist armed forces.

The communists on the Yangtze are again attacking foreign ships. The American gunboat Tutuilla was attacked 200 miles above Hankow. It replied and silenced the battery on shore. The Melloo, owned by the Standard Oil Company of New York, was also attacked.

Occasional public executions have taken place in order to impress the people. A girl communist was among those executed before a large crowd in Hankow.

In Kiangsi province Hung No-chang, commanding the "sixteenth communist army," has 40,000 men under him in an outfit known as the Black Devils. There are four other communist divisions in southern Kiangsi.

Most of the foreign missionaries in the affected areas are finding refuge in seaports and other treaty stations.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 27.—(AP)—The Nationalist government announced today it would increase foreign letter postage 33 per cent on Feb. 1 as a result of the 100 per cent slump in the value of silver within a year. First class postage from America to China at present is five cents for the first ounce and three cents for each additional ounce.

BUILDERS SHOW INTEREST IN TWO WATERWAY JOBS

More than 50 contractors have requested specifications for the Dresden Island lock and dam project of the Illinois waterway, for which bids are to be opened at 2 p. m. Friday, Col. William C. Weeks, United States engineer, said yesterday.

Almost as many contractors have shown interest in the Brandon road lock and dam project, for which Feb. 2 is the deadline on bidding, according to Col. Weeks. An emergency appropriation of $1,200,000 by congress will enable the beginning of work on these two projects by the last of February. Additional funds will be required after July 1, and appropriations by the regular session of congress are expected to bring the amount up to $3,000,000 for the two locks and dams.

After the opening of the bids, Col. Weeks said, about three weeks will be required before the contractor must begin work.

BURNED BY FLAME FROM STOVE.

ALLEN HALL WINS 50-43; DETHRONES LAYTON

TITLE AT STAKE IN MATCH WITH ART THURNBLAD

Reiselt Falls Victim, 50 to 32.

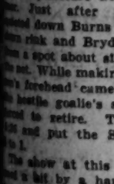
BURNS SCORES 4 TIMES TO LEAD VICTORY MARCH

Visitors' Defense Has a Night Off.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The St. Louis Flyers mislaid their passive skill at the Stadium last night, and so they were shaded with ease by Chicago's Shamrocks in an American Hockey league game. The decision rendered was 8 to 3.

On reason for the absence of a consistent Flier defense was Bobby Burns, Shamrock forward. The tall ex-Blackhawk kept his skates hot by his dazzling dodges up and down the ice. His strenuous workout was far from unprofitable. He registered two of the goals which helped the Shamrocks to a 4 to 1 lead in the first period and scored twice in the next session, by which time the victors were sailing out in front, 7 to 2.



BOBBY BURNS.

Before getting down to the business of winning the first of their four points in the opening period, the Shamrocks made a half dozen futile thrusts at St. Louis' goal. None succeeded, however, until at 2:18 Brydson whacked the rubber into the net after Riley had nursed it down center ice.

Fliers' Attack Is Feeble.

The Fliers' attack was so feeble that 16 minutes elapsed before they succeeded in taking their first poke at the Shamrock goal. Then Hill did it twice in rapid succession, but Timmins deflected both pitches. Better soon attended a drive at 8:39 when he tied the score at 1 and 1 by capitalizing after Kendall had moved the disc down from the opposite end of the arena.

A snappy thrust by Burns made it 2 to 1 for the Shamrocks at 11:44. He came in from the left just in time to take Riley's long pass from the right. At 12:27 Burland passed to Wiseman, who made it 3 to 1 in the Shamrocks' favor.

With only three minutes to go the Shamrocks were reduced to four men because of penalties inflicted on Mulligan and Brydson. They weathered the shortage despite several close calls. Then Brydson returned to the fray. Burns promptly scored for the Shamrocks on a pass from Headley at 16:04. Burns missed his first swing at the puck but took another backhander and it sailed into the net.

Timmins Wards Off Goals.

There was a marked absence of real action in the second period until the Fliers suddenly started a melee in front of the Chicago net, but they couldn't puncture Goalie Timmins' armor. Just after this disturbance settled down Burns started the puck down the rink and Brydson slapped it in from a spot about six feet in front of the net. While making the point Brydson's forehead came in contact with the hostile goalie's stick and he was forced to retire. This happened at 1:25 and put the Shamrocks ahead, 5 to 2.

The show at this stage was enlivened a bit by a harmless display of temper. MacKenzie skated Jackson, Fliers forward, into the net, and the latter crashed to the ice he swung his stick at his assailant. Both were ousted.

Teams got into action in earnest at 5:36. Riley conducted the puck the length of the arena and Burns drove it in. At 15:20 Burns registered again, as he lofted a short shot into the goal, making the count 7 to 1. Nothing else happened in this session except that St. Louis goal registered by Kendall on an assist from Kendall at 18:20.

Timmins Leaves Game.

The third period was more or less a procession of leisurely skating until Burns of St. Louis produced its third goal of the match. This happened as a result of a pass for all scrambles in front of Fliers' net. Geyer was credited with taking a pass from Cameron and shooting it past Goalie Karakas, who supplanted Timmins in this session.

The Shamrocks completed their scoring work when at 18:04 Mulligan rushed the rubber into the net after MacKenzie had coaxed the disc down from the opposite end of the rink.

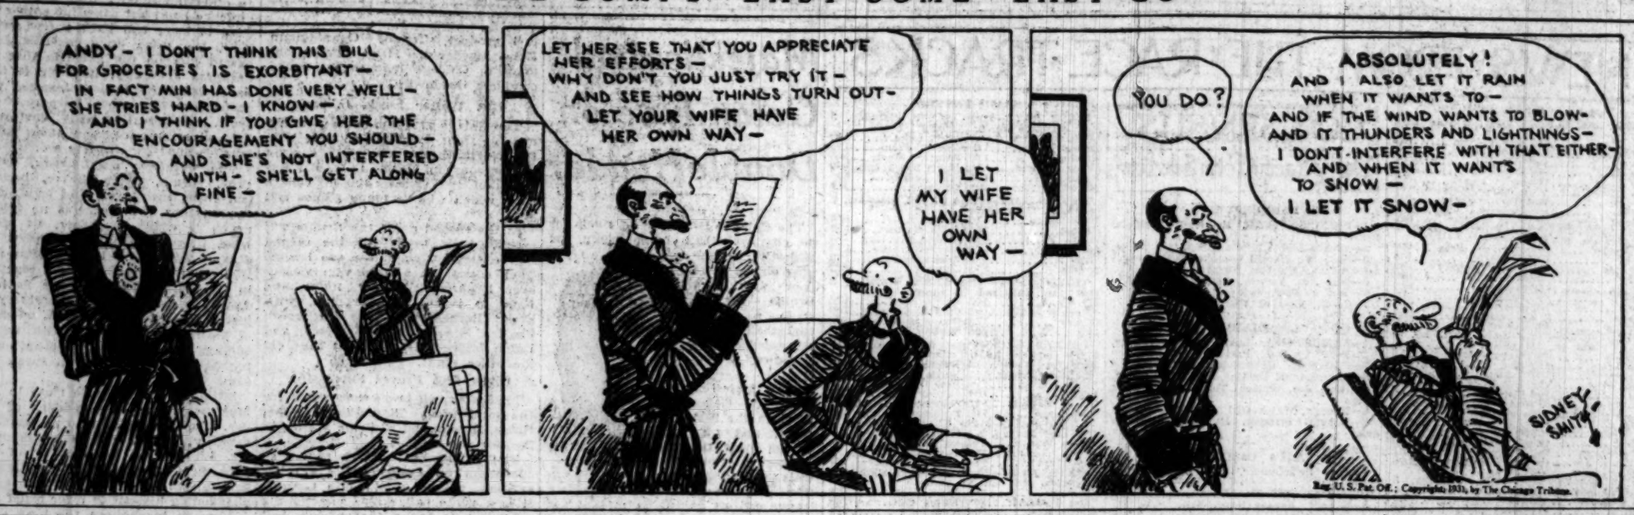
THE GUMPS—EASY COME—EASY GO



Wrestling, Be It Fake or on Up and Up, Provides Action

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 27.—Always credulous and optimistic, I could be deceived easily by a band of heavyweight wrestlers if they wished to take advantage of my trusting nature, but, regardless of their sincerity, the boys who are operating in New York just now are far more lively and amusing than the heavyweight prize fighters, more modest in their demands, and more eager to please the customers.

JIM LONDOS.

It really does not matter much who is champion, anyway, a fact which the customers are unwilling to admit as to pugilism, although in wrestling they are quite willing to divide the title three ways. There are three heavyweight wrestlers in the United States alone who claim to be the heavyweight champion. Each has his own territorial rights. Jim Londos is champion in New York and vicinity; Don George, the ex-collegian, is champion of a large practice elsewhere, and John Pesek of Nebraska seems to be the heavyweight champion of the world in Columbus, O., Cincinnati, and certain counties in West Virginia.

Enjoy Patrons' Confidence.

Each in his own jurisdiction appears to enjoy the confidence of the patrons who are quite aware of the claims of the others, but they seldom muscle into a rival's zone of operations and consequently there is no such bickering and calling of names as always goes on in pugilism. And above all these champions, including his own man, Mr. Londos, Jack Curley, the head man of the New York territory, rates a number of privately owned heavyweights belonging to various sporting princes of India.

The earnest desire of the wrestlers to entertain the patrons is a rebuke to the cultivated indifference of the heavyweight pugilists. They heave one another in long, spinning flights to three-point landings in the aisles, compared to which the most spectacular loops ever performed by Fainting Phil Scott are but the primary movements of the game of squat-tag. They squeal, they whinney and utter other strange animal cries, which, naturally, suggest that a group of wrestlers should be called a herd, and when one heavyweight starts knocking another one's skull upon the floor like a babboon banging a cocoanut on a rock, the patrons understand that, whatever else may be said of all this, it is entertainment.

Fans Don't Worry.

Whether the wrestling is good or only makebelieve is a question which the patrons, having long forgotten all they ever knew of the game, if anything, have not troubled themselves to inquire. It is comparatively simple to detect the fraud when one prize fighter subsides before another without due cause. The things that one prize fighter can do to another with two fists are few, and the boys do these few things with such languid deliberation that the patrons have become good judges of cause and effect.

There is not much fakery in heavyweight prize fighting now, with Primo Carnera temporarily withdrawn to the drama. They have to enter the ring, at least, to execute a phoney, and the last place to look for a heavyweight fighter of any prominence is in the ring.

The wrestlers, however, have a much larger range of art. The customers have a hazy idea that if one wrestler does something to another one in a certain way that is called a half-nelson; that if he throws him past the fifteenth row it is called a flying mare. But that is about all, and this ignorance is rather a comfort than an inconvenience.

Has Good Time, Anyway.

When the bout is over and the boy at the news stand up the block asks the customer, "What did he throw him with?" the customer can't answer in a word, but has to reply, "Well, I tell you. First he grabbed him around here, like this, and then he did like this——" But still, if it was a fake, the customer has no way of knowing that it was, and he goes his way believing that he had a very fine time at the wrestling, which is the test of a good time, anyway.

Moreover, it has been a long time since any prize fighter was permitted to indulge in what is known to the "LITTLE BROWN JUG."

RECENTLY The Wake published the words of "Little Brown Jug" as remembered by Helper Seybert when he sang them 50 years ago. From the communications received from present readers the words or contents of "Little Brown Jug" left a lasting impression on many others.

Helper N. J. Scalt writes: "I have heard many versions. I am a Kentuckian and I can't say which are the original words, but I will give my idea of how it was sung in the hills where the real stuff was made":

Every night I go to bed,
The little brown jug right under my head.
Te, ha, ha, ha, you and me,
My little brown jug and my whisky.

When at morning I arise,
My little brown jug right under my eyes.
Te, ha, ha, ha, you and me,
My little brown jug and my whisky.

Me and my wife and the little brown jug
Crossed the river on a rotten log;
My foot slipped and fell in the mud
And broke the handle off the little brown jug.

Now it sits upon the shelf,
My little brown jug is not itself.
Te, ha, ha, ha, you and me,
My little brown jug and my whisky.

From Mrs. Mosely, Helper, comes, "I am 72 years old and also sang 'Little Brown Jug' and was delighted to get the words, as I had forgotten parts of the song. We also sang about Granny's Chair'—perhaps some old timer can supply the words I have forgotten. The chorus went something like 'How they snickered, how they laughed, how my brothers and my sisters chaffed when they heard the lawyer declare, Granny had only left to me her old arm chair.'"

With the Usual Apologies.

There came to our shores
A poor exile of Erin,
The dew on his cloak
Was as heavy as slate,
But ere the ship left,
The which he had sailed on,
He was one of the foinest,
A walkin' his bate.

PAGE WILL SEEK SHOWDOWN ON COACHES' PAY

To Continue Fight for Indiana Salary.

Bloomington, Ind., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Until April 1 Indiana university will have two varsity football coaches.

After that, according to the decree of the university board of control, E. C. Hayes, track coach and freshman football coach here for the last seven years, will be in charge of varsity football.

But H. O. (Pat) Page, varsity grid coach for the last five years, again insisted here tonight that he has a contract running through the 1931 season. It calls, Page says, for payment of $13,000 salary, and altogether he says, the university owes him $16,750.

Alumni Help Still Unexplained.

Indiana university authorities have not explained what alumni contributed the money which went to make up a part of Page's salary, and they have not explained how this money was raised or handled. It is generally believed here that alumni, who are always athletic camp followers, contributed to the fund to make up the difference between what the university was paying Page and what his contract with the university called for.

Page says he got some of his money by going to designated banks and signing notes for loans. These notes later were taken up by alumni. Page insists that all this was done through the machinery of the university. However, Page, in the resignation he submitted to the university as requested a few days ago, included a stipulation which said that he was not to be held personally responsible for any acts of Indiana university athletic authorities. Page also in this contract provided for payment of the $16,750.

Rejected Page's Resignation.

The university authorities rejected his resignation and instead declared Page's services ended after April 1 and appointed Hayes. The draft of the resignation was seen by Maj. Griffith, Big Ten athletic commissioner, before he sent it to the university. Page said. Also he has learned, he said, that there are no protests against him personally on file with the conference.

Page is exhibiting a copy of a document which says it was approved by the board of trustees of Indiana university on June 20, 1929, and which he regards as proof that he is still under contract.

A hunt for the original copy of this document in the files of John W. Cravens, secretary of the board of trustees, has resulted in failure in at least one case and has brought forth the tip that the document no longer exists. Page intends to stay here until April 7 reporting daily to Zora Clevenger, athletic director, for instructions. He feels this will justify his contention so far as he is concerned that his agreement with the university is being fulfilled. After April 1 if legal counsel supports him Page probably will move back to Chicago, his former home, and file a suit against the university for collection of salary.

May Seek Showdown.

Page also may ask for a showdown in the Western conference as to whether a so-called gentleman's agreement between a university and a faculty member is actually binding. The informal agreement, in the state of Indiana, is becoming more and more the form by which a college or university retains its faculty members from one year to the next.

Page is inclined to believe that a showdown on the matter of coaches' salaries might be a good thing for all concerned in the conference. He feels that his salary, which rose in scale from $12,000 to $13,000 eventually, is not astonishingly larger than that actually received by other coaches in similar situations.

"If you're losing games, of course, a big salary for a coach is over-emphasis of athletics," he said. "But if you're winning them, then you can

FIGHTING HIS JOB

Schmeling, in N. Y., Appears Fit, Cheerful

New York, Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Max Schmeling, world's heavyweight champion, tanned by outside work and looking stronger than on his trip here last May to fight Jack Sharkey, arrived tonight on the Europa, accompanied by Max Machon, his German trainer and friend.

Schmeling, although he is no longer recognized by the New York state athletic commission as the world's champion, appeared in the best of spirits as he greeted his manager, Joe Jacobs, and friends on board the Europa.

The German boxer, glad to be back in New York, declared he had not been idle in Germany, but had rested on board the Europa. His general appearance bore out his remarks of training, as he appeared ready to step into the ring to meet an outstanding challenger on very short notice.

His Job Is to Fight.

Queried as to whom he preferred to meet in the defense of the heavyweight title, which he won in his meeting with Sharkey, the champion said:

"My work is to fight. My manager is Joe Jacobs and his work is to pick the opponents.

"I promised Sharkey a return bout last year after the match in which I won the heavyweight championship with the understanding that he would assume the responsibility of clearing all differences with my old manager, Arthur Bulow. This Sharkey found impossible to accomplish, and I believe that I then became relieved of my obligation to meet him.

Sharkey Should Fight Stribling.

"The logical thing then for Sharkey to do was to fight Stribling. Stribling has done things in the ring in the meantime, knocking out Otto von Porat and Phil Scott.

"My contract with Madison Square Garden stipulates that I must fight a man to be named 90 days before the bout to be held in June. I do not care whom I fight. I am the champion and it is my business to defend the title. I want to do that and against the best challenger."

WHITE SOX SEND PITCHER HENRY TO MINNEAPOLIS

Secretary Louis Barbour of the White Sox yesterday announced that Pitcher Frank J. Henry, better known as Dutch, had been released to the Minneapolis American association club. Henry compiled a modest record of two victories against 17 defeats last season, so the Sox officials didn't deem it necessary to retain a string on his services. Henry was taken from the Giants on waivers in 1929.

Mrs. Berghahm Rolls 687 in Neva Bowling League

KIN OF OLD TIME FIGHTER TO SEEK GOLDEN GLOVES

Krause, Lt. Beausholte's Nephew, Enters Meet.

[ENTRY BLANK ON FOLLOWING PAGE.]

Frank Krause, a nephew of Police Lieutenant Jack Beausholte, has entered THE TRIBUNE Golden Gloves boxing tournament. According to his trainer, young Krause is a natural boxer. He will compete in the middleweight class.

Many old time fans will remember Beausholte. Twenty-five years ago he met such fighters as Tommy Ryan, Billy Stift, Jim Arnold, and Eddie Croake and others in the middleweight and light heavyweight divisions. If Frank has inherited his uncle's ability he'll have a splendid opportunity to fulfill the boast that he will win the Golden Gloves 160 pound competition.

Larger Sectional Entries.

The fourth annual tournaments in the three Chicago sections promise a larger entry than ever before. This is splendid, for Chicago's boys will face much stronger teams from the 15 cities coöperating with THE TRIBUNE in selection of the squad which will fight at Madison Square Garden March 30.

Twenty-four prizes are offered in the Chicago semi-finals and finals at the Stadium March 11. The eight champions will receive a miniature golden glove set with a diamond in the palm. The eight runners-up will receive a golden glove set with a ruby, while the same award will be given to the eight third place men, except the setting is emerald. A team prize will be awarded the squad scoring the most points.

Word has been received from New York that the eastern fighters are determined to avenge last year's defeat. The score between the cities now is even. In 1928 New York and Chicago tied in the bouts at the Coliseum. The next year New York won 11 bouts to 5 at Madison Square Garden, while last year Chicago won 10 bouts to 6 before 23,000 persons at the Stadium. The crowd set an indoor record for both professional and amateur boxing.

Must Enter Immediately.

Boys who would enter the competition for the Chicago championships, or who seek places on the squad of 24 that will be taken to New York, must enter immediately. No post entries will be received. Those who would compete at the Ashland Boulevard auditorium Feb. 16 and 17 must have their entry blanks in THE TRIBUNE sports department by Feb. 9. The north division entries at the Fronton close Feb. 12, and entries for White City close Feb. 16.

All boys must be registered with the Amateur Athletic union. Registration cards may be obtained from Capt. Roy E. Davis, 534 South Clark street, Chicago.

MUSCATINE PICKS CHAMPS

Muscatine, Ia., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Brother fought brother in two instances here tonight as seven champions were crowned in the first annual Golden Glove tournament sponsored by the Muscatine Journal. Tomorrow the team goes to Davenport to compete in the finals of the Davenport Times contest.

In the flyweight division Leo and Everett Holliday battled each other to represent Muscatine in the 112 pound class, the latter having only a slight advantage over Leo in three rounds. The other brother act was put on in the heavyweight class between George and Jack Schell, the former getting the verdict at the end of three fast rounds. The results of tonight's championship bouts were:

FLYWEIGHT DIVISION.
Everett Holliday beat Leo Holliday [3].

FEATHERWEIGHT DIVISION.
Glen Reed beat Leo Esterdahl [3].

LIGHTWEIGHT DIVISION.

Charge Army Tempts Player Brings Denial

New York, Jan. 27.—(AP)—A charge that the military academy at West Point had attempted to "recruit" Kenneth Goff, star full back of the Rhode Island State football team, was made in a copyrighted story in the Providence, R. I., Bulletin today and promptly denied by West Point officials.

The Bulletin said it possessed correspondence tending to show an attempt to get Goff to seek admission to the academy and that W. T. Wrightson of New York, described as a member of the "Army Athletic association," had tried to secure Goff's appointment for examination in a Massachusetts district in which Goff did not live.

Maj. Philip Fleming, graduate manager of athletics at the academy, when told of the charge, pointed out that Wrightson had no official connection with the academy organization and said no official at West Point had or would take any action to recruit a college football player.

MURRAY REVEALS RECRUITING.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Coach Frank J. Murray of Marquette university tonight said he had been approached by three men when Marquette university played football at Boston last fall and asked to use his influence to get Francis Delg, veteran full back, to continue his studies at West Point.

"As I was leaving the dressing room after Marquette defeated Boston college Nov. 1," Coach Murray said, "I was approached by three men, two of whom identified themselves as former army officers and interested in diverting star college players to the academy.

"The chief spokesman was a Boston cotton merchant and a former army football player. He asked me to talk to Delg and urge him to ask for an appointment to the academy in the spring. 'You get that full back of yours to come to the Point and we'll take care of his commission,' was the substance of the conversation," Murray said.

Delg tonight said he was considering seeking an appointment at West Point but was withholding his decision until another conference with Murray.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Hall beat him, 50 to 43, in 40 innings amid the wildest excitement that ever took place at a Chicago billiard match. Hall and Layton had battled for 35 innings with never more than a point or two separating them. Then the old champion faltered for an instant. He missed an easy shot. He left the balls in difficult position for Hall.

But Hall sweeps all the way around the table and got a break through a lucky "kiss." Then viciously and with all the confidence and abandon of youth, he took after the old master in almost brutal fashion.

Sees Crown Slipping.

As Hall clicked off his shots—hard ones and easy ones—long ones and short ones—the veteran Missourian, so accustomed to being champion that perhaps it had become boresome, slumped lower and lower in his chair. Layton heard the crowd yelling and cheering for his youthful Chicago opponent. His red hair hurled back a glare at the bright lights which were blinking down through the smoke laden atmosphere.

Hall got another one that looked "lucky." The crowd was wild by this time. "Give it back to him, Al," shrieked his public. "Like! will," he shouted back.

He had the old champion staggering beneath a 47 to 43 score in the 39th inning. Then Layton made one. It now was Hall's turn, and playing with a confidence that no barrier could stop, he clicked off three hard shots and the game was over. Score by innings:

SKATE TITLISTS TO COMPETE IN NATIONAL MEET

International Stars Will Invade Stadium.

The North American indoor speed skating championships will be decided Feb. 27 and 28 at the Chicago Stadium under the sponsorship of the Norwegian American Athletic association.

Final sanction for the races arrived yesterday from the Amateur Skating union of the United States and the Amateur Skating association of Canada, whose leading stars will compete in twenty speed competitions expected to attract more than 30,000 fans during the two day meet.

Rosa Robinson Invited.

Among outstanding skaters of America, to whom invitations are being extended are Rosa Robinson, champion of Canada, and holder of the world's outdoor records at the three and five mile distances; Jack Shea of Lake Placid, champion of the United States and world record holder at several distances; Irving Jaffee of New York, who set a world's outdoor record for the mile at Oslo, Norway, in 1928, and Allan Potts of New York, national indoor champion.

Pitted against these outstanding stars of Canada and the United States will be the Chicago aces, Frank Stack of the Amphion Athletic club, outdoor champion of Illinois and western Canada; Eddie Schroeder of the Walton Arrows, indoor champion of Illinois and northwest title holder; Wally Mitchell of the Majestic S. C., city champion; Ray Wondra of the Amphions, Wisconsin-Illinois titlist, and more than 60 other picked stars.

Two Chicagoans Seek Girls' Title.

Ed Stundl of the Majestic S. C. and Wilbur Marks of the Walton Arrows will defend this city against the invasion of intermediate stars from Canada and the east. Sig Joblonoski and Victor Ronchetti of the Franklin S. C. will try for the North American junior crown.

Majestics and Golan Five on Double Header

The Chicago Bruins' chief rivals for the city basketball championship, the Majestics, will appear on the same floor with the Bruins tonight, when a double basketball bill is scheduled for the Broadway armory.

BUD FOSTER.

The Majestics meet the Golan A. C. in the first game, and the Bruins meet the Rochester Centrals in an American Professional league contest as the afterpiece.

The Majestics, who perform on the west side, have made an enviable record this season. Their lineup includes two former University of Wisconsin luminaries, Bud Foster and Maury Farber, as well as De Paul university's greatest basketball product, Tommy Cunningham. Elmer Hooker and Mark Harper, long stars in Chicago independent ranks, complete the lineup.

Rut Walter Leads Golans.

The Golans also will present a formidable front, headlined by Rut Walter, Northwestern university captain last season, and Herbie Lutz, star forward on the Crane Junior college team which won so many games last year.

In the second game the Bruins will resume their battle for the second half championship in the pro league. They edged out a hard won victory over Rochester Sunday night and hope to repeat this evening, with Benny Borgeman, Whitey Wickhorst, Charley Murphy, Ray Kennedy, and Ralph Miller performing as they did the other night.

Ghost Ball Proves Successful.

Rochester will be no easy mark for the local pros. Tiny Hearn, Allen, Rabin, Hirsch, and Kintzing are tough foes for any team.

The "ghost ball," which proved so successful an experiment the other evening, will be used again tonight. It is a white ball, which enables the spectators to follow the passing, ball handling, and shooting much better than in the case of the ordinary ball.

The lineups:

BRUINS.		ROCHESTER.
Borgeman	L. F.	Allen
Wickhorst	R. F.	Hirsch
Murphy	C.	Hearn
Miller	L. G.	Kintzing

stage as comedy relief in a supervised bout conducted under the humorless gaze of the prize fight commissions. There came a party by the name of Con [Whoops] O'Malley or O'Kelly a couple of years ago who brightened an otherwise solemn evening in a preliminary bout, but when his employers tried to book him back a few weeks later, the prize fight commissioners barred him on the grounds that his harmless absurdity, however it may have delighted the customers, was contrary to the serious purpose of the sport. Better than the customers themselves, the commissioners know what is good for them to see.

The wrestlers may tweak, twist, prod, smack, tickle, heave, bounce, and twine their arms and legs about one another until there is no telling which is which, if either, let alone what they are doing with what degree of sincerity. I have been told that the boys sometimes get together in these little knots on the floor to discuss business, but this probably is just destructive propaganda, as most of them are foreigners with names ending in "opolis" or "wiscz," and probably no two of them speak the same language.

Sitting at the ringside close to Mr. Mulrooney, the commissioner of police, who had come in no professional capacity, but merely as a customer; Mr. Will Carey, the director of the prize fight department of the Garden firm, hitched and twisted in his clair, abandoning himself to utter belief and enjoyment throughout the long exhibition of Mr. Curley's herd.

"And, now," said he at the end, turning to a well known local cynic, "and now I want to ask one favor of you. If this was a fake, please don't tell me anything about it."

"I Hope Your Example Will Compel The Adoption Of Sanitary Methods"

Says

DR. THOS. J. McLAUGHLIN

Chairman State Board of Health, State of Rhode Island

...one of 56 health officials from 56 different points approving Cremo's crusade against spit or spit-tipping.

"Who are the friends of 'Spit'?"

YOU MAY WELL ASK THIS QUESTION WHEN 56 IMPORTANT HEALTH OFFICIALS HAVE WRITTEN SO STRONGLY AGAINST THE EVILS OF SPIT OR SPIT-TIPPING.

Dr. McLaughlin writes: "Permit me to commend you for your crusade against the old-fashioned method of cigar making which involved the use of 'spit'."

STATE BOARD OF HEALTH REGISTRATION

Rhode Island Public Health Commission

THOMAS J. McLAUGHLIN, M. D.

WOONSOCKET, May 21st, 1930.

The American Cigar Company,
#111 Fifth Avenue,
New York, N. Y.

Gentlemen:-

Permit me to commend you for your crusade against the old-fashioned method of cigar making which involved the use of "spit" or "saliva." There are many unsanitary processes still employed in industry which are very difficult to eliminate without the aid of industry itself.

Not only the public officer charged with the responsibility of improving conditions of health generally but every one immediately recognizes that the use of "spit" in the manufacture of cigars is not only unsanitary but has latent dangers to health of great magnitude. I feel it incumbent upon myself, therefore, as a public officer charged with protecting the public health to use this means of telling you that in campaigning against such a method of manufacture you are rendering a public service.

I sincerely hope that your example and your campaign will compel the abandonment of such methods of manufacture of cigars by the industry generally and the adoption by all of the manufacturers of sanitary methods in the manufacture of cigars.

You are at liberty to use this expression of my commendation in the furtherance of your laudable campaign for better sanitation.

Yours very truly,
Thos. J. McLaughlin, M.D.
Chairman State Board of Health
State of Rhode Island.

The war against spit is a crusade of decency. Join it...Smoke Certified Cremo—a really wonderful smoke—mild—mellow—nut-sweet! Every leaf entering the clean, sunny Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Winners Start Slowly, but Finish Fast.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 27.—(AP)—The lowly Philadelphia Quakers turned in one of the most surprising upsets of the current National Hockey league season here tonight by outbattling the Boston Bruins through a rugged overtime game, holding the American division leaders to a 3 to 3 tie.

The Quakers got off to a slow start, but, once accustomed to the soft ice, they skated circles about the bewildered Bruins.

The Bruins, who needed this game badly to keep ahead of the fast traveling Chicago Blackhawks, started off with a rush. George Owen quickly netting an unassisted tally. Wallie Kilrea tied the score with a brilliant individual rush soon after, and Cliff Barton teamed with Jerry Lowery, who netted the goal that gave the Quakers their first lead.

Both teams scored again in the exciting third period, Syd Howe giving the Quakers another lead by bursting through the Boston defense pair unassisted. The Bruins then put on a five man attack and tied the score in a wild mob scene about Goalie Cude's cage.

MAROONS, 2; DETROIT, 1.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 27.—(AP)—A disputed goal figured in the 2 to 1 defeat the Montreal Maroons handed the Detroit Falcons here tonight in a fast, rough National Hockey league game.

The goal, the first of the play, came off the stick of Nels Stuart, Maroon wingman, just as the siren sounded ending the first period. The timekeeper insisted the goal was illegal, saying the siren had sounded before Stuart made his shot. Bobby Hewitson and Vic Wagner, officials, said they did not hear the signal, and announced they would make a report to President Frank Calder of the league, leaving the way open for the Falcons to protest if they so desired.

New York, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Following their custom of playing their best against dangerous rivals, the New York Americans checked the victorious career of the Toronto Maple Leafs by winning a hard fought National league game by a 3 to 2 score tonight. The defeat dropped the Leafs into a tie with the Montreal Maroons for second place in the Canadian division.

STADIUM OFFERS 4 TEN ROUNDERS AT FEB. 4 SHOW

Knute Hansen of Kenosha, Wis., will meet Jose Santa, Portuguese heavyweight, and Georgie Nate, South Bend, Ind., will box Kid Francis at the Stadium Feb. 4, Matchmaker Nate Lewis announced yesterday. These matches complete the card of four ten round bouts.

Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion, and Goldie Hess feature the show in a nontitle bout with Larry Johnson supporting this card against a good opponent, probably Marty Gallagher. Lou Scozza, who stopped Tait Littman of Milwaukee last week, was sought for Johnson, but he did not want to fight, nor did Maxie Rosenbloom, the light heavyweight champion.

Santa is expected to be a drawing card. He is several inches taller than Primo Carnera.

Muskrat Tasty Dish if Baked or Fricasseed

BY BOB BECKER.

Although the flesh of the common muskrat is quite good to eat [we've tried it], thousands of pounds of this meat go to waste each winter. No one seems to care about muskrat fricassee or baked muskrat with stuffing.

The French Canadians found out long ago that this animal can make a savory dish when cooked properly, but in the United States it doesn't go—at least not in the central states. Some time ago we heard that on the eastern coast there were several markets where the flesh of the muskrat was sold as "swamp rabbits." As we never have tried to buy "swamp rabbits," or any kind of rabbits, in eastern states, we cannot vouch for this "market news."

Rat Label a Drawback.

Of course, the muskrat as an article of food can't go into most homes without a feeling against it because it is labeled as a "rat." This water loving animal is not a true rat. And it is much cleaner than some of the animals which we eat without a thought of their origin or habits.

Having tried the meat of a number of our common small mammals, we truthfully can say that we prefer muskrat to squirrels. And that famous delicacy, broiled beaver tail, is not to be compared to a fricassee of muskrat. Same goes for 'possum. A roast 'possum is too heavy and greasy for us.

Here Is a Recipe.

If you have an opportunity to try muskrat meat, here is a recipe worth following: Take just the hind legs and the saddles of at least two animals. When you clean them be sure not to rupture the musk ox gall sac. Place the meat in a pot with a little water, two small onions, pepper, salt, a handful of chopped bacon, and a teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce.

Allow to simmer slowly over the fire until about half done. Then take out the meat and transfer it to a roaster. Place some of the water which was in the pot in the roaster. Baste meat frequently. Cook until done and until meat is browned.

TILDEN, KOZELUH MEET FEB. 25 ON STADIUM COURT

William Tilden II., yesterday signed with the Chicago stadium to meet Karel Kozeluh, world's professional tennis champion, here on Feb. 25, one week after he makes his professional debut in New York city. Tilden will stop off here one day enroute to Hollywood where he will start work on a motion picture on March 4.

Kozeluh, now enroute from Europe to meet Tilden in these professional matches, has already agreed to play in the stadium. Several other matches between outstanding professional players will complete the card.

Chmielewski to Rejoin Mates of 95 Pound Days

Ed Chmielewski, who finished three years competition on Wisconsin's basketball teams last week, will play with his old team mates on the Chicago Big Five. Chmielewski started playing basketball with these boys on a 95 pound team years ago and later starred at Lane Tech High school.

Harmony Races Tonight Match Stack, Schroeder

Chicago's ice aces, headed by Frank Stack, Eddie Schroeder and Elizabeth Du Bois, will compete tonight in the Harmony Athletic club Derby at Garfield park before breaking ranks to invade Oconomowoc, Ottawa, Lake Placid and Saranac Lake in search of skating titles.

Tonight's Derby will be the final local meeting on outdoor ice of Stack and Schroeder, whose duels have provided most of the excitement in the Derbies this season.

Ed Stundl of the Majestic Skating club, who is hailed by Stack as the future champion of North America, will meet another local star of proven ability in Wilbur Marks of the Walton Arrows, in the intermediate race.

Another young star rapidly stepping to the front is Eleanor Thiel of the Walton Arrows, who should provide most of the contention for Elizabeth Du Bois of the Majestic S. C. in the ladies' class A half mile.

HAWKS RECALL ROMNES FROM LONDON SEXTET

Doc Romnes, left wing player of the London Tecumsehs of the International Hockey league, has been recalled by the Chicago Blackhawks. Romnes was loaned to London a month ago, subject to recall at an hour's notice. The rookie forward was the main point winning player in his team's recent spurt, which brought seven straight victories to the Tecumsehs and practically assured them a position in the playoffs. Romnes will be in the Hawks' lineup against the world's champion Montreal Canadiens Sunday night at the Stadium.

Belgian Bike Riders Enter Six Day Race

Adolf Charlier and Roger De Nef, Belgian riders, who starred in the last Chicago and New York six day bicycle races, will ride as a team again in Chicago's twenty-fifth international grind which starts in the Stadium a week from next Sunday. The two Belgians finished third in the race here last November and then went to New York and finished in second place. Manager Chapman looks upon them as one of the strongest Belgian combinations that ever came to America.

Bobby Walthour Jr. and his little cousin, Jimmy, also will ride as a team in the coming race. It will mark the first appearance of Bobby in Chicago in over two years.

Bobby has won six American six day bike races and five of his victories were scored here in Chicago in the Coliseum. He won with Harry Horan, Reggie McNamara, Freddie Spencer, then with McNamara again and won his last race here with Franco Georgetti, the Italian star. Bobby won the last race in the old Madison Square Garden with Freddie Spencer as his mate. Bobby has also finished second six times and third once. Jimmy passed his twenty-first birthday only a month ago. Jimmy has won one race here in Chicago and finished second in another, while he has been fourth twice.

Not only did Indiana envoys offer him a big salary, a three year contract and the alumni pot to boot, but it was intimated, according to this account, that Page, if successful as football coach, would be advanced to succeed Clevenger as athletic director.

IOWA DEFERS ACTION.

Iowa City, Ia., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Action by the house of representatives on a resolution asking investigation of twenty charges against Dr. Walter Jessup, president of the University of Iowa, was deferred until tomorrow, following first reading of the resolution. Among other things, Dr. Jessup is charged with being responsible for the university's expulsion from the western conference two years ago, as a result of irregularities in the athletic department.

The senate educational institutions committee this afternoon began consideration of Gov. Dan Turner's request for an investigation of university affairs by the upper house.

LAKE VIEW PREP QUINTET TAKES 5TH GAME IN ROW

Heavies Whip Schurz; Lights Win.

Lake View heavyweights became leading contenders for the City league championship yesterday by invading the Schurz court for a 26 to 9 victory. It was their fifth win in five starts. All of the players contributed, with Mel Merez, playing his last game before graduation, featuring. The Lake View lights made it a double header by trimming the home team, 14 to 11.

Lane Tech's teams journey to the Waller floor to hand the latter's quintet a pair of defeats, the heavies winning, 19 to 13, and the lights, 36 to 20. Sommer featured for the Lane heavies with nine points, while Beck and Steinbeck were the losers' stars.

Austin scored a double victory over Medill on the losers' court, the heavies taking a 22 to 17 battle, while the lights won more easily, 34 to 19. Hendrickson led the scorers with 11 points.

Hyde Park heavies staged one of the greatest rallies of the season to defeat St. Mel on the south siders' floor, 40 to 38. Lagging at the half, 22 to 9, the City leaguers tied the score at 38 to 38, and Farmer Hadhazy's basket settled it. Hyde Park lights won their first game of the season by trimming St. Mel's, 23 to 14.

Harrison heavies continued their march through the west section by winning an overtime battle from Crane, 29 to 26, on the losers' court. The Crane lights evened the day with a 15 to 10 victory.

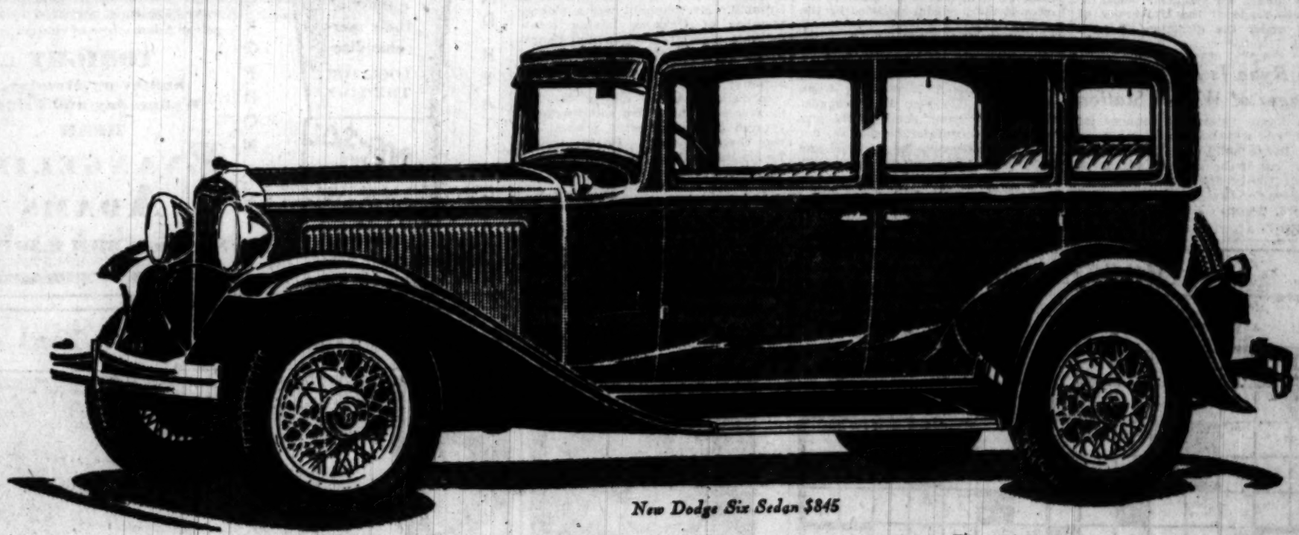
New Beauty now graces DODGE DEPENDABILITY



New Dodge Six Sedan $845

A brilliant advancement of traditional excellence

In introducing a new Six and a new Eight of distinguished beauty, Dodge Brothers have held fast to their basic principle that the most important thing about a motor car is that it be a good motor car.

In giving the new Dodge Six and Eight greater speed and power, Dodge engineers have insisted upon factors of excellence which would insure that this speed and power should be lastingly dependable.

In achieving advanced luxury, longer wheelbases and great riding comfort, Dodge has insisted that these things must be accompanied by even greater basic strength and quality.

Much has been added to these cars in beauty, performance and overall dimensions. Nothing has been subtracted in quality. Yet these cars remain at traditional Dodge price-levels.

The result is value so apparent as to require no strenuous claims nor glowing descriptions—value that the public will be quick to call genuinely great.

MAKING TESTS TO VENTILATE STATEST. SUBWAY

Towers and Electric Fans Are to Be Used.

Champaign, Ill., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—The health and comfort of persons in the proposed State street subway of Chicago have been submitted to the judgment of engineers at the University of Illinois.

For several weeks experiments for the Chicago "tube" have been under way at the university under the direction of Prof. A. C. Willard, head of the department of mechanical engineering, acting as consultant on ventilation for the bureau of subways, Chicago. Prof. Willard served in a like capacity for the Hudson river vehicular tunnel, connecting New York and New Jersey.

The ventilation problem, as it relates to the Chicago subway, centers around the problem of how to best introduce 2,900,000 cubic feet of outside air into the subway every minute, which is needed for health, and at the same time so introduce it as to provide the maximum of comfort during sultry periods.

Provide Cooling Effect.

Since it is economically impossible to artificially cool the air in the subway, the ventilating system will be designed to so introduce the air for ventilation or respiration as to maintain an appreciable air movement, or "cooling effect," throughout the structure whenever the atmospheric conditions would otherwise become uncomfortable, as, for example, during the afternoon rush hours on hot summer days.

"This 'cooling effect,' produced by the incoming ventilating air, may be varied over a wide range, depending on the number of fans in operation at any one time, which, in turn, depends on the number of people in the subway and the heat generated in consequence of their presence," Prof. Willard said.

Ventilating Towers.

The proposed subway, the roof of which will be approximately eight feet below the present pavement level of State street, will have the subway trains running on the lowest level, with a mezzanine story above which will be on the level with the downstairs entrances to State street buildings.

The air for the subway will be introduced both at the lower train level and also at the upper or mezzanine level through special ventilating towers supplied from air ducts running just under the station platforms.

To provide air for the subway intakes and outlets, towers, some of them seventy-five feet high, will be constructed on land adjacent to State street. These tall, narrow buildings will be equipped with electric fans to force the air into the subway.

The solving of subway ventilation problems is not new to Prof. Willard. In order to secure data for the design of the novel ventilating system supplying air to nearly two miles of underwater tunnel roadways in the $50,000,000 New York-New Jersey vehicular tunnel, an elaborate series of tests was made at the University of Illinois under the direction of Prof. Willard.

SWEDISH FLYER, HERO OF NOBILE RESCUE, KILLED

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Death today closed the adventurous career of Capt. Einar-Paal Lundborg, Swedish airman, who rescued Gen. Umberto Nobile after the destruction of the airship Italia on an ice floe in the Aretic.

He died this evening from injuries suffered a few hours before in the crash of a plane he was testing at Malmslaett flying field for the Sweden government. Although both arms and legs were fractured in the accident, it was expected that his strong constitution would pull him through. A relapse came, however, and he sank rapidly.

Served Under Four Flags.

Capt. Lundborg served as a soldier under four flags, but his major achievement was the rescue of Gen. Nobile. He was a member of the Swedish rescue expedition and on the night of June 24, 1928, set out in a Fokker machine to seek the survivors of the Italia disaster. He managed to land his machine, an exceptionally difficult task under the wind and ice conditions prevailing, took the Italian commander on board, and returned to his base safely.

Later when he returned to the floe to rescue the remaining survivors his plane upset on landing and he was marooned with them for twelve days. A brother officer, Lieut. Birger Schyberg, finally took him to safety in a small machine.

Furnished Music in Arctic.

Among the stories told of the Swedish airman during the harrowing fortnight he spent on the rapidly disintegrating ice floe was one of how he set up a portable radio and broadcast a greeting to his wife in Stockholm on her birthday.

His personal equipment on the dangerous Arctic flight included a revolver and a mouth organ—the gun in case wild animals prowled too near the primitive camp and the mouth organ to cheer the flagging spirits of the marooned men.

After the Italia rescue Capt. Lundborg went to Rome to testify in the investigation of the disaster and later visited the United States. For his rescue of Gen. Nobile he received the first gold merit medal awarded by the Swedish Aviation society.

Father Was a Minister.

Capt. Lundborg's father was a Lutheran minister, but the young man joined the Swedish army when he was 19. He was the youngest cadet in the army school. He was an athlete of considerable ability, but after a year's service he resigned and joined the Germany army. The kaiser gave him the iron cross for service in the field during the war. Capt. Lundborg also fought in the Finnish and Latvian armies against Russia.

RITES TODAY FOR MRS. FRANCES M. BARRETT, AGE 96

Funeral services for Mrs. Frances M. Barrett, 96 years old, who died Monday afternoon from pneumonia at the Windermere West hotel, will be held at 11:30 o'clock this morning from Trinity Episcopal church, 26th street and Michigan avenue. Mrs. Barrett was a resident of Chicago for more than 60 years. Interment will be in Oakwoods cemetery. Services will be conducted by the Rev. John R. Pickells, rector of Trinity church.

Mrs. Barrett was the widow of Oliver W. Barrett, who for many years was the superintendent of the American Express company here.

William Oliphant, Veteran of '61, to Be Buried Today

Funeral services for William B. Oliphant, 90 years old, who died Sunday, will be held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home, 832 South Marshfield avenue, with burial at Rosehill. Mr. Oliphant was a pioneer plumber of Chicago, having established a shop at Madison and Sangamon streets in 1867. He was captain of Company E, 51st Illinois Volunteer Infantry, during the civil war. He was believed to be among the last survivors of the Union soldiers incarcerated in Andersonville prison. He was there 9 months. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Maria M. Oliphant, 85 years old, and five children.

FRANK HARTMANN, 81 years old, who died Sunday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Clara Ware, 2833 Lexington street, was buried yesterday at Arlington cemetery. He came to Chicago from Germany in 1852.

THREE INJURED AS AUTO CRASHES INTO REAR OF BUS

Three women were injured and a dozen other persons shaken up yesterday when an automobile crashed into the rear of a motor coach at Michigan avenue and Pearson street. The injured are Mrs. Gwendolyn Siegal, 6418 North Maplewood avenue; Mrs. Ruth Spelman, 6331 North Maplewood avenue, and Miss Nanna Roseboom, 1120 Lake Shore drive. They were taken to the Passavant hospital.

The accident occurred when the bus stopped for a traffic light. Joseph Kiederlen, 3352 North Marshfield avenue, was driving his car behind the bus and crashed into it.

Walter Anderson, 38 years old, 3725 Palmer street. Died at the Lutheran Memorial hospital of injuries received on Sunday when struck by an automobile while crossing Cortland street at Humboldt boulevard. The driver was George Bond, 2933 North Kolmar avenue.

Unidentified man, believed from a card in his pocket to have been Michael Stadler of 6129 South Kedzie avenue. Fatally injured when struck by the machine of a hit and run driver in 55th street near Maplewood avenue.

2 ZEIGLER HEIRS WILL SHARE 9 MILLION ESTATE

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Miss Katharine Weston Ziegler, a senior at Vassar college, and her brother, S. Lewis Ziegler Jr., 23, of Haverford, will share part of an estate of more than $9,000,000 in which their mother the late Mrs. May Weston Ziegler, widow of Dr. Lewis Ziegler, noted ophthalmologist, held a life interest.

In an inventory filed here today it was disclosed that Mrs. Ziegler left $545,993 in addition to an interest of about one-fifth of the trust estate over which she had right of distribution. Miss Ziegler and her brother, therefore, will divide equally about $2,400,000.

Mrs. Ziegler, who died in December, 1929, left $50,000 to her sister Miss Katharine J. Weston; $25,000 to Bucknell university to endow a hospital, and $5,000 to the Presbyterian hospital in this city. The rest was left to the son and daughter.

RITES TODAY FOR C. & N. W. VETERAN WHO DIED AT 97

Wellington Stetson, who took "time out" from his job with the Chicago and North Western railroad for three years so that he could fight with the Union armies in the civil war, and who had been a pensioner of the company for the last 30 years, is to be buried this afternoon in Graceland cemetery.

Mr. Stetson, who was in his 97th year, died Monday at his home at 218 North Mason avenue. He was No. 77 on the pension roll of the road and had been on the pension list longer than any other living veteran. At the time of his retirement in 1901 he had served the railroad for 43 years and 10 months. No near relatives survive him.

• Pills Don't Cure • Correct Trouble • With Yeast •

Pills ... Pills ... PILLS!

You probably know what it is. It's eating Fleischmann's fresh Yeast—the food that world-famous physicians recommend for health!

These doctors say, "If you want to correct constipation permanently, simply eat three cakes of fresh yeast every day. A food, yeast acts gently—naturally. Eat it regularly, and results are sure."

The secret is that Fleischmann's Yeast both softens the clogging waste masses in the intestines and at the same time stimulates the natural action that helps remove them regularly. Thus normal elimination is restored. Poison-breeding food residue is promptly cleared away.

Soon appetite returns with childhood's zestfulness. Digestive secretions are fostered and food digests better. Your complexion freshens. Pep returns. You are through with pills for good!

Isn't it time you tried it? Just ask for Fleischmann's Yeast at any grocery, restaurant or soda fountain. Every cake is rich in three health-giving vitamins—B, G and D. Directions are on the label.

Eat FLEISCHMANN'S YEAST for Health—3 Cakes a Day

Always ask for Fleischmann's fresh Yeast (with the yellow label) ::: the only yeast "irradiated" to give it the Sunshine Vitamin D! Rich in Vitamins B and G, too.

6 YOUTHS ESCAPE IN FREE-FOR-ALL IN REFORMATORY

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 27.—(AP)—While a free-for-all fight raged in a cottage at the Annandale state reformatory tonight half a dozen youthful prisoners made a successful break for liberty.

A fight of almost riot proportions started among the fifty or sixty Negro and white inmates gathered for study hour and state police were sent for.

The inmates range from 16 to 24 years old. They battled with fists and no gun play was reported. There is no wall around the institution and six of the lads dashed out of the grounds to liberty.

REPORT SHOWS HOW U. S. STEEL WEATHERS 1930

Net Income Equals $9.12 Per Share.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The United States Steel corporation again has demonstrated its ability to weather depression. Despite the smallest earnings for any year since 1914 and the poorest fourth quarter since 1914, the big corporation last year more than earned its dividends. Furthermore, the directors yesterday manifested their confidence in the future by declaring the regular quarterly payment of $1.75 on the common stock, thus continuing the present $7 annual rate.

Net income of U. S. Steel for 1930 was $194,465,774, equivalent after preferred dividends to $9.12 a share on the common stock. This result was accomplished despite the fact that net income for the final quarter was only $21,345,985, even including a credit of $3,347,186 from income tax returns and year-end adjustments. This net income was equivalent to about 70 cents a share. While the common stock dividend thus was not earned in the fourth quarter, still the larger profits derived in the fore part of the year enabled the corporation to add $24,101,175 to its surplus after paying dividends.

Parallel Those of 1927.

Naturally earnings of U. S. Steel make poor comparisons with those of 1929, when net income was $197,592,-[illegible], or $21.19 a share. And net income for the fourth quarter of 1929 was $39,972,358, or $4.14 a share. But taking the year's earnings as a whole they are closely comparable with those of 1927, when $9.30 a share was earned on the common stock.

As to the near future of U. S. Steel and the steel industry, it is to be considered that the situation has improved since the latter months of 1930. Steel production has increased substantially, with the big corporation now running close to 50 per cent of capacity, and usually February and March are fairly busy months. Moreover, steel prices have advanced modestly and this factor, coupled with the fact that operations are more economical as production increases, promises better earnings.

Two other steel companies also earned their dividends comfortably last year. Inland Steel reported net income of $6,493,967, equivalent to $8.6 a share, while the annual dividend rate is $4 a share. Net income in 1929 was $11,712,374, or $9.76 a share. Jones & Laughlin had net income of $9,093,287, equivalent to $8.64 a share on the common stock, which pays $6 annually. Net income for 1930 was $20,848,749 or $29.04 a share.

Trade News Mixed.

Other news of trade and industry was mixed yesterday. Gradual improvement in trade was suggested by the weekly data on the railroad movement of commodities. Loading of revenue freight for the week ended Jan. 17 totaled 725,938 cars, an increase of 11,687 over the preceding week but a decline of 121,217 from the same week in 1930.

Petroleum production mounted again last week. The daily average gross crude oil output totaled 2,110,-[illegible] barrels, an increase of 16,600 barrels a day over the previous week, according to the American Petroleum institute. The increase resulted primarily from an expansion of 25,750 barrels a day in Oklahoma. Stocks of gasoline increased 1,111,000 barrels to a total of 41,496,000 barrels.

Employment conditions in the middle west were slightly less favorable last month than in November, according to the Chicago federal reserve bank. It marked the fifteenth consecutive month of slackening. The average number employed during 1930 amounted to 86 per cent of the number in 1929, and weekly pay rolls in 1930 averaged 77 per cent of the 1929 average.

Improvement in the meat packing industry occurred last month. Production totaled 18 per cent greater than in November and was only 2 per cent lower than in December, 1929.

Hang Up New World's Hog Trucking Record in Iowa

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Sioux City, Ia., Jan. 27.—A new world record for hogs trucked to a live stock market was set at the Sioux City stock yards today when up to 1 o'clock 18,850 head had been received in that manner. The total delivery by rail and trucks was 22,581.

North Western Railway Will Try Out 2c Passenger Fare

The Chicago and North Western railway is the latest road to try out the low priced passenger fares as a possible stimulant to passenger traffic. The two cent fare, a 45 per cent reduction from the regular 3.6 cent rate, will go into effect on seven sections of the North Western's lines on Feb. 1 for a three month experiment, it was announced yesterday.

"By setting April 30 as the expiration date and by choosing districts in almost every state served by this railway, we expect to be able to reach a fair decision on the advisability of low fare rates. If successful the experiment will be extended to other parts of the North Western system," said C. A. Cairns, passenger traffic manager.

Sections for Test.

The sections over which the fares will be effective are: Madison to Platteville and Lancaster, Wis.; Green Bay to Laona, Wis.; Sterling to Peoria, Ill.; Rochester to Tracy, Minn.; Watertown to Gettysburg, S. D.; Des Moines to Algona, Ia., and Norfolk to Niobrara, Neb. and intermediate points.

Reflecting the effectiveness of retrenchment, net income of the Chicago and North Western for December showed an increase of $1,069,190 over the same month a year ago, although gross earnings for the month showed a substantial decline in the same comparison.

December gross amounted to $8,726,-872, as against $10,905,620 in December, 1929. Net operating income was $1,135,523, as compared with $66,333 in the same month a year ago.

For 1930 the company reports gross revenues of $130,030,474, and net income of $17,432,851, as against $154,-732,947 and $26,220,149, respectively, in 1929. The 1929 gross included back mail pay of $1,349,493.

Missouri Pacific Reports.

The Missouri Pacific railroad had preliminary net income for 1930 of $6,713,641, compared with $12,217,763 in 1929. Net for last year equals $9.35 a share on the 5 per cent preferred stock, on which there is an accumulation of unpaid dividends. Allowing for only the 5 per cent annual dividend requirements on the preferred, the balance is equal to $3.77 a share on the common. This compares with $17,01 a share earned on the preferred and $10.41 a share on the common in 1929.

Preliminary net income of the Norfolk and Western railroad for 1930 was $31,816,765, equal to $21.96 a share on the common, against $41,786,461, or $29.05 a share, in 1929.

Net operating income of the Northern Pacific railway in 1930 decreased $7,117,131 as compared with 1929. The monthly report of revenues and expenses lists operating income for last year as $14,293,213 as compared with $21,410,344 in 1929.

Baltimore and Ohio.

Baltimore and Ohio reported net operating income for 1930 of $40,248,614, against $49,184,110 for the preceding year. Gross totaled $206,660,435, compared with $245,418,776. For December net operating income was $3,067,-790, compared with $2,441,903; gross $13,798,818, against $17,124,170 for December, 1929.

Preliminary net income of the Wabash for last year was $3,781,755, ance is equal to $3.77 a share on the equal to 29 cents a common share, against $7,854,404 in 1929, equal to $5.68 a share on the combined "A" preferred and common stocks.

The first thirty-three railroads reporting December earnings had net operating income of $19,256,000, a decrease of 36.4 per cent from $30,312,000 reported by the same railroads for December, 1929. The compilation includes the report of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois, which includes charges of $4,700,000 for special retirement of equipment in its December report, net operating deficit for that month for the road amounting to $4,815,441.

Show 20.3% Decline.

Excluding the C. & E. I. figures, the 32 roads had December net operating income of $24,071,000, a decline of 20.3 per cent from their figures for December, 1929. Roads reporting December net operating income today, with comparisons with last year, included:

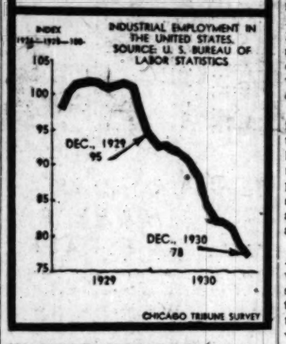
Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific reported for 1930 net operating income of $15,954,548, contrasted with $26,274,323 for the preceding year, a decrease of $10,319,775. Gross operating revenue totaled $142,269,632, against $171,361,385 for 1929, including $237,538 back mail pay, o: $28,-791,753.

December net operating income was $833,475, against $1,456,616, for the same month a year previous, down $623,141; gross, $9,927,508, compared with $12,225,758, a decline of $2,-298,250.

INDUSTRIAL EMPLOYMENT AT THE END OF 1930 WAS AT THE LOW POINT OF THE YEAR



GOV'T UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE PROPOSAL RAPPED BY EDGERTON

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Proposals for government unemployment insurance today met uncompromising opposition of John E. Edgerton, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, who said it would "subsidize idleness."

Speaking before the national conference on permanent preventives of unemployment, meeting here under the auspices of the church organizations, he said the economic safety of the country lay in thrift and conservation of surplus earnings by individuals as well as by industry.

Edgerton saw little hope for permanent relief from droughts, storms "and other natural disruptions of normality resulting in losses of balance between production and distribution."

Good business men, he added, put aside surpluses out of their business earnings to take them through these recurring periods, and "those businesses which can and do make such provisions weather the storms."

"If this has demonstrated itself to be a sound and wise business practice for corporations and other combinations of capital, then it is just as sound and wise for individuals," he asserted.

"Public unemployment insurance would not only be in conflict with but subversive of tested theories of government. With one hand the government would be wringing money from one class of citizens and passing it on in doles with the other hand to other groups of citizens.

"New and unparalleled opportunities for graft and political self-perpetuation would thus be created for politicians already too fat upon misappropriated power."

Cites Changing Fashions in Investment Demand

BY SCRUTATOR.

Fashions in investment change rather rapidly in the United States. During the boom days of 1928 and 1929 common stocks were all the rage; so popular did they become that many of the largest corporations sold additional stock and eliminated their fixed obligations.

Toward the latter end of the period investment trusts of the management type had a spectacular career. So highly was management regarded that most of the large investment companies of this kind saw their own securities sell at prices far above the asset values of the underlying stocks and other paper in their portfolios.

This, of course was overoptimism. And as a bull market tended to overvalue the worth of such managements, so a depressed market forced most of the investment company stocks down to a point that was below the asset values. In some cases 20 to 50 per cent below the breakup value was not unusual in the recent past; it was all that investors and speculators would offer for stocks under management.

Becomes Good Customer.

This same recent past has seen a considerable increase in the sales of fixed investment trust securities, and interesting developments have occurred as a result of this. Many brokerage houses, as an instance, are finding the fixed trust among their best customers in times that are not so productive as they might be of commissions.

Another point in regard to the setup of these fixed or semi-fixed trusts has aroused some fears that such organizations might get full control of some of the popular operating corporations whose stock they are holding. On the face of it the possibility exists. Only about a hundred of the strongest corporations have their stocks held in considerable volume in fixed trusts. Continued sales of fixed trusts, it has been feared, might cut down the floating supplies of such stocks and perhaps place unwarranted power in the hands of the fixed trusts' trustees.

The question is largely academic. An analysis of the holdings of twenty-five fixed trusts, just made, showed that of thirty popular operating company stocks, less than 1 per cent of the total issued by the operating companies was in the trusteeship of these trusts. However, because there has been some discussion, and in order to give fixed trust investors their rights c. control, certain of the fixed trust managements have decided to pass on to them the voting power belonging to the original shares.

Achieves Diversification.

The present popularity of the fixed trust shares may be continued into the future. The setup is a favorable method of getting good stocks and diversification. Likewise it places definite restrictions on the management as to buying and selling. Its faults, as they appear, doubtless will be due to the inflexibility. Provisions generally in force make it possible to sell underlying securities only after they have passed dividends or have suffered a loss in rating, or in other words after their market value has considerably depreciated.

The assumption is that of thirty or more stocks, a number of them ten or fifteen years hence will show a considerable appreciation in value; enough to make up, and more, any losses suffered through underlying investments that go sour, and also to justify the fixed trust investor for the 8 per cent or more he pays originally for the service he gets.

It is quite possible that this can occur without the intervention of any magic, which seems to have been what the public was expecting of its management trust companies before the 1929 crack in values.

A. & P. COMPANY BOOSTS DIVIDEND RATE TO $6 A YR.

The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company, chain store operators, yesterday declared a quarterly dividend of $1.50 a common share, increasing the annual rate to $6 from $5.

The usual extra dividend of 35 cents a share and the regular quarterly of 40 cents were declared by directors of United Engineering and Foundry company on the common stock. Paragon Refining company has declared a liquidating dividend of $2 a share on the common stock. This is the second to be paid.

Directors of the International Business Machines corporation declared the regular quarterly of $1.50 a share.

Poor & Co. declared a quarterly dividend of 37½c per share on the class "A" stock. The directors have suspended the dividends on the class "B" stock until business conditions warrant its resumption.

New York, Jan. 27.—Mixed trading was the rule on the stock exchange today and closing prices were pretty much of a standoff. There was no particular pressure against any section of the list, but, on the other hand, traders were plainly shy of the buying side.

Professionals were ostensibly waiting publication of the United States Steel corporation's final quarterly report for 1930 before branching out anew in either direction. The rank and file were just waiting—and taking precious good care to keep to the side lines while doing it. Many observers were saying that a corrective reaction was in order around these levels and evidently this sentiment was more widely shared than appeared on the surface.

Changes Are Narrow.

With such an attitude, price changes are necessarily confined to very narrow limits. There were exceptions to the rule as there usually are. There were some really strong spots scattered throughout the list. Auburn Auto, for instance, jumped nearly 6 points and held 4⅛ of its gain to the finish. Warren Bros. is reported to be taking large road making contracts; Twin Cities Rapid Transit on speculative buying accompanied by board room reports that earnings of the corporation are fairly good with respect to price; Industrial

STUDEBAKER CORP. PLACES COMMON ON $1.20 ANNUAL BASIS

Directors of the Studebaker corporation at a meeting held yesterday announced a quarterly dividend of 30 cents a share, against 75 cents previously, placing the common on a $1.20 annual basis. The year's rate represents a reduction of $1.30 from the 1930 rate. The dividend is payable March 2 to owners of record Feb. 10.

Reports had been current in Wall street for some time that the board would reduce annual payments. The actual change yesterday had little or no effect on the shares of Studebaker.

Earnings for the first nine months of 1930 slumped to $1.23 a share, compared with $6.72 a share in the corresponding 1929 period, and the report for the full year 1930, to be issued soon, is expected to show only a small amount earned in the final quarter.

Applying Modern Trust Services To Corporation Needs

No matter what the fiduciary needs of a corporation may be, the trust services of this Bank can be used with advantage, not only by the corporation itself but also by the underwriters of the corporation's bonds, notes or stocks. As depositary in reorganizations, as trustee under corporate indentures, as stock transfer agent or registrar, and as dividend-disbursing, coupon-paying, fiscal or escrow agent—in all of these capacities, this Bank has both comprehensive and specialized experience

THREE ATTRACTIVE BONDS

The rapid absorption of the new offerings of high grade bonds indicates a wide-spread interest in genuine investment quality, and a supply of funds which forecasts further strengthening of current bond price levels.

We believe the three bonds listed below are very attractive at their present prices.

	PRICE	YIELD
PACIFIC GAS AND ELECTRIC CO. • FIRST & REF. 4½s, DUE 1960	98	4.62%
INLAND STEEL CO. • FIRST MORTGAGE 4½s, DUE 1981	96½	4.68%
MISSOURI PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY • FIRST & REF. 5s, DUE 1981	95	5.25%

• Pacific Gas and Electric Company
FIRST & REFUNDING 4½s, DUE 1960 • One of the foremost public service corporations in the country. Its electric business is 52 years old and the gas business 77 years. Earnings, showing consistent and substantial growth, cover interest by wide margin. Company's common and preferred stocks, at current market, show an equity of approximately $370,000,000 above the funded debt.

• Inland Steel Company
FIRST MORTGAGE 4½s, DUE 1981 • The second largest producer of steel in the Chicago district. Funded debt consists of $43,000,000 First Mortgage Bonds. Tangible assets applicable to this debt total $105,000,000. Earnings for interest in 1930 were about 4½ times the requirement. Earnings were no less than that in each of the last five years.

Missouri Pacific Railroad Company
FIRST & REFUNDING 5s, DUE 1981 This railroad operates more than 7450 miles of road. Total fixed charges were covered on the average about 1½ times in the last five years. Present market value of securities junior to these bonds is approximately $183,000,000.

CHICAGO STOCKS PUSH FORWARD IN LATE TRADING

Reappoint Alter Company Grigsby Dealer.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Some irregularity prevailed in the fore part of yesterday's trading session on the Chicago exchange, but the last hour of trading saw a number of leading stocks forge ahead to finish with fair net gains for the day. The late rally was centered in the Insull shares.

The current attention accorded the motor shares was reflected in the market performances of Noblitt Sparks and Cord. The latter issue was turned over in the heaviest volume in some time and was bid up 3¼. Activity in the stock developed with the strength shown by Auburn on the New York exchange. Noblitt advanced over a point on moderate sales. Bendix and Borg Warner, which have monopolized the attention of speculation in motor shares recently, were easier.

U. S. Radio Strong.

U. S. Radio was an outstanding strong spot in the list with a gain of 2¾. Cities Service and Middle West Utilities turned over in substantial volume and were fractionally higher at the close. The latter issue was bid up to 23 in the last few minutes of trade, while Insull Utility advanced to 42¾ on sales of about 10,000 shares.

Both Majestic and Grigsby were easier on slight sales. A resumption of the distribution agreement with the Harry Alter company was announced last night by Chairman B. J. Grigsby. The agreement was abruptly broken off a few months ago when it was announced by W. C. Grunow, who was then president, that the Grigsby companies would handle their own distribution in the Chicago area. The reappointment of the Alter company as Chicago distributing agent follows the reorganization of the Grigsby-Majestic personnel, which resulted in the retirement of Grunow as president.

Lindsay Light company late yesterday issued their annual statement, showing net earnings for the fiscal year ended Dec. 31 of $95,851, equivalent to $1.33 a share on the common stock after preferred dividends. In 1929 the company reported a net profit of $90,091, or $1.17 a share.

Include Tax Refund.

The 1929 earnings included a federal tax refund and profit on the purchase of preferred stock, which amounted to about $11,500. Preferred stock outstanding at the end of 1930 amounted to $226,090 as compared with $281,690 at the close of the preceding fiscal period.

A. M. Castle & Co.'s annual report shows earnings after all charges of $365,195, equivalent to $3.04 a share on the common stock, as compared with $847,826, or $7.07 a share in 1929. Dividends paid during the year exceeded net profits by $84,895. Surplus at the close of the period stood at $2,376,263, compared with $2,451,158 at the end of 1929.

EARLY CONFIRMATION EXPECTED OF MEYER'S RESERVE APPOINTMENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—Early confirmation by the senate of President Hoover's appointment of Eugene Meyer as governor of the federal reserve board seemed likely today when several witnesses denied before a subcommittee of the senate banking and currency committee insinuations that two members were forced off the board to make room for him.

Witnesses were Roy A. Young, former governor of the federal reserve board and now governor of the federal reserve bank of Boston; George R. Rand, president of the Marine Midland corporation, of which Edmund Platt, former vice governor of the federal reserve board, is a vice president, and Alfred A. Cook, a New York attorney and a brother-in-law of Mr. Meyer. All denied the charge by Representative Louis T. McFadden [Rep., Pa.], chairman of the house banking and currency committee, that the resignations of Mr. Young as governor and of Mr. Platt, who resigned in the same federal reserve district as Mr. Meyer, were brought about to make possible Mr. Meyer's selection. Under the law not more than one member may come from any district.

Mr. Young insisted that he resigned solely because of the opportunity to better himself financially. He receives $30,000 in his present post while his salary as governor of the federal reserve board was only $12,000. Mr. Rand said he was instrumental in inducing Mr. Platt to accept a vice presidency of his corporation at a salary of $22,000. Mr. Cook denied he had acted as go-between in any negotiations relative to Mr. Meyer's appointment.

BUSINESS PERSONALS

Frank W. Waddell, well known in the packing industry here, has been appointed inspector, weigher and registrar of provisions for the Chicago Board of Trade. He succeeds William L. Gregson, resigned. In 1927 he became vice president of the Miller & Hart company, but left that company a few months ago.

T. Clifford Rodman has become associated with the Chicago office of Shields & Co.

Edwin W. Krauter has joined the staff of Albert Frank & Co., Chicago, as director of art. Since 1923 Mr. Krauter has been active in the commercial art of Chicago, and has had wide experience in national magazine campaigns as well as newspaper advertising.

Theodore Tefft Weldon will address the Chicago Financial Advertisers at their weekly meeting in the Palmer house today. Mr. Weldon is second vice president of the Foreman-State Trust and Savings bank.

A. W. Schweat will retire as a partner from R. A. Gerstenberg & Co. on Jan. 31. R. A. and C. W. Gerstenberg will handle only their personal business after Feb. 1. Charles A. Peck is to retire from C. A. Peck, and Ransum R. Kalbfleisch will withdraw as a partner in Auerbach, Pollak & Richardson, New York City, on Jan. 31. Mr. Kalbfleisch will form a partnership with Ragner E. Hedberg to be known as Kalbfleisch & Hedberg.

John Matter of the Davis company was elected to membership on the Board of Trade yesterday.

Arrangements have been completed for the sale of a membership on the Chicago Stock exchange for $19,000, up $1,000 from the last sale.

Board of Trade Suspends P. K. Corcoran of Duluth

Duluth, Minn., Jan. 27.—(AP)—P. K. Corcoran, head of Corcoran & Co., Duluth grain commission firm suspended from the Chicago Board of Trade today because of insolvency, was barred from trading on the local exchange about two weeks ago. The company has been in Duluth about two years. Reports at the local board were the company suffered setbacks in flax dealings.

FINANCIAL NOTES

Formation of National Trust Shares, a new fixed trust, under the sponsorship of Dillon, Read & Co., was announced yesterday with the publication of the list of securities included in its portfolio. Each unit of underlying stocks of National Trust consists of the common shares of 37 American companies. National Trust shares are issued in ratio of 50,000 shares for each unit of stocks.

Stockholders of H. F. Wilcox Oil and gas company on Feb. 9 will vote on the advisability of decreasing the reclassification of 2,400,000 shares of authorized capital stock into 1,150,000 shares of no par common and 50,000 shares of convertible preferred stock of $100 par value.

Announcement was made by the reorganization committee of the Wickwire Spencer Steel company that there have been deposited under the amended plan of reorganization, dated July 28, 1930, over 78 per cent of the first mortgage bonds and prior lien bonds; over 85 per cent of the class A notes, and over 86 per cent of the class B notes. In the opinion of the reorganization committee it is advisable to defer carrying out the reorganization under the amended plan until general business conditions improve. The reorganization committee will continue to receive deposits of securities.

Durham Duplex Razor company of Manhattan has filed a notice of reduction of capital stock from $2,569,750 to $1,010,840 with the secretary of state of New York.

The interstate commerce commission has approved the application of the Chicago Great Western Railroad company to issue $3,681,603 promissory notes.

Texas Power and Light.

Can you please tell me if Texas Power and Light company bonds due in 1956 are a sound investment? Thank you.—J. H.

Texas Power and Light company is controlled through ownership of the entire common stock by Southwestern Power and Light company and is under the supervision of Electric Bond and Share company. It supplies electric light and power to 290 communities in Texas.

The company recently issued $4,000,000 additional first and refunding mortgage 5 per cent bonds, due Nov. 1, 1956. These bonds, together with $24,400,000 already outstanding, are secured by a first mortgage on a substantial portion of the company's property, including generating stations with a combined capacity of 45,000 k. w., 262 miles of transmission lines, and distribution systems in 33 communities, and by a mortgage on the balance of the property subject to $25,182,000 first 5s due in 1937.

In the twelve months ended Nov. 30, 1930, net earnings amounted to $5,368,860, which was 2.47 times the annual interest requirements on the $43,405,000 mortgage bonds outstanding, including this issue.

The 5s, due in 1956, are considered high grade, a suitable investment for a business man's funds.

Atlantic Fruit and Sugar.

I own Atlantic Fruit and Sugar company 8 per cent income debentures, due Jan. 1, 1949. Have received no interest on same for a number of years. The last quotation I saw was $30. They cost me $987. Have been unable to get any information about the bonds or the present status of the company. Can you get us uc?—O. B. B.

Atlantic Fruit and Sugar company operates sugar and banana plantations and freight steamers. Each year since 1924 the company has operated at a loss. In 1928 and 1929 deficits were reported before interest charges. Poor results have been due to depression in the sugar industry and increased competition.

The company does not make interim reports of earnings. Its report for the year 1930 will probably be published some time in March.

No interest has been paid on the income debenture 8s, due Jan. 1, 1949, which were issued under a plan of reorganization dated June 1, 1922. There is a first mortgage issue ahead of them.

The market for these bonds appears to be weak. In September, 1930, they were being quoted at bid prices ranging from $1.50 to $2.25 per $100 face value of bond.

Top yesterday, $9.40; average, $8.80.

Hog receipts dropped off again yesterday and prices held steady, but are on a par with the lowest level in recent years. The general average was unchanged at $7.55, which equals the lowest average since July, 1924, and compares with $10.20 on the corresponding day in 1930.

The price range continues unusually wide, top light weights selling upwards to $8.25 again on yesterday's market. A slow demand for fresh pork made some local packers indifferent bidders. Receipts at 31,000 were 13,000 below expectations, and smallest for Tuesday since middle of December. Five western markets expect 73,000 for today, against 85,800 last Wednesday.

Hog Futures Slow.

The hog futures market continued slow, with most bids about in line with Monday's bids. March and April light hogs were offered at $9.25 and bid $8.75, while mediums for March were offered at $8.60 and bid $8.35. March heavy grades were offered at $7.80 and bid $7.50.

On the "to arrive" market light hogs were bid $8.10 for today's delivery, but $8.20 was the lowest offer.

Cattle gained strength when receipts dropped short again yesterday, some of the medium to good grades showing slight gains in midseason. No top yearlings were available. The best steers here average 1,302 lbs. at $12. The bulk sold at $8.25@11.00.

Butcher stock continued slow, and barely steady. Calves advanced 25@50c. Stockers and feeders were scarce and steady. Cattle receipts at the 20 leading markets in two days have decreased 22,000 head, or about 20 per cent.

Lambs Mostly Steady.

Bulk of fat lambs held steady yesterday, although some top kinds showed slight reduction in midseason. Most handy weights sold to packers at $9.25@9.35, while city butchers paid $9.40 for a few lots. Prime 95@97 lb averages were bought at $9, and unfinished fed western stock ranged downwards to $8.50.

Aged sheep and yearlings were unchanged. Feeding and shearing lambs ruled stronger, some 75 lb fleshy shearing stock going to country buyers at $8.40.

LOSSES IN LARD SMALL

Enough buying developed in lard yesterday to absorb the hedging sales and hold values within a narrow range. The close in futures was unchanged to 2½c lower. Liverpool lard was unchanged to 6d lower. Export clearances were 3,704,473 lbs and of bacon 367,500 lbs. Packers are hedging bellies against their output with offerings fairly well taken, prices holding steady on futures while cash bellies were ¼c lower.

Hog receipts were smaller than a week ago, but exceeded last year's. Market was generally steady. Prices follow:

HOUSEHOLD LOANS
ON PLEASANT TERMS

The Household Loan Plan offers cash loans of $50 to $300 to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.

Loans above $100 and up to $300 are made at a rate almost one-third lower than the lawful maximum.

Interest is paid by the month and charge is made only for the actual number of days the money is in use. There are no fees or fines.
